BOSTONS FIRST TOWN-HOUSE
1657-1711

The First State House of Massachusetts

The structure was the scene of many stirring events. It is the "pine statehouse" of Emerson's "Boston Hymn," the "Town Hall" of Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," the scene of Whittier's "The King's Missive."

Mr. George A Clough, formerly city architect of Boston, has made for this volume (1896) a drawing showing the edifice restored in accordance with the contracts and contemporary descriptions. (See also Boston Town Records; the Old State House Memorial, 3rd ed Boston 1885.)

"At that time (1626-33) all the houses there, except three or four at New Plymouth and those which I had, could not be valued worth £200, and now to behold the handsome Houses and Churches in so many Townes as I have named is a wonder. The place in which Boston (the Metropolis) is seated, I knew then for some yeares to be a Swamp and a Pound, now a great Towne, two churches, a gallant Statehouse and more to make it complete, than can be expected in a place so late a wilderness."

(Brief Description of New England and the Severall Townes therein, Samuel Maverick, ab. 1660, printed in Proceedings of Mass. Hist. Soc. I, 247, 2nd series, 1884-85.)

BOSTON HYMN

Ralph Waldo Emerson, 1863

Go cut down the trees in the forest,
  And trim the straightest boughs;
Cut down trees in the forest,
  And build me a wooden house.

Call the people together,
  The young men and the sires,
The digger in the harvest field,
  Hireling and him that hires;

And here in a pine statehouse
  They shall choose men to rule
In every needful faculty
  In Church and State and School.

Foreword

With the permission of Helen[9] Rushmore, Alice[9] Mooney and Gertrude[9] Grimm, I have worked towards bringing "Thomas Joy & His Descendants," compiled by their father James Richard[8] Joy in 1896, up to date. There is much added data, letters, biographies, photographs and a few corrections. Included are the Joy Prairie Centennial Marker Ceremony and my 1938 hurricane experiences.

My thanks for their fine co-operation go especially to the "cousins" of Joy Prairie, Ill., to the descendants of Samuel Newell[8] Joy and to the many "cousins" almost around the world.

Many Joys have been added to the non-descendants of Thomas Joy. Peter Joy has ALMOST been verified as a son of Thomas. These are in the appendix.

The ideal way to keep a family genealogy up to date is to form a committee of descendants of various lines, who would pool their new information, eventually bring out a supplement to this volume and of course correct my errors! This is my hope after seven years of work.

My sincere thanks to all who replied to my many requests for "more information." I only regret there are lines that are at "dead ends." May some descendant be inspired to work on them.

Preface from Thomas Joy and His Descendants

Compiled by James Richard[8] Joy, 1863-1957
Printed New York City 1900

"As this volume will naturally be compared with other family histories . . . the editor cannot forbear to say a few words in explanation of its shortcomings.

"This work marks only the second step toward an adequate genealogy of Thomas Joy and His Descendants. "The Joy Family, by One of Them," Cornelia Catherine[8] (Joy) Dyer, issued 1876, marks the beginning . . . It remains for later researchers to trace the Old World ancestry of Thomas Joy and fill the imperfect sketch of his American descendants . . .

"To all who have co-operated in this work the editor returns grateful appreciation, especially to Edmund Steele[9] Joy, b 1854, of Newark, N. J., who prepared the sketch of Thomas[1] Joy; to Mr. John C. J. Brown, of Boston, an antiquarian; to the heirs of James Frederick[7] Joy of Detroit; of John Dolbeare Waters[8] Joy of Boston; Fred[9] Joy of Boston; Edmund Luther[8] Joy of Newark, N. J.; Horatio Burton[8] Joy of Newark, N. J.; Joy[9] Morton of Chicago.

Thomas Joy, Colonist

The passenger list of the "Constance," Clement Campton, Master, sailing from Gravesend, Eng for Va 24 Oct 1635 includes the name Thomas Joy, aet 22. Several forms of the name, Joye, Jay, Jaye, Gee, were common in Co. Norfolk, Eng & are found in Boston records.

The earliest mention of Thomas Joy, emigrant ancestor of most of the Joys in America, is in records of the Town of Boston, in New England, when "on the 20th of the 12th moneth, called February, 1636" (1637, N.S.) leave was given Thomas Joy to "Buy a peece of ground of our brother Robert Turner, and to have it upon the usuall Condition of inoffensive Carryage."

Thomas Joy was a house carpenter, builder, millwright and Architect, lucrative employments in a new country.
(Hist of New Eng Palfrey I 383)

Joan Gallop who m Thomas[1] Joy 1637, was the daughter of prominent citizen Capt. John & Christabel Gallop of Boston.

The Gallops trace descent from one John "Gollop," who came from the north of England in 1645 and settled in Dorsetshire.
(Gen Hist of Gallup Fam in US John D Gallup Agawam Mass 1893)

Capt. John Gallop m Bridport Eng (St Mary's ch) 19 Jan 1617 Christabel Bruchett.

Capt. John came over in the "Mary & John" 1630. A skillful pilot and Indian trader, his services were accounted of great value to the colony. His wife and daughter remained in England, apparently for the dread of the perils of the sea. July 4 1632 Gov Winthrop wrote Rev John White, Puritan rector of Trinity Church Dorchester Eng:

"I have much difficultye to keepe John Gallop here by reason of his wife will not come. I marvayle at the woman's weaknesse. I pray persuade and further her coming by all means. If she will come let her have the remainder of his wages; if not, let it be bestowed to bring his children, for so he desired. It would be about £40 losse to him to come for her.

Your assured in the Lord's worke,
J Winthrop"

Mr White's persuasion seems to have conquered goodwife Gallop's qualms for in June 1634 Christabel Gallop was enrolled as a member of the First Church Boston to which her husband belonged. It is believed his family came in the "Griffin," Sept 1633, which also brought two Puritan divines, John Cotton and Thomas Hooker, and which Gallop himself piloted to her anchorage.

John Gallop's lands included a house & lot in the most desirable part of Boston with harbor islands, one of which still bears his name. His trading shallop was the principal means of communication between the Bay Colony & the settlements on Narragansett Bay & Long Island Sound. On one occasion when the little vessel, anxiously awaited, was at length sighted, Roger Williams is said to have exclaimed, "God be praised John Gallop has arrived!"

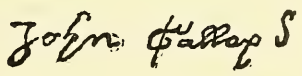
A man of dauntless courage, in July 1636 John Gallop attacked the murderers of his friend John Oldham, off Block Island. With the help of his two young sons and one other man he dispatched or captured fourteen Indians. He served in the fierce campaign which grew out of this incident.

His son John who married Hannah Lake, niece of the younger Winthrop, a man of his father's mettle, was one of the six Captains slain in the Great Swamp Fight in the Narragansett country, 1675. John Gallop, Sr d 11 Jan 1650, his wife Christabel on the "27-7 mo 1655."

Will of John Gallop, dated 20th of the 10th month, 1649:

"To sonne John Gallop my new shallop after my death, to my daughter Joane my heaffer . . . My two youngest sons shall employ my barcke the first year after my decease wholly for their mother, & after one year to have two thirds for themselves & one third for theire mother, & to repair & maintain the barcke themselves, looking for no help from theire mother, only she shall have the third of profitt; also my wife shall have the use of howses, lands & goods, for hir comfortable maintenance so long as shee shall live; after hir decease it shall wholly remayne & be equally divided to my two youngest sonnes Samuel & Nathaniel Gallop, if they carry themselves as obedient children to theire mother; but if they be rebellious then shee shall have liberty to dispose of all as shee shall think Good; & if one sonne die before the other then all to remayne to the other; if both dye before theire mother then my wife shall dispose of all as shee shall thinke Goode.

I doe give to John Joy, my daughter's sonne £5 to be paid to him at 21 years of age & if he dye before it shall remain to his brother Joseph. I doe give forty shillings to the building of the new meeting howse . . . Thus desiring to leave my wife & children & all, unto the wise disposing Providence of Almighty God, desiring his blessing upon them & craving favor of his love to their souls in the Lord Jesus Christ."



John Gallop Sr signed his will with a mark. An eminent antiquarian unthinkingly alluded to him as "Possessing less education than most of our early inhabitants." (NEHGR III 227; Winthrop's Journal I 97). Yet on a paper, existing in 1853, relating to the location of the meeting-house, dated 10 Dec 1639, Gallop's signature is found with a "Considerable number of those of the inhabitants of the town." The above shows it to be an excellent specimen of the chirography of that day. (Drake Hist of Boston 243.)

Extract from thè will of Christabel Gallop:

"Being in perfect memory though weak in body this 24th of the 5th month 1655: I doe give unto my sonne John Gallop, halfe my money, which is about £15, & I doe give him ye bed I lye on, with one boulster, one coverlid & blankett, also one of the best brasse kettles, a sea chest, a great Bible, one pewter platter, one paire of sheetes, one pillowber, five napkins, one holland board cloth; halfe my waring clothes do I give Hannah my sonne John Gallop's wife. I do give to my daughter Joane Joy halfe my money, with one great brasse pot, with one of ye best brasse kettles, one flock bed, two blancketts, also one pair of my best sheetes, one bearing sheete, one odd sheete, one pewter candlestick, one porringer, one pewter platter & five napkins, with halfe my waring clothes. All these do I give to my daughter Joane Joy."
(NE Hist Gen Reg V 444)

The Book of Possessions, that list of early Boston lands & landowners, which Bostonians are fond of calling their "Doomsday Book," describes two lots belonging to Thomas Joy. From the town records, maps and deeds his holdings & transfers of real estate appear to have been considerable. He was early the owner of three tracts of land on the east side of the peninsula.

The Book of Possessions was intended to be an official record of all lands in the town, with description & ownership, as a base for future conveyance. It was compiled sometime between 1640-50, twice extended to 1652 & 1657.

The plan of the portions of Boston showing the two lots of Thomas Joy, was furnished by J. C. J. Brown, Esq. One lot by the waterside, a "meerstead" had his dwelling, near that of his father-in-law John Gallop. These "cove lots" were accounted the most desirable business locations in town. Here was the "Great Cove," to the right of which was Bendall's or the Town Dock, the principal landing place for vessels & the center of the town's merchandising.

Dr Shurtleff, "Topographical & Historical Description of Boston" 383, states these "cove lots" were granted to the "principal men of the town" & lists eighteen owners in the order of their possession, beginning at the north. Thomas Joy is the second name, John Gallop is sixth.

On Thomas Joy's half acre by the sea were two houses, both of which he doubtless built & dwelt in one. His acre farther inland became in after years the "court end" or social center of town. The mansions of Gov. Hutchinson & Sir Charles Henry Frankland & the home of Paul Revere were built there. The meetinghouse of Cotton & Increase Mather bordered on it. (Mem. Hist of Boston, Justin Winsor Ed II 10 11.)

A third plot, perhaps the most valuable of all, was in Bendall's Cove not far from & perhaps including the sites of Faneuil Hall & the "old feather store." This lot which Thomas Joy deeded to Bozoan Allen 1647 (with the new house upon it & its wharf) is not given as belonging to Joy in the Book of Possessions & does not appear on the plan.

At a town meeting 1642 "there is liberty granted Thomas Joy, carpenter, to set up an howse over his sellar by the waterside in the common way by his dwelling howse in the milfield, leaving, & from time to time keeping open, a passage of 6 foot in breadth between howse & howse."
(2nd report of Record Commissioners of Boston, 1634-60, 71 81 84.)

Perhaps he was slow in acting on this permission, for in 1644 he was ordered under penalty, to make a safe passage "over his sellar in the high way, by the waterside, in the milfield." But soon, because of his continued neglect of the town's order, the Constables were "appointed to require & receive of Thomas Joy, or to levy by distresse upon his goods 20s for the towne's Use."

In 1665 (7th Report of Record Commissioners of Boston 1660-1701, 26) "It is ordered that Thomas Joy In Consideration of a peice of ground butting vpon the new metting house to the North as his fence now stands, is freed from all raites during his & wife's naturall life & 40s in silver besides. "

In 1676 (ibid 106) it being desirable to widen the streets in the north part of the town which had recently been swept by fire, "ye Selectmen" made the "ensuinge direction":

"That the west side of the streete from Maj Thos. Clarke's bricke wall run to a stake neere the corner of Thos Joy's land in that lane wch leads to the place of ye Meetinghouse & from that stake along the sd west side of the way as now staked out to the corner of Edmund Mountfort's foundation, on ye same side of ye way. And from the corner of Mr. Humphrey Warren's house on the East side of the way to a stake in the land of Danl Turine Junr over against yt at Thomas Joy's corner, where the streete is to be 22 foote in breadth & soe all alonge the streete to Edmond Mountfort's 2 houses on each side of the way. The line to runn from ye stake at Danl Turine's to another at Henery Cooley's, from thence to Edmond Mountfort's on the East & soe to the corner of Peter Gee's (Joy?) house, as now staked out."

On this occasion Thomas Joy had some just cause of difference with the Selectmen "relateinge to satisfaction yt he required for inlarginge the streete where his houses were laid wast by fire." (Ibid 112) The referees, 2 men of Hingham & 3 of Boston, to whom the dispute was committed found:

"That the said Selectmen in the behalfe of the Towne of Bostone shall pay to Tho Joy or his order 50s in countrie pay vpon demand & 20s 1d in current money within one moneth after the date thereof, & that the said Joy shall acquit & release to them his right & proprietie to the land now layd out for a high way for ye use of ye Towne, which is 22 foot in breadth betweene his land & the land of Danl Turill (Turine) on ye other side of ye way."

Until 1646 Thomas Joy's life in New England was that of a successful man. His increasing possessions bear witness to his prosperity in business. He was happily married, 4 sons gladdened his fatherly heart. But at this juncture his spirit of independence brought him into violent collision with the established authorities of the colony, with results painful to his person & hazardous to his fortunes.

The political agitation in which Thomas Joy became involved was the famous "Dr. Child's Memorial," so named from the prominence of Dr. Robert Child in its origination & support. It was a protest against certain illiberal customs of the period & particularly against the narrow policy of the Colonial government which since 1631 had restricted the right of suffrage to the members of the local Puritan churches . . . thus excluding more than three fourths of the adult male population from any participation in public affairs.
(Pilgrim Republic, J A Goodwin 415; Puritan Age in Mass G E Ellis 203; Hist of New Eng Palfrey III 41, note 3, 135; Mem Hist of Boston Winsor ed I 196 note 1.)

THE CHILD REMONSTRANCE AND PETITION

(From the reprint in the Hutchinson Collection of Original Papers, 188-96):

"To the Worshipful the Governor, the Deputy Governor, & the rest of the Assistants of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, together with the Deputyes of the General Court now assembled in Boston:

The Remonstrance & humble Petition of us whose names are underwritten, in behalfe of ourselves & divers others within the jurisdiction, humbly sheweth,

That we cannot but with all thankfulness, acknowledge your indefatigable paines, continuall care & constant vigilancy, which, by the blessing of the Almighty, hath procured unto this wilderness the much desired fruits of peace & plenty: While our native land, yea the Christian world, is sharply afflicted with the devouring sword & the sad consequents of intestine wars.

And further, that you whom the Lord hath placed at the helme of these plantations & endowed with eminent gifts fitt for such honourable callings, are best able to foresee the clouds which hang over our heads, the storms & tempests which threaten this poor handful here planted & timously to amend them. Notwithstanding, those who are under decks, being at present unfit for higher employments, may perceive those leaks which will inevitably sink this weake & ill compacted vessell, if not by your wisdoms opportunely prevented.

We who, in behalf of ourselves & divers of our countrymen, laying our hands upon our breasts & seriously considering that the hand of our good God, who through his goodnesse hath safely brought us & ours through the great ocean & planted us here, seems not now to be with us, yea rather against us, blasting all our designs, though contrived with much deliberation, undertaken with great care, & proceeding with more than ordinary probability of successful events, by which many of good estates are brought to the brink of extreme poverty, yea at this time laying his just hand upon our familyes, taking many away to himself, striking others with unwonted malignant sicknesses, & with some shameful diseases, have thought it convenient with all respectivenesse to present these our sincere requests & remonstrances to this honored court, hoping we have found those speciall leaks, which concurring with many & great sins of this place (which our consciences know & our brethren of England are not ignorant of) are the speciall causes of the Lord's turning his face from us, leaving us to ourselves & consequently to strife, contention, unfaithfulnesse, idleness & of lamentable faylings, not blessing us in any of our endeavors, so as to give us any great hopes of staple commodities & consequently of comfortable subsistance, though we, to the utmost of our power these many years, even to the exhausting of our estates & spirits, have endeavored the same; but contrariwise, all things grow worse & worse, even to the threatening (in our apprehensions) of no less than finall ruine; not doubting but that you will receive them with the same candour of mind which we, not ayming at novelty or disturbance, but at the glory of God, our allegiance to the state of England, & good of these poor plantations (if our hearts deceive us not) present them unto you, though for want of skill & other necessary helpe roughly drawne up; & hope that you will be more diligent in amending than we in searching out the causes of these our present calamities, etc. Not to trouble you who are employed in the most serious affairs of these plantations with many words, we briefly referre them to these heads, etc.

1. Whereas this place hath been planted by the incouragement, next under God, of letters patents given & granted by His Majesty of England to the inhabitants thereof, with many privileges & immunities, viz. Incorporation into a company, liberty of choosing governors, settling government, making lawes not repugnant to the lawes of England, power of administring the oath of allegiance to all &c., as by the said letters patents more largely appeareth. Notwithstanding we can not, according to our judgments, discerne a setled forme of government according to the lawes of England, which may seem strange to our countrymen, yea to the whole world, especially considering we are all English. Neither do we so understand & preceyve our owne lawes or libertyes, or any body of lawes here so established, as that thereby there may be a sure & comfortable enjoyment of our lives, libertyes & estates, according to our due & naturall rights, as freeborne subjects of the English nation. By which, many inconveniences flow into plantations, viz. jealousies of introducing arbitrary government, which many are prone to beleeve, construing the procrastination of such setled lawes to proceed from an overgreedy spirit of arbitrary power, (which it may be is their weaknes) such proceedings being detestable to our English nation & to all good men, & at present a cheife cause of the intestine war in our deare country:

Further, it gives cause to many to thinke themselves hardly dealt with, others too much favored, & the scale of justice too much bowed & unequally balanced: From whence also proceedeth feares & jealousies of illegal committments, unjust imprisonments, taxes, rates, customes, levyes of ungrounded & undoing assessments, unjustifiable presses, undue fynes, unmeasurable expenses & charges, of unconceyvable dangers through a negative or destructive vote unduly placed, & not well regulated, in a word, of a non certainty of all things we enjoy, whether lives, liberties or estates: & also of undue oaths, being subject to exposition, according to the will of him or them that gives them, & not according to a due & unbowed rule of law, which is the true interpreter of all oathes to all men, whether judge or judged.

Wherefore our humble desire & request is, that you would be pleased to consider of our present condition & upon what foundation we stand & unanimously concurr to establish the fundamental & wholesome laws of our native country & such others as are no wayes repugnant to them, unto which all of us are most accustomed; & we suppose them best agreeable to our English tempers, & yourselves obliged thereunto by the generall charter & your oathe of allegiance. Neither can we tell, whether the Lord hath blessed many in these parts with such eminent politicall gifts, so as to contrive better lawes & customes than the wisest of our nation have with great consideration composed & by many hundred years experience have found most equal & just; which have procured to the nation much honour & renowne amongst strangers & long peace & tranquility amongst themselves. And for the more strict & due observation & execution of the said lawes by all the ministers of justice. That there may be a setled rule for them to walke by in all cases of judicature, from which if they swerve there may be some power setled, according to the lawes of England, that may call them to account for their delinquencies, which may be a good meanes to prevent divers unnecessary appeales into England.

2. Whereas there are many thousands in these plantations, of the English nation, freeborne, quiett & peaceable men, righteous in their dealings, forward with hand, heart & purse, to advance the public good, knowne friends to the honorable & victorious Houses of Parliament, lovers of their nation &c, who are debarred from all civil imployments (without any just cause that we know) not being permitted to bear the least office (though it cannot be denyed but some are well qualified) no not so much as to have any votes in choosing magistrates, captains, or other civill & military officers; notwithstanding that they have here expended their youth, borne the burthen of the day, wasted much of their estates for the subsistence of these poore plantations, paid all assessments, taxes, rates, at least equall, if not exceeding others, yea when the late warre was denounced against the Narrowgansett Indians, without their consent, their goods were seized on for the service, themselves & servants especially forced & impressed to serve in that warre, to the hazarding of all things most dear & near unto them, whence issue forth many inconveniences, secret discontents, murmurings, rents in the plantations, discouragements in their callings, unsettlednes in their minds, strife, contention, & the Lord only knows to what a flame in time it may kindle; also jealousies of too much unwarranted power & dominion on the one side & of perpetual slavery & bondage on the other & which is intollerable, even by those who ought to love & respect them as brethren.

We therefore desire that civil liberty & freedom be forthwith granted to all truly English, equal to the rest of their countrymen, as in all plantations is accustomed to be done & as all freeborne enjoy in our native country; (we hoping here in some things to enjoy greater liberties than elsewhere, counting it no small losse of liberty to be as it were banished from our native home & enforced to lay our bones in a strange wilderness) without imposing any oathes or covenant on them, which we suppose cannot be warranted by the letters patent & seeme not to concur with the oath of allegiance formerly enforced on all & later covenants lately imposed on many here present by the honorable houses of parliament, or at least to detract from our native country & lawes, which by some are stiled foreign & this place termed rather a free state, than a colonie or corporation of England; all of us being very willing to take such oathes & covenants as are expressions of our desires of advancing the glory of God & good of this place & of our dutyes to the state of England & love of our nation, being composed according to the lawes & customes of other corporations of England; but all of us are exceeding unwilling by any pollicies whatsoever to be rent from our native country, though far distant from it, valuing our free derivations, the immunities & privileges which we & our posterity doe & we hope shall always enjoy, above the greatest honors of this country, not cemented to the state of England & glory to be accounted though but as rushes of that land, yet that we may continue to write that we & ours are English; or least we entreat that the bodyes of us & ours (English subjects possessing here no privileges) may not be impressed, nor goods forcibly taken away, least we, not knowing the justice of this warre, may be ignorantly & unwillingly enforced upon our own destruction & that all assessment, taxes, impositions, which are many & grievous (if civil liberty be not granted) may be taken of, that in all things we may be strangers, otherwise we suppose ourselves in a worse case here & less free than the natives amongst whom we live or any aliens.

Further, that none of the English nation, who at this time are too forward to be gone & very backward to come hither, be banished, unless they break the known lawes of England in so high a measure, as to deserve so high a punishment; & that those few that come over may settle here without having two magistrates hands, which sometimes not being possible to obtain, hath procured a kind of banishment to some, who might have been serviceable to this place, as they have been to the state of England, &c. And we likewise desire that no greater punishments be inflicted upon offenders than are allowed & sett by the laws of our native country.

3. Whereas there are divers sober, righteous & godly men, eminent for knowledge & other gracious gifts of the holy spirit, noe wayes scandalous in their lives & conversation, members of the church of England (in all ages famous for piety & learning) not dissenting from the latest & best reformation in England, Scotland, &c, yet they & their posterity are deteined from the seales of the covenant of free grace, because, as it is supposed, they will not take these churches covenants, for which they as yet see no light in God's word; neither can they clearly perceive what they are, every church having their covenant differing from anothers, at least in words: Yea some churches sometime adding, sometime detracting, calling it sometimes the covenant of grace, sometimes a branch of it, sometimes a profession of the free covenant, &c. notwithstanding they are compelled, under a severe fine, every Lord's day to appear at the congregation & notice is taken of such who stay not till baptism be administered to other men's children, though denyed to their owne & in some places forced to contribute to the maintenance of thos ministers who vouchsafe not to take them into their flock, though desirous of the ordinances of God, &c. yet they are not accounted so much as brethren, nor publickly so called, nor is christian vigilancy (commanded to all) any way exercised to them. Whence as we conceive, doe abound an ocean of inconveniences, dishonor to God & to his ordinances, little profit by the ministry, ancrease of anabaptisme & of those that totally contemn all ordinances as vaine, fading of Christian graces, decrease of brotherly love, heresies, schismes, &c. the whole body of the members of the church of England, like sheep scattered in the wilderness, without a shepard, in a forlorn condition.

We therefore humbly entreat you, in whose hands it is to help & whose judicious eyes discern these great inconveniences, for the glory of God & the comfort of your brethren & countrymen, to give liberty to the members of the church of England, not scandalous in their lives & conversations (as members of these churches) to be taken into your congregation & to enjoy with you all those liberties & ordinances Christ hath purchased for them & into whose name they are baptised, that the Lord may be one & his name one amongst us in this place; that the seales of the covenant may be applied to them & their posterity, as we conceive they ought to be, till inconveniences hereby be found prejudiciall to the churches & colony (which we hope shall never be) not doubting but the same Christian favour will be shewed to all its members of these churches, when they shall retire to our dear native country (if their conversations be righteous & holy) or otherwise to grant liberty to settle themselves here in a church way, according to the best reformations of England & Scotland, if not, we & they shall (be) necessitated to apply our humble desires to the honourable houses of parliament, who we hope will take our sad conditions into their serious considerations, to provide able ministers for us (this place not being so well provided as to spare any) or else out of their charity, many estates being wasted, to transport us to some other place, where we may live like Christians & not be accounted burthens, but serviceable both to church & state.

These things being granted, by the blessing of God to us in Christ, we hope to see the now contemned ordinances of God highly prized, the gospel, much darkened, break forth as the sun at noon day, Christian & brotherly love, almost frozen, wax warm, zeal & holy emulation more fervent, jealousy of arbitrary government (the bane of all commonwealths) quite banished, the wicked, if any such be found, in their courses disheartened, the righteous actors in their wayes encouraged, secret discontents fretting like cankers, remedied, merchandising & shipping by speciall providence wasted, speedily encreased, mines undertaken with more cheerfulness, fishing with more forwardnes, husbandry now withering forthwith flourishing, villages & plantations much deserted presently more populous, all mechanicall trades the great enriching of all common wealths heartily going on, stable commodities the life of trade presently raised, our almost lost credit regayned, our brethren of England's just indignation & their force, as a post flying from us, turned to embrace us, the honourable houses of parliament patrons of piety under their wings in these dangerous times with alacrity shrowding us, the privileges & immunities which we & ours enjoy in our native land more firmly settled, forreign enemies dayly threatening, totally discouraged, unsettled men now abounding, firmly planted, that the prosperity of England may not be the ruine of this plantation but the contrary, hands, hearts & purses now streightened freely opened for public & honorable services, strife & contention now rife, abated, taxes & sesses lightened, the burthens of the state but pleasure, &c. To conclude, all businesses in church & common wealth which for many years have seemed to go backward, beyond our desert, yea expectation, the good hand of our God going along with us, successfully thriving.

And shall always pray the Almighty, the only wise God, to guide you in His wisdom, strengthen you with His power in all your undertakings, that all may be for the glory & good of His people, & that He would blesse your wisdome with the blessing of peace, plenty & long dayes, &c."

Thomas Joy entered ardently into the plea for enlarged liberty & supported the movement as a representative of the nonfreemen. The signers to the frank remonstrance were not numerous & their prayer was rudely denied by Winthrop & his associates. When it became known that the petitioners intended to renew their claims before the British Parliament, the magistrates put forth all their energy to prevent it. The night before the departure of the ship which was to carry the documents to England the authorities raided the study of Mr. Dand, where they found evidence which led to the arrest of several persons. The petition itself was safely conveyed to London, where it became the subject of a pamphlet battle, which was soon forgotten in the tumult of the Civil War. The petitioners did not fare so well. Some were thrown into prison, others were heavily fined.

All the active participants in this movement for reform left the colony, except Samuel Maverick & Thomas Joy & are said to have returned to England (Savages Gen Dic) David Yale formerly resided in the New Haven Colony, was a stepson of Governor Theophilus Eaton. His son Elihu, born in Boston, April 5, 1649, became a wealthy merchant & gave £800 to the college in New Haven, thus becoming the founder of Yale University. Though the papers were widely circulated the known signers of the "remonstrance & petition" of 1646 are very few. "We could hear but of 25 to the chief petition." Unfortunately, their names were not preserved.

There were two petitions found in Dand's study. One, on behalf of the signers above named, sought redress in specified particulars & was accompanied by 23 queries which related chiefly to "the validity of our patent" & the powers of the courts & churches. "The other was from some non-free-men" in which they petition "for liberty of conscience," etc & "for a general governor" etc. For our account of Thomas Joy's part in the affair we must go to the bitter enemy of the petitioners, Governor Winthrop, whose Journal or "History of New England" gives a lengthy recital of the case.

"There was also one Thomas Joy, a young fellow, a carpenter, whom they had employed to get "hands" to the petition. He began to be very busy & would know of the marshal when he went to search Dand's study, if his warrant were in the King's name, etc. He was laid hold on & kept in irons for about four or five days. He then humbled himself, confessed what he knew, blamed himself for meddling in matters not belonging to him & blessed God for those irons upon his legs, hoping they would do him good while he lived. So he was let out upon reasonable bail."
(Hist of N Eng, Gov Winthrop II, 294)

"A young man, Thomas Joy, had circulated the petition for the non-freeman." (Eccles His of N Eng, Felt 592)

"Thomas Joy, a young carpenter, for some kind offices to the prisoners . . . was kept in irons 4 or 5 days, which was sufficient to extort a confession of wrong on his part as it allowed him to return to the care of his family upon reasonable bail. Thus arbitrary power shows its strength & importance when those in the more humble walks of life are accidentally or otherwise thrown within its insolent grasp."
(Hist & Antiquities of Boston, Drake, 297)

"Thomas Joy was put in irons (a sample of the tyranny of those times) for merely circulating a remonstrance to the government in England against certain obnoxious proceedings of the Government in Boston." (Hist of Abington, Mass 1939, Aaron Hobart, 22.)

"Thomas Joy was arrested as a too ardent lover of liberty, yet is called 'a young fellow' by Gov. Winthrop." (Gen Dict Savage, II 573.) Joy was at this time 35 years of age, Winthrop was nearly 60, which may readily account for the term "a young fellow."

Historians differ in their views of this agitation for which our ancestor suffered. It has been characterized as a cabal for the establishment of Presbyterianism & even as an attempt to foist upon the new colony the forms & worship of the Church of England. Historians of the filio-pietistic school generally take this view of the agitation.

To the candid observer, however, uninfluenced by Winthrop & his advisers, the petitioners stand for liberality & progress, while the authorities are convicted of intolerance & a tyrannous abuse of power.

An adequate treatment of this event has not yet been made by any historian & it is therefore difficult properly to characterize the episode. It was in all probability an honest effort at reform through the method of petition by men who believed that their rights as freeborn English subjects were infringed on by the authorities of the colony. Thomas Joy represented the non-freemen & circulated the petition in their behalf & doubtless signed it. Their prayer to the General Court of the Colony was for the extension of the suffrage to their class, which constituted about three fourths of the adult male population. In the memorial to the British Parliament they ask for a General Governor of all the colonies. It would seem, therefore, that Thomas Joy was interested simply in the political phase of the agitation & was more opposed to the course pursued by the magistrates than to the puritanism of the churches though in a government so largely theocratic such a distinction may be hard to draw. The petition was circulated in Connecticut, Plymouth & New Haven, as well as Mass; copies were even found in the "Dutch Plantations, Virginia & Bermudas." (Three episodes of Mass Hist C F Adams 333, 349, 574; Mass Its Historians & Its History, C F Adams 60.)

The spirit which condemned Thomas Joy to imprisonment until his sense of duty to his family induced him to make his peace with the authorities was the same as that which whipped the Quakers through the Massachusetts villages at the cart's tail & hunted Roger Williams out of the colony in the depths of a northern winter.

Dr Child & his fellow-signers were mostly gentlemen of education & means, as well as mature years, fully as able to endure political disfavor as the young & high-spirited builder. (Hist of N Eng Palfrey ed by Savage II 284, 292 note, 294 note, 262 notes; Hist of N Eng Winthrop II 168.)

Where he no longer found residence durable, Thomas Joy could scarcely expect to prosper under the frowns of the authorities. It is not surprising that shortly after his political trouble, that had doubtless impaired his business prospects, he exchanged a part of his possessions in Boston for property in Hingham, a village of emigrants from Hingham, County Norfolk, England, who settled about 1635 on the bay shore a dozen miles southeast of Boston.

Thither in the spring of 1648 he removed with his family. There he established permanent interests although his connection with Boston was actively maintained.

Savage significantly remarks in a note to his edition of Winthrop's Journal that Joy removed to Hingham "where he could enjoy more sympathy of neighbors." This bond was perhaps twofold. In the first place it is believed that Thomas was himself a native of Norfolk; in the second place the Hingham folk were noted for their tolerance in religious matters & their independence in politics. So recently as 1645 they had come into bitter controversy with the General Court of the Colony over the election of a captain of the local militia company. The government finally carried its point & inflicted heavy fines upon the chief men of Hingham, including their minister Rev Peter Hobart. Hobart's independence was notorious, & on one occasion when he had been engaged to preach in Boston the magistrate "sent to him to forbeare," "that his spirit had been discovered to be adverse to our ecclesiastical & civil government & he was a bold man & would speak his mind." (History of Hingham, I part 2, 16.)

Rev. Mr. Hobart was greatly beloved by his people. He had led them into the New World for conscience' sake, he ministered among them for more than forty years. To his benign influence we may attribute the fact that not a single instance of religious persecution marred the early history of this ancient town. In Peter Hobart's parish Thomas Joy now made his home. (Hobart (Hubbard) like Joy (Jay), is an old Norfolk name & the two families were closely related there. His connection with the Hobarts of Hingham soon became intimate.)

In 1643 the town of Hingham had granted to Bozoan Allen & Anthony Eames the privilege of erecting a gristmill; we are told that "Thomas Joy came to Hingham about 1646 to erect or enlarge a gristmill at the town cove & also to establish a sawmill in the same locality, perhaps adjoining the former." (Hist of Hingham: sketch of Thomas Joy in gen portion.) Real estate records seem to prove that Joy obtained these mill privileges from Bozoan Allen in exchange for Boston property. It is interesting to note that a tide mill (probably the mill built about 1783, said to be upon the same site as the old mill) was in operation (1896) at the entrance of the cove & local antiquarians assert that the logs & beams near by which are laid bare at the ebb are relics of the foundations of the original sawmill erected & owned by Thomas Joy 250 years ago.

There is impressive evidence that for several years after his removal to Hingham it cost Thomas Joy a hard struggle to support his rapidly increasing family & save what property he had acquired. The little hamlet of fishermen & farmers afforded no such opportunity as the enterprising builder had enjoyed in the busy capital. He found himself in straits which compelled him to pledge some of his property to bridge over this period of adversity. Moreover, continued persecution by the colonial authorities & the fear of fines & confiscation finally led him to place his entire estate in the hands of trustees for the protection of his family.

In a note to Winthrop's History of New England, 284, Savage refers to the "little money in the public chest" & adds, "The country was besides so poor (1646) that no tax was accessed for the year & I regret the deficiency the more, since it served perhaps to inflame the fines which tyrannical rulers inflicted on such as differed from them but slightly in their notions of policy." The records help us to trace his doings in this critical period. In 1648 (Suffolk Deeds I 89) "Thomas Joy, of Boston," conveyed to Bozoan Allen, of Hingham, his "new house at Bendall's Cove or docke, together with the wharfe thereto belonginge." This was doubtless a Yankee "swap" of "the grist mill with the dams" for "the dwelling house & the land" in Hingham, which Allen had conveyed to him (Inven of Thos Joy's estate p 43).

In 1648 (Suffolk Deeds I 97) "Thomas Joy, of Hingham," acknowledges his indebtedness to Thomas Savage, of Boston, "in the summe of sixteene pounds foure shillings niene penc to be paid in good & Merchantable porke at 3d P pound or in Merchantable wheat at foure shillings six pence P bushell or in money" "& for Performance" mortgages his "house scituat neere the new meeting house in Boston wth the garden & ground thereto belonging." In the following year he granted unto the same person "his houses & ground in Boston, "which were bounded by "the sea on the south east," "the rent of the said houses & land to be pd. unto the sd Tho Savage & is in consideration of fourty pounds in money wch he doth ingage to pay within one yeare." (Suffolk Deeds I 107.) The record states that "this Mortgage was taken ofe by ordr of Capt Tho Savage ye 22th of March 16 71/72 as Attests Free, Grace Bendall, Cler."

In 1649 Thomas Joy conveyed to his father-in-law John Gallop & Edmund Jackson, their heirs and assigns, as feoffee in trust, all his houses, mills & lands in Hingham & Boston (Suffolk Deeds I 106):

"ffor the uses hereafter expressed, vizt. the tyde mill, houses lands & p'misses in Hingham to Joane the wife of the sd Tho Joy dureing her naturall life for the bringing up of the children & after her decease to be equally divided amongst the sd children, Provided the sd Joy shall have lodging & dyet out of the same dureing his life when he shall require it. And the houses & land in Boston to be at the disposeing of the said Tho Joy as he shall think fitt; ffurther the sd Tho doth grant to the sd Joane one third part of his goods & chattles to make use of dureing her life & afterward to be equally divided amongst his children, & the other two thirds to be divided amongst them after his decease excepting one feather bed, curtens, vallens, one rugg, two blanketts, 2 pr of sheets, wch he reserveth to his owne disposeinge."

(It is suggested that Joy's purpose in giving this deed of trust was to provide for his wife & children in the event of his death, no other form of life insurance being in vogue.)

(Note also the experiences of other signers of the Petition: Samuel Maverick refused to pay his heavy fine & "as a matter of precaution, gave a deed of Noddle's Island to his son. A little later, in 1650, he sold the island outright." (Three Episodes of Mass Hist Adams 334; Suffolk Deeds I 106.)

David Yale "was probably driven from Mass by the intolerance of the age, for his estate here was sold out by his attorney." The power to his attorney was made in 1651. The sale in 1653. (ibid I, 792) (Hist of NE Winthrop II, 217; Hist of Anc & Hon Artillery Co I.)

Of Thomas Fowle in 1648 it was said: "God hath brought him very low both in his estate & in his reputation since he joined the first petition"; of Child, "God had so blasted his estate he was quite broken, etc." (Winthrop II, 321, 22.)

"The judgment of God fell upon Fowle as well as upon Child according to the opinion of his opponents." (Hist of New Eng, Winthrop II, 262 Savage's note.)

John Dand, who witnessed Joy's document, was a principal signer of the petition in 1646. He had been a clerk in the prothonotary's office & probably drew the deed. In the next year (Suffolk Deeds I 127), Joy confirmed this deed of trust, revoking "the reservation of dyet & lodging for him selfe" & further binding himself to pay to Edmund Jackson the "summe of ten pounds towards the repaireing of the sd mill."

THE TOWN HOUSE AGREEMENT.

From the original document presented to the Bostonian Society by J. C. J. Brown, Esq.

Final Town House agreement, 28 Jan 1660-61.

In this same year (Mass Colony Records 16 Oct 1650) the General Court granted the petition of Edmund Jackson & Mehitabel (Christabel?) Gallop for power to sell all or part of the mill in Hingham for the use & behoof of the wife & children of Thomas Joy, "who are now in great want"; soon afterward Edmund Jackson conveys, by virtue of that power, one fourth part of the mill & dam to Ambrose Leach. (Suffolk Deeds I, 131)

In 1652 (Mass Colony Records May 31 1652) Jackson was discharged from his trusteeship, the feoffment being transferred to the county court, the use remaining to the wife & children according to the original deed.

In 1653 (Suffolk Deeds II 77, 83) Thomas Joy "with & by ye Consent of ye County Court" conveyed to Richard Church of Charlestown, a carpenter, for "ye some of fowrty pownds starling" "one halfe or moytie of all yt Corne mill standing" at Hingham & halfe the fowndation of a saw mill Adoyneing"; at the same time leased to the same party for a period of twenty-one years the remaining half of the corn mill at "ye yeerely Rent of tenne pownds starling in Corne."

Thomas Joy's active participation in the business & social affairs of the capital (Boston) was evidently fully resumed by the year 1656; in 1658 member of Boston Artillery Co., now the "Ancient & Honorables."

But it is proper to mention in this connection several transactions of a later date in which he & his wife unite to convey portions of the land in Boston. As the deeds make no mention of encumbrances & were made in a season of much prosperity, they show the success with which his property was held until a judicious time for sale. Several of his transfers were not recorded. Twenty acres (Cases Nos 1921; 2399; 2370,) "adjoyneing to Mr. King's land formerly in Lady Moodyes possession" which was "called by ye name of Mullinter's lott," is said to be part of the Humphreys farm between Lynn & Swamscott; (Essex Co Deeds B 5, L 30) "upon ye highwaye that goeth to Marblehead" were conveyed in 1661 by Thomas Joy of Boston to Captain Thomas Marshall, of Lynn, according to a copy of a deed in Suffolk Court Files.

The first recorded conveyance of Joy's Boston land was in 1664 (Suffolk Deeds V 90). It would seem that a previous conveyance not recorded had been made. (Suffolk Deeds III 320, Fane to Leach.) Th. Joy's purchase of land in Boston from Samuel Coles (Suffolk Deeds, III, 89)—"Thomas Joy of Boston" granted to Thomas Walker, a brickmaker, for "Sixty & five pounds by the value thereof in money & other Currant pay in New England" "a Peece or Parcell of land" which "butteth on the highway South Easterly & from thenc to runn downe towards the Pond North Westerly" "wth the frame of an house on Part of the sajd land."

1665 Freeman of Mass Colony (NEHGR III 239).

In 1669 (Suffolk Deeds VII 1) "Thomas Joy of Boston" for "one hundred Pounds of Currant money" grants to Richard Way "a pcell of Land with the frame of an howse" & "five foott of Ground: extending "from the high way comonly called the Streete" southerly to "the Sea or harbor."

In 1671 (Ibid VII 146) "Thomas Joy of Hingham" for one hundred pounds conveys to Abraham Adams, a cooper, the "cellars Shops &c with the Land whereon they Stand" being in "bredth twenty Seaven foot," extending from the "Street Northwest" to "Low water marke Southeast." In 1672 (Ibid VII 328) "Thomas Joy of Hingham" for £114 conveys to Daniel Turein (Turrill), Jr., a blacksmith, that part of his property which was the remainder of the "land & housing formerly Sould unto Abraham Adams."

In 1677 (Ibid X 142, 275) lands of "Samuel Joy" are named in the descriptions. "Thomas Joy of Hingham" grants to Daniel Turill (Turein) for the sum of £128 two other tracts " near the new meeting howse at the northern end of Boston," twenty-four & fifty feet "in the front" respectively, bounded on the south by the "Streete lately ordered by the selectmen of Boston."

It is noteworthy that in these documents Thomas Joy is quite as frequently "of Boston" as "of Hingham." (1648-1654 he is generally "of Hingham"; 1654-1670 "of Boston"; "of Hingham" again 1671 to his death 1678. His youngest child, Ruth, was b Boston 1658. He never wholly relinquished his business interest in Boston. It was the home of his wife's kinfolk. Her later children, born in Hingham were religiously taken to the First Church, Boston, for baptism, the church of their grandparents John & Christabel Gallop.

Thomas Joy's relations with Boston increased as the lapse of years healed the political wounds & liberalized the views of the clergy. Gov. Winthrop d 1649, the Rev John Cotton 1652. In 1657 the ministers of the Colony pronounced for religious liberties hardly less than those which had seemed revolutionary ten years before. (Hist of N Eng Palfrey, II 489; Eccles Hist N Eng, Felt, II 189; Mem Hist of Boston, Winsor ed I 192 193.)

It was in this state of altered public opinion that the man who had left Boston 1648 under a cloud of popular suspicion returned to find himself again in high favor among his former friends & townsmen & about to be intrusted with the execution of the most important public work yet undertaken in New England.

In 1659 Thomas Joy was appointed with 2 others to "survey the mill bridge whether the foundation & timber worke bee firme" (2nd Report of Record Commissioners of Boston 1634-60, 153).

This shows in what esteem he was held as a mechanical engineer . . . Detailed accounts of one achievement not only mark him as the master builder of the Colony, but link his name forever with an interesting & historic edifice, the first Town House of Boston.

Capt Robert Keayne, a public spirited citizen of Boston, dying 1656, made provision in his will for the construction of a market place & conduit, "with some convenient roome or too for the courts to meete in both Winter & Sumer, & so for the Townesmen & comissrs of the Towne . . . in the same building or the like," besides a "convenient room for a Library, a gallery or some other handsome roome for the Elders to meete in; . . . also a roome for an Armory & a place for merchants." For the erection of this important public edifice, Captain Keayne left £300, which the townspeople more than doubled by subscription. On August 1, 1657, the town's building committee gave the contract to Thomas Joy & Bartholomew Bernad.

This original contract is preserved by the Mass Historical Society, Boston:

"Power conferred by the committees for the Town House—1657:
"We whose names are under wrighten having full power given us by the Town of Boston to Agree with workmen & in their behalfe to Engadge the Town, in the Payment of any sum or sums for the Building Erecting & Compleating of A house for the Town both for the forme & dimensions &c according as we shall Judge meet. This structure was in the open space at the head of what is now (1966) State Street.

As the building was raised on pillars, part of the lower level was partitioned off for shops, the rest left open for a market place or "market stead." By town records, in 1664 a bell was ordered to be rung every working day at 11 o'clock to give notice of the assembling there for one hour, of merchants & strangers. In 1683 it was voted that a note set up under the Town House on one of the pillars should be "a sufficient notice to the bakers to size their bread according to law."

The building was completed & occupied in 1658, though the final payments on the contract were not made until two years later, as appears from an entry in the Town Record, January 28, 1660-1.

"In reference to the accounts of Tho Joy & partner for the building of the towne house, stayre cases & Conduit & the compleating of the said worke, Itt is ordered that the Treasurer shall pay to the said Joy £680 (deducting what hath beene already paid) outt of the Treasury or next Towne rate; whereby all contracts made with the said Joy are performed as per his owne hand to a writing of this date." (Second Report of the Record Commissioners of Boston 1634-1660, 158.) The writing 'per his owne hand' alluded to above is now (1966) in the possession of the Bostonian Society. It was presented to the Society by J C J Brown Esq of Boston, to whom the writer (James Richard Joy) is indebted for valuable information.

This first capitol of Massachusetts stood for a half century. Josselyn, the English traveler, speaks of it as a "Town House built on pilars where the merchants may confer: In the chamber above they keep their monthly courts." It was destroyed by fire in 1711; on its site was erected the brick building which, as the Old State House, is now one of the most venerated monuments of colonial Boston.

The armory, for which provision was made in the public building, was for the use of the artillery company, of which Captain Keayne was the founder & first commander. Organized 1637, is still in existence, being now known far & wide as "The Ancient & Honorable Artillery Company." The roll of its members for more than two & a half centuries contains some of the most worthy & distinguished names in the history of Boston. (Hist of Ancient & Hon Art Co of Mass (Boston), 1896.) It is an evidence of a more liberal era in the colony, when we find that in 1658 Thomas Joy was enrolled as a member. Among those who joined in the same year is his old companion in political persecution, Samuel Maverick. The names of Robert Child, Thomas Fowle, John Smith & David Yale appear among the early members of the artillery company.

It appears by the colony records that on October 21, 1663, the General Court "remitted £30 of Thomas Joy's fine, ordered the treasurer to repay it." What fine this was, the injustice of which is thus tardily acknowledged, is not certainly known. We do know, however, that several men were fined at one time £30 each for complicity in the affair of the petition. (Hist of New Eng Winthrop; History of New Eng Palfrey II, 177; Mass Col Recs III 113; East Boston, Sumner 109.)

Whether Thomas Joy was fined on this occasion the records fail to state, it is at least pleasant to believe that in his case the old political score was thus wiped out. On May 3, 1665 (Mass Colony Records) the name of Thomas Joy appears in a list of "ye severall psons retarned by certifficats from the severall ministers & selectmen" who were "by public suffrage of both magists & Deputies admitted to freedome & tooke their oathes accordingly." This "freedome" included all the rights of citizenship, was still granted only to church members & men approved by the religious & secular authorities, a law of the previous year having granted this extension of the right of suffrage. So it came about that our ancestor lived to see the virtual triumph of the cause in which he had hazarded his fortunes & to enjoy in his closing years not only the material prosperity which his honesty & industry had won, but the honor which is the due reward of courageous adherence to sincere & lofty convictions. By becoming a "freeman" he entered into full accord with the established order of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, gave a satisfactory completeness to a life otherwise reasonably full of creditable attainment.

Up to 1674 the court lists give the names of 2,527 persons who had become freemen of the colony. It is generally asserted that church membership continued to be a requisite for the suffrage until the downfall of the colony charter in 1684 & even later. But on 3 August 1664 the General Court passed a law extending the elective franchise to non-freemen. The selection was, however, left in the hands of ministers, selectmen & the General Court; the candidates for "admittance to the freedom of this commonwealth" had to be settled inhabitants "twenty-four years of age," "Orthodox in religion" & "freeholder (ratable for ten shillings)." The law was a concession to the demands of the King made in a letter dated June 28, 1662, was passed in the presence in Boston of four royal commissioners whom he had sent to effect certain reforms. One of them was Samuel Maverick. One of the amendments demanded by the royal commissioners was that all writs & processes should thereafter be issued "in the King's name." (Hist of N Eng, Palfrey II, 587, 528; The Puritan Age in Mass, Ellis, 505-515; Mass Colony Recs, IV, Part II, 117, 118.) The oath of allegiance in the colony was changed by order of the King, April 24, 1678, so as to conform to that established by law in England. On Oct 10th the General Court ordered that such oath be taken by all persons within its jurisdiction. (Hist of N Eng, Palfrey, III 316, 320, note 323.)

A somewhat obscure but highly interesting episode in Thomas Joy's later life is suggested by three deeds in the Suffolk Records by which he received title to lands from several Indian sachems. The first was in 1661, (Suffolk Deeds III 494) when "John Indian Sagamore" of a place on the "Kennebecke River called the High Head on the westerly side of the bay Called merry meeting Bay" for a "valluable Sume" conveyed to Thomas Ashley & Thomas Joy of Boston land on the east side of the Kennebec river "from the point called Reskkegan to Cape Saugs wth the meadow Grounds" extending "to the River called Aquaquamset" on the one side, "to Cape Saugs River" on the other, together with the island "known by the name of Blacke Island."

Rev. Henry O. Thayer, a Maine antiquary who has located this purchase, says: "The tract specified comprises the well-known Thwing's Point. I think the northern bound is Eastern River or Aquoquamsett, but the southern limit is less clearly defined. Precisely what was intended by 'Cape Saugs' or 'Raskegan' I will not determine . . . Ashley lived on Thwing's Point; there (1654) the Plymouth Colony people with Thomas Prince, C. Southworth &c. set up the first form of government. The 'High Head' on the west where the Sagamore lived, I am not sure about, but I believe it was the point on the Bay by Muddy River."

The other deeds (Suffolk Deeds V 463) were "entered & Recorded word for word wth the originall & therewth compared, this 27th June 1668 at request of Samuell Joy, as Attests. Edward Rawson Recordr."

One deed was from "Sagamore Josiah Wampetuck & George Wampe of Mattakecis Indian plantation" who "in Consideration of the great love, good will & respect" they bore & also "the many Curtesies" received from their "Loving ffreinds Thomas Joy & Josiah Hubart" conveyed three & one half square miles situated "betweene two Rivers in the Nipmug Country & Commonly knowne & called by the Indians thereabouts by the name of Tohke-com-mum-wackuck," perhaps in the township of Oxford, Mass. (The Huguenot Emigration to America, Baird 168, 255) excepting one hundred acres "uppon the hill or old planting Ground by the Indians called Tohke-com-mum-wackake."

Josiah Wampetuck was the son of Chicatabot, a "great chief" of the Mass tribe. Chicatabot is often mentioned by Winthrop & other historians. A picturesque figure among the early settlers, he was generally friendly to the whites, lived at Neponset, died 1633. His grandson, Charles Josiah Wampetuck, son of Josiah Wampetuck, made a deed in 1684-5 confirming the title to the Boston Peninsula, originally given by his grandsire. (Hist of N E Winthrop I 49 note, 53, 56, 61, etc; Mem Hist of Boston, ed Winsor I 250; Book of Indians of N America (Boston) 1837, Samuel G Drake, Bk II 42-46; N E H G R III 333, 339, 340 et seq.)

The other deed (Suffolk Deeds V 462) recorded by request of Samuel[2] Joy, was from Sagamore Josiah Wampetuck who for the same consideration as the above, conveyed to Thomas Joy land "within the lyne of the Collony of New Plymouth" which was 'in length 3 miles & in breadth 1 mile & one fourth part of a mile."

Josiah Wampetuck made extensive grants in 1653 & 1668 of lands in Scituate & vicinity & Joy's grant may have been located there. The law expressly forbidding such purchase by inhabitants of other colonies was passed in 1671 3 years AFTER Joy's land was acquired.

This latter tract he was compelled to surrender in 1674, such unauthorized purchase of lands from Indians being in 1674 contrary to the laws of the Plymouth Colony, although the land was acquired prior to 1671.

(Plymouth Col Recs V part 1, 104; Laws of the Colony of New Plymouth, passed June 1643, re-enacted 1658; Revised laws of Plymouth Colony collected & pub 1671 Ch 14 sec 5; Hist Sketch of Abington Mass, Aaron Hobart 1839, 22 & note.)

These deeds raise many interesting speculations concerning our ancestor, but we know nothing further of the transactions. Whether he ever visited his lands in Maine, near Bath, we cannot say. How these Indian grants passed out of his possession will probably never be known. No sale is recorded; they are not mentioned in the inventory of his property at his death.

These deeds constitute the sole evidence of Thomas Joy's relations with the Indians; their patent tone of friendliness & peace indicates a cordial intercourse with the natives, which is in cheerful contrast with the hostile attitude of many settlers & particularly with the bloody experiences of the warlike Gallops.

Between 1672 & 1677 Thomas Joy was concerned in several law suits in Boston. In the former year Richard Wharton, agent of Robert Bendish & Co sued Captain William Hudson & Thomas Joy for £75 11s 11d. (Suffolk Court Files, Office Supreme Judicial Court, Boston, Cases 1204; 1376.) The claim was apparently just, for the defendants confessed judgment. In the settlement Wharton was placed in possession of land belonging to Joy about 40 feet square "fronting upon the Streete that lies before the Meeting House." As the land was worth 50s per foot Wharton was required to pay Joy money above the amount of the judgment, while Joy was ordered to remove the "frame" (house) which stood on the lot.

While this suit was in progress, John Woodmancy, a merchant of Boston & Thomas Joy had a falling out over business dealings. The former claimed £378 7s. 8d. for merchandise furnished to Joy or upon his order & Exhibited an itemized account which ran from 1659 to the date of the suit (Suffolk Court Files Case 1261). Joy's counterclaim amounted to £385 2s. 8d. for services & building materials (Suffolk Court Files, Case 1433). In Cases 1376 & 1433 Joseph[2] Joy appears as his father's attorney or assignee. In the course of these suits there was a proceeding called "attaynt of the jury," which is said to have been common in this period. The litigation extended from 1672 to 1675, when the matter was amicably adjusted out of court (Suffolk Court Files, Case 2045. Testimony of Woodmansey).

The case is interesting as exhibiting the common use of "store orders" in lieu of cash & in showing the purchases which our ancestor made for his business & household. Incidentally it discloses the facts that Thomas Joy built a part of a frame of a dwelling for Capt. Oliver & the "great wharfe at Charlestowne" for Mr. Davison.

THE JOY-WOODMANSEY PAPERS

Case 1433, Files of the Supreme Court of Suffolk Co., Mass., is interesting to all descendants of Thomas Joy; among the papers filed in the case is a bill of account of the merchant Woodmansey against Joy, together with Joy's account against him. A close reading of these apparently commonplace entries will throw considerable light upon Mr. Joy's manner of life, his personal expenditures & his business methods.

In April 1675, Thomas Joy, of Hingham, carpenter brought suit against John Woodmansey, of Boston, to recover debt "to the value of £385,2s,8d., due to said Thomas Joy for several parcels of money, £91 for a warehouse, by appraisement, timber planks, boards & goods."

Woodmansey opposed a counter claim against Joy for goods, etc., & damage "for not performing his several contracts & covenants."

The itemized accounts are here reprinted in full.

"Or, on a chev betw 3 vine leaves vert 5 guttees d,eau. Crest – a trunk of a vine, with 2 branches thereon a dove standing all ppr." Granted 1730 & borne by Michael[6] Joy (#95). (Berry's Heraldry Vol II Joy or Joye, Benefield Northants.)

THIS LABEL WAS PRESENTED TO HENRY B. JOY BY JAMES R. JOY AS PER HIS LETTER OF MARCH 30, 1931. Henry B. Joy

THE ABOVE LABEL WAS USED ON THE PRODUCTS OF "J. JOY & SONS" AT THEIR "PITTSFIELD WORKS" DURING THE OPERATION OF THE WORKS AT PITTSFIELD, NEW HAMPSHIRE, 1820-1830. ADJACENT TO THE EDGE-TOOL WORKS, BELOW THE WATER-POWER DAM CONSTRUCTED BY J. JOY, HE ALSO BUILT AND OPERATED A COTTON-MILL. A MODERN LARGE COTTON MILL HAS REPLACED THE ORIGINAL JOY MILL. ERECTED ON THE PRESENT MILL IS THE LARGE BELL IMPORTED FROM ENGLAND BY J. JOY WHICH HE USED TO SUMMON THE WORKERS IN HIS FACTORIES. THIS BELL IS STILL USED FOR THAT PURPOSE.

The corn mill at Hingham figures in another lawsuit of the same period. When Richard Church's lease of ½ of this property expired in 1674, Joy rented the other half from Joseph, Richard's son at £10 a year. A trifling difference over an expenditure for repairs was brought into court in 1677. (Suffolk Court Files, Case 1633) Richard Church was engaged as a carpenter in building the earliest church edifice in Plymouth. (Gen Dict, Savage) Benjamin Church the Indian fighter was one of his sons.

The record of this case brings out the interesting fact that in 1676 Thomas Joy was again sole owner of the mill he had bought of Bozoan Allen nearly 30 years before.

In 1676 Thomas Joy was held for trial for "reproaching General Winslow, the authorities of the country & other misdeameanors." (Hist & Antiquities of Boston, Drake, 1846 416.)

Ephraim[2] Joy, Thomas' son testifies (Suffolk Court Files Case 1633) that "in 1676 about June or July or thereabouts" his father Thomas Joy was in prison. These references suggest that Joy was a ready & forcible speaker, whose criticisms the government could not afford to overlook.

In the absence of further records we can only conjecture the causes which drew from this man of nearly seventy this new exhibition of the spirit of his earlier years. King Philip's War, which was then at its height, had brought great distress upon the Colony. A person of Thomas Joy's outspoken nature was not the man to reserve his criticism of a policy which was eating up property by Taxation & causing increasing & unnecessary hardship. He is known to have lost his brother-in-law John Gallop, who was a Captain in the fearful swamp fight with the Narragansetts. If, as is supposed, his own son John was killed in a later campaign of the same war, the father's reproaches become intelligible.

John Jay, of Marlborough, was a soldier in Captain Turner's company (Hist of King Philip's War—Bodge). It may be worth noting that the General Winslow whom Joy opposed was the Josiah Winslow who was governor of the Plymouth colony two years before when Thomas Joy was compelled to deliver up his deeds of Indian lands. On whatever theory this episode of 1676 is to be explained, it at any rate appears with sufficient clearness that Thomas Joy had the courage of his convictions & that the spirit of independence which dominated his youth had not abated with the lapse of years.

It is evident from all that has been said that Thomas Joy considered himself rather of Boston than of Hingham, his adopted home. Yet as his children grew up & settled about him the ties to the smaller village grew stronger. He discharged his mortgages, recovered his interest in the saw and grist mills, lived the quiet life a farmer.

Five children (probably six, although the record of Benjamin[2] is not clear) were born to him after his political troubles—Ephraim 1646/7, Sarah 1648, Benjamin 1650, Eliza bp 1652, Elizabeth 1653/4, Ruth 1658/9. Ephraim was born before the family left Boston; Ruth during the father's second period of residence there. The eldest son Samuel seems to have been associated with his father's business in Boston. Joseph, the first to wed, was a substantial builder & farmer in Hingham. Ephraim, also a builder, went to the settlement on the Piscataqua, now Berwick, Maine, married there. Sarah & Elizabeth married, Ruth remained at home. Thomas Jr & Eliza died in infancy. Of John & Benjamin we know little beyond the dates of birth and baptism. (The estate of a John Joy of Marblehead Mass is in Essex Co. Prob Recs 1729/30).

Thomas Joy died Hingham 21 October 1678, in the 69th year of his age. His will dated July 8, 1677 (Suffolk Prob Recs, VI, 280):

"IN THE NAME OF GOD AMEN. I, Thomas Joy, now of Hingham in the County of Suffolk in the Massachusetts Colony in New England Doe by these presents make & ordaine this to be my last will & testamt revoking & disannuling all other wills whatsoever heretofore made. This my will following to stand firm as to the disposal of all my temporall estate: That is to say, In ye first place I give to my son Joseph Joy the some of five pounds: Item to my son Ephraim Joy five pounds to be pd unto them by my Executor or Executrix hereafter to be named: As for all my other estate Personall or reall in Possession or reversion I give & doe bequeath unto my loving wife Joane Joy to be fully & wholly at her will & disposall. Provided allways: that she disposeth of the same to no other person or persons neither in part nor whole, then (than) to my loving daughters: Sarah Denham (Dunning), Elizabeth Beales, Ruth Joy. Finally I constitute & appoynt & make by virtue of these presents my aforesayd wife Joane Joy: my full & sole executrix of this my last will & testamt.

Dated this eighth day of July one thousand six hundred & seaventy & seaven.

Sealed & Delivered in

Capn. Joshua Hobart & Tho Herris made oath in Court 31st Ocbr. 78 that they were present & did see Thomas Joy Signe & Seale & heard him publish this Instrumt to be his last Will & Testamnt & that he was then of a disposing minde to their understanding.

Isa Addington, Cler.

The will is signed with his "mark," which is also on several deeds, although he also signed Thomas Joy or Tho Joy. (Suffolk Deeds I, 89, 97, 117.) A "mark" or "trade mark" was singularly common in this period. This is possibly of his initials.

Isa Addington, Clerk.

The personal effects are those of a well-to-do colonist in that day of small things. His real estate was extensive and valuable, though in his lifetime he had distributed a large part of his lands among his children & presumably disposed of his holdings in Boston. (Joseph Joy refers in his will to land and other property received "by gift from my late Father Thomas Joy." Samuel Joy owned land in Boston which his father gave him. The inventory includes only such property as Thomas Joy owned in Hingham at the time of his death. Ephraim's settlement in Maine is perhaps due to his father's interests there.)

Much of this property, including the mills, homestead & farm, had been acquired in 1647 from Bozoan Allen. John Hart "of Piscatoe River had sold to him & Matthew Cushing jointly 4 acres in the waere neck." The subsequent Joy colonies in Cohasset & Weymouth are perhaps connected with his ownership of 12 acres in "Conihasset upland"

& 6 acres "next the Waymouth line." Other mowing lands in Hingham are located in the inventory.

He owned 24 acres "on the great plain," 5 acres "in the plain neck," 4 acres "by the old Planters Hill," 4 acres at "Laiford's Likeing" & much more. (Suffolk Deeds, I, 106; III, 491; VIII, 182; X, 145, 275.) A ledge on the famous Jerusalem Road, between Hingham & Nantasket, is still (1896) known as Joy's Rocks. It is to be observed that the grist mill, with the adjoining lands & improvements, are reckoned as a part of his estate.

The faithful widow, Joan Joy, left in comfortable circumstances, survived her husband more than a dozen years. Her life just touched the fourth generation of the American Joys, for she died in Hingham March 20, 1690/1, the next day after the birth of Prince[4] Joy, the first child of her grandchildren, Joseph[3] & Elizabeth (Andrews) Joy. With her forty years of wifehood & twelve as a widow she had reached a ripe old age. Thomas & Joan Joy are buried in the churchyard on the hill back of the meetinghouse, which still stands, (1966), the most ancient Protestant church in the United States. (In the "Rate of 1680" "For the building of a new Meeting-House" in Hingham, appears the following: "Joseph Joy promised £1 10s ood." "Widow Joy," "Thomas Joy" & wife of "Thomas Joy" were assigned seats in the "new Meeting-house.")

Enough has been brought out in this sketch to enable us to grasp the salient features of the life of Thomas Joy & form a conception of his character. His extensive possessions in Boston, Hingham & elsewhere display prominently the love for landed interests which characterize him in common with the great body of the English gentry of the period in which he lived. Though he was styled a carpenter, he filled the requirements of architect & builder in the metropolis of his day. His achievements easily place him in the first rank among those of his occupation throughout all the settlements of the Mass Colony.

Mr. Clough credits him with the design and construction of the best dwellings and meetinghouses of his day in New England. Professor John Fiske alluded to him as "the excellent 17th century architect" who "had a characteristic style." A copy of Mr. Clough's restoration of "the Joy Town House" was presented to the Ancient & Honorable Artillery Company in 1897 by one of Thomas Joy's descendants & was exhibited at the council chamber in the City Hall in Boston during the exercises commemorating the seventy-fifth anniversary of the city government. It was reproduced in The Boston Herald on September 18, 1897. Dr. Edward Everett Hale exhibited it at one of his Lowell Institute lectures on The History & Antiquities of Boston, in 1897. The drawing has been published in the National Cyclopedia of American Biography, VII 479; Beginnings of New England, Fiske, XXXVIII 1898, 305; in the beautiful series of plates with American historical decorations made by Wedgewood, of England, for Jones, McDuffee & Stratton Co, of Boston.

He had a large share of the energy & perseverance which have always been attributed to the Puritan settlers & the successful way in which he preserved his family fortune at a trying period of his life revealed the loving husband & father endowed with no small degree of self-reliance, forethought & endurance.

He was "orthodox in religion" & probably became a member of one of the local churches before his admission to citizenship. Nevertheless, he favored from the very first the extension of the suffrage to some of the non-freemen who were not church members & although he & his friends of a like mind failed to secure such a desirable amendment of the law at the time of their first attempt, he had the satisfaction of seeing the very principles for which they contended continually grow in popular favor & at length become embodied in the form of an enactment under the old colony charter.

He has been styled an "ardent lover of liberty" and certainly his stand in the matter of the suffrage & the whole tenor of his life seem justly to entitle him to the distinction of such a designation.

His independent spirit could brook no restraint or interference in what he believed to be his just civil & religious rights. As he made no effort to conceal his opinions, but rather courageously & openly expressed them, he was led into inevitable antagonism, however, which seems to have been occasioned by the intolerance of the clergy & the assumption of the magistrates rather than opposition to the puritanism of the churches. His position is therefore that of an advocate of a larger civil & religious liberty than was permitted the inhabitants of the colony in the first years of its existence. It is creditable to his political sagacity & practical good sense that the liberty sought & eventually obtained operated so beneficially.

In his religious convictions & moral worth, in his intelligence, independence & foresight, his business capacity & hard common sense, he is a worthy representative of the spirit & purpose & daily life of the early colonists of New England.

He was happy in his marriage & blessed in his children. When he relinquished his life of active & useful service it was in the sight of a posterity already numerous & established, destined with the increase of the generations to perpetuate his name & honor his memory.

"An outstanding example of Greek revival architecture is being moved, piece by-piece, from West Thompson Conn to Belmont Mass. The building is the historic West Thompson Methodist Church, built 1839-41, Asher Benjamin Architect. West Thompson was the seat of one of the earliest Methodist Conferences in the country and this church was the mother church of thirteen others in the Connecticut valley. However the entire town will be destroyed shortly to make room for a flood control dam.

"The historic church's savior is Charles P. Hamilton, headmaster of Belmont Hill School, who had been hunting for an old New England church which could be moved onto the campus & restored as a chapel.

"The dismantling of the church into approximately 10,000 pieces has already begun. The parts range in size from 65 foot beams & massive granite blocks to the wooden pegs holding the frame together. Everything is being loaded on trucks, transported to Belmont, there re-assembled. Mr. Roger Webb of RARE Enterprises, which has contracted to do the job estimates the chapel will be ready for occupancy next spring. It will then be the oldest church in Belmont.

"Present construction plans do not include restoration of the steeple, which blew down in the 1938 hurricane. If additional funds become available, this is a future project.

"Miraculously, the distinctively Asher Benjamin architectural features have escaped alterations by successive generations. There is no peculiar blend of Victorian or Contemporary architecture. In the interior the Greek influence is evidenced by the Ionic columns supporting the balcony & the elaborate coffered ceiling ornamented with plaster rosettes 2 feet in diameter. Even the furnishings have escaped modernization. Each pew has retained its original door. The pulpit, pulpit table, hymnals, table, chairs, windows, window lights, floor boards, wainscot, doors, locks & hinges all date from the first decade of the church's life.

"The cost of the entire moving & reassembling operation? Well, it will be about half the cost of building a similar chapel with new materials!" (From Sept 1963 Yankee Magazine by permission)

71 i. James[6], Wed 4 Mar 1778 - Groton Mass 14 July 1857; m Sun 19 Dec 1802 Sarah Gee, Newington NH Sat 15 Dec 1781 - Groton Mass 14 Dec 1858, da of John Gee & Deborah (Furber) (Mills) Pickering. James[6] learned blacksmith trade from his father, prosecuted it with new energy, industry & intelligence. He established a promising ship-building enterprise at Durham which was ruined by the Embargo Act of 1808 & the War of 1812.

In 1820 he removed to Pittsfield NH, where he bought the John Cram farm & used the water privilege to manufacture scythes & other implements, the firm name J Joy & Sons. He is regarded as the founder of Pittsfield NH & was the chief benefactor of the local academy. About 1826 he organized a company for the manufacture of cotton goods in Pittsfield NH & was the first agent of the corporation. Changes in the tariff laws so embarrassed these enterprises that Mr Joy turned to other things.

In the spring of 1838 he went with his son Charles[7] to Morgan Co Ill & bought farming lands in what is now 1896 Joy Prairie Morgan Co Ill intending to emigrate there. (See page 499).

James[6] having bought in 1840 the fine farm of Judge Livermore in Holderness nr Plymouth NH returned there, where he passed the remainder of his active life. In 1850 James & his wife went to live with their then unmarried children Richard Pickering[7] & Hannah[7]. Wherever he lived, he was noted for business enterprise, liberality & high character. Not the least factor of his success was the energy & devotion of his indefatigable wife Sarah Gee[3] Pickering.

Sarah[3] is descended from John[1] Pickering d 18 Jan 1669 bur Point of Groves Cem who settled at Strawberry Banke Portsmouth NH ab 1663, which is now (1964) being restored to its early Colonial charm. He owned much land there, as well as the South Mill & a tract of land of some 500 acres on Great Bay, Newington NH, a portion of which remains (1896) in the Pickering family.

John[1] m perhaps in Eng Mary. Of 6 ch, his 2nd ch Thomas[2] Pickering d 1719/20, settled on the Pickering grant at Newington & m Mary da of John & Hazelponah (Willix) Gee.

Taken to Eng by his father a Loyalist 1776, he returned to Boston after the peace 1783. His estate on Beacon Hill, once the "elm Pasture" of Judge Samuel Sewall the diarist, was bounded by Beacon, Walnut, Mt Vernon & Joy streets, included about 100,000 sq feet. "Dr Joy was desirous of getting a house "in the country" & selected this as being "country enough for him." The barberry bushes flourished over this whole area." (Bowditch.)

He was apothecary & physician, at Cornhill & Beacon Sts, Boston. (Boston Dir.)

The land cost about $2000.00. On the southeast part 97 ft on Beacon, 254 ft 7 inches on Belknap (now Joy) St he built a "modest & graceful wooden house" which was later moved to South Boston Point, where it stood in 1850 on land of Benjamin Adams, Esq. In 1833 Dr John's[6] heirs sold his residence lot for $98,000.00.

My dear Coz,

In turning over the "Historical Collections" some thoughts occur which I send to you. NUGAE! you will exclaim: & such they are, but they will shew you what interest I take in all that regards America.

My late excellent friend, Dr Eliot, observes (HC v 7, 1800) that N Engd is reproached with its puritanical origin. I could be content to derive from so pure a source—excuse the pun—but has anyone noticed how many of the first settlers had received a classical education? the best that Europe could then bestow. Perhaps no community then, or since, contained so large a proportion of literary characters. Their errors were those of the age; their virtues their own.

Mauduit (v 9 p 272) I believe was never a friend to N Engd & so thought the Ho of Representatives when they took from him the agency. Soon after the peace, 1783, a leading member of the Society for promoting Xtian knowledge brought to me a paper which had been given in by Mr M, to induce the Society to withhold any further allowances to the Missionaries in NE. At this gentleman's request, I drew up an answer to this paper; in which I set equity, law & religion all in array against Mr M. My friend thought my reasoning convincing & said he would avail himself of it. What is inserted in the HC brought this to my recollection.

Moody, of Newburyport(?) was possessed of considerable humor. At Boston a well-curled wig was given him: his parishioners were shocked at it, they said it was prelatical, popish & I know not what.

Moody delivered it to the elders to be reformed; they executed their power in so merciless a manner, that when they returned it to Moody, he told them there was nothing in the second Commandment to prohibit them falling down & worshipping the wig, for it was unlike anything in heaven or earth, or the waters under the earth.

The adroitness with which Moody secured for himself 3 eggs out of 5, when going with two of his Elders to an ordination, is a trite story which you must have heard.

Isle of Shoals. I doubt if there be now sufficient efficacy in your prayers to recover a lost boat; but you see Prince Hohenlohe & the Irish priests are still able to work miracles!!!!

Sir Henry Vane (v 7, 2d s, p 136) a man of talents as great, as his character was inexplicable. When Cromwell prayed the Lord to deliver him from Sir Harry Vane, he thought of him as Sylla did of Cesar,— "nam Cesari multos Marios inesse." (For Caesar is not to be many Marius's.") Burnet says "When Sir HV saw that his death was designed, he composed himself to it with a resolution wch surprised all who knew how little of that was natural to him. Some instances of this were very extraordinary, though they cannot be mentioned with decency." Swift in his remarks on Burnet (in the library of the Marquess of Lansdowne) says, on this passage, "His Lady conceived by him the night before his execution."

The Review of Military Operations, 1753-56, is curious; leaning somewhat in favor of Shirley; but upon the whole pretty fair.

In the Bill of Mortality for Boston 1816, I find 15 females upwards of 80, to 5 males. Does not Bacon somewhere say, women live longer than men, because they take less exercise, & lead a more ascetic life? I have often heard that it was difficult to get rid of an old woman; perhaps this hint from Bacon may suggest the means. To this subject of Longevity I early called the attention of Dr. Belknap; it was whilst he was writing his history of N Hampshire. An opinion then prevailed that the O B of Hippocrates applied specially to America. Many Americans entertained the same notion, but it was unfounded, as will appear from our Harvard Catalogue & from various other documents. This Bill of Mortality, inter alia, in a population of 33m, 20 super-octogenarians in one year, is a large proportion. Middleborough in 1802 & 1803, gives, I presume, a still greater proportion; but the population is not stated. And in Brookline nearly one tenth of the deaths above 80.

In N Series v 1, p 227 Sermons by Dr A Eliot 1774. One is on preaching to the Spirits in prison; a dark & obscure passage for you Theologians to trust yourselves in. I do not think that Dr E has thrown much light upon it. Since his time we have a sermon on this text by the late Bp of St Asaph, Horsley, a hard-headed controversalist, as Priestly found; he supposes these "spirits in prison" to be the souls of deceased good men shut up in the centre of the earth. Why these good souls should be confined in so comfortless an abode, we are not told. In the early days of the church, towards the close of the 4th century, Vigilantius placed the souls of prophets, saints & martyrs, either in the bosom of Abraham, or under the altar of God; & applying prophane logic to Spiritual matters, he says, "nec posse suis tumulis et ubi voluerunt adesse praesentes" (neither did they have their own graves nor yet be where they wanted to be present.)

To which Jerom replies, in some heat; "Tu Deo leges pones? tu apostolis vincula injicies, ut usque diem judicii teneantur custodia, nec sint cum Domino suo? de quibus scripturam est sequuntur Agnum quocunque vadit. Si Agnus (torn) ergo et hi, qui cum Agno sunt, ubique esse credendi sunt. Et Cum (torn) Diabolus et Daemones toto vagentur in orbe." (Thou, God, doest rule backwards. Thou throwest the Apostles in bonds, so that they might hold fast in the trials of the day & yet they are not with my Lord? And which scripture is to be followed by which one may follow the Lamb. If the Lamb (torn) therefore, these who are with the Lamb, where are they believed to be? and (torn) with the Devil & Daemons together they wander the earth.)

Strange company! If you have by you Burnet De Statu Mortuorum, turn to it; it is worth consulting on this subject. This volume of sermons is, however, very creditable to Dr Eliot. It is much regretted that my late friend Dr J E did not live to finish & revise his Ecclesiastical History of Massachusetts, What an amiable spirit of liberality & candour has he there shewn? & in fact on every occasion! my acquaintance with him commenced when he was a freshman, it soon ripened into friendship; it was impossible to know & not to esteem him.

In Prince's An. The sentence of Court on a man for theft, "That in future he shall be called Josias & not Mister, as formerly," reminds one of

Felicas proavorum atavos, felicia dicas
Saecula, quæ quondam sub regibus atque tribunis, Viderunt uno contentam carcere Roman.

(Fortunate were our ancestors & forebears.

You may call it a happy age which once was under rules & Regulations, they saw one contented Roman prison.)

Your account of the present flourishing state of Boston fully verifies the prediction of wonder-working Johnson Vol 2, p 92, "presages some sumptuous city."

I could continue but my paper warns me to release you from this farrago. I will therefore only add the assurance of my regards for you & Mrs. Homer & that I am ever truly

Yrs,

M. Joy.

"During the War of the Revolution Joseph Barrell took out letters of Marque & reprisal & fitted out one or more of his vessels as a privateer to Harrass British shipping. His most fruitful work, however, was to organize a group of financiers, of whom he was the leader, to fit out the ship Columbia & her consort the Washington, for exploration of the northwest coast of America. On the 2nd voyage Capt John Kendrick of the Washington bought in 1791 several large tracts of land of the principal (Indian) Chiefs, duplicate copies of the deed were made & one sent to Pres Jefferson. (Sylvanus[6] & Hannah (Smith) Bourne lived in "Kendrick House" in Wareham, Mass.)

"On May 11 1792 Capt Gray of the Columbia entered & named the Columbia River, took possession the 19th in the name of the United States & gave the US first title to the territory which now comprises Washington, Oregon & Idaho; this gave rise to the Centennial of Oregon in 1892."
(Col Fam in America, George Norbury MacKenzie IV 38.)

Hannah Barrell, later Mrs Benjamin Joy arrived in Boston 10 Aug 1790, from a trip to the Pacific on the ship Columbia.

In 1913, the Bernice P Bishop Museum, Honolulu, Hawaii, purchased from the desc of Joseph Barrell, two feather capes, formerly used by Hawaiian chiefs as state robes. In July 1964, the Museum furnished this information:

"Feather cloaks were the state robes & uniforms used in battle, belonging to the highest Chiefs (mo-i) of old Hawaii. They were made by covering one side of a fine network, made of the tough fiber of the olona, a nettle plant native to Hawaii, with the feathers of the Hawaiian forest birds, belonging to the endemic family Drepanididae & the related honeysuckers. The particular birds whose feathers were used in the Joy Cloaks were the iiwi (Vestiaria coccinea), bright scarlet with blackish wings & the o-o (Moho nobilis), now believed to be extinct, a black bird with a longish tail & two small tufts of yellow feathers, one on each thigh, which furnished the yellow feathers.

"The greater part of the larger cloak, which measures 66 inches from the curved neck line to the much longer curve of the lower edge; 34 inches across the curve of the neck, 156 inches along the lower edge, (called by experts the base), is covered with red iiwi feathers. Across this are 22 yellow circles of oo feathers, in four rows, 4,5,6 and 7 in each row. There is a yellow basal border, three semi-circles along the neck line & 3 yellow triangles on each side, known as the "Front," where the edges of the draped cloak meet.

"We know a little history since 1790, but nothing prior to that, about the ownership of the capes. The larger cape was taken from the Hawaiian Islands—island unknown—to Boston, where it arrived 10 Aug 1790, on the ship Columbia, Capt John Kendrick. This was an end of a voyage around the world, which began 30 Sept 1787.

"In possession of the Joy family of Boston, it was lined with a woolen fabric & used as a sleigh robe. For a time it was deposited in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, with this label: 'Arrived at Boston by the ship Columbia 10 Aug 1790. Given to Joseph Barrell, one of the owners of the Columbia. Inherited by his daughter Mrs. Benjamin[6] Joy, (Hannah Barrell); next by John Benjamin[7] Joy, then Charles Henry[8] Joy.'

"The smaller cape measures 34.2 inches in length & 89.5 inches around the lower edge. It is mainly of red iiwi feathers, with a lower basal border of oo (Yellow) feathers, two pair of small yellow triangles on the front. This cape is distinctive in having three large triangular areas of longer black feathers, perhaps also from the oo. This was carried to Boston by a Hawaiian passenger on the Columbia at the same time, named Attoo, sometimes referred to as the "Crown Prince." This cape was also given to Joseph Barrell & passed through the same hands."

Statement of Benjamin[6] in reply to complaints by Barrell children, after death of their father. 1804. (Condensed from pamphlet.)

STATEMENT

I am deeply impressed with the impropriety of asking the attention of the public to the private concerns of individuals & especially family disputes; & had the pamphlet which has lately been distributed by the Messrs. Barrell, with an intent to injure me, been confined to Boston where I was born, educated & now reside, & where my character is generally known, I should certainly have refrained from noticing it, but as they have given it a very extensive circulation throughout this & other states, an answer has become incumbent upon me . . . .

I am somewhat at a loss how to commence my answer . . . True it is I am loaded with the vilest epithets . . . even the reputation of Mrs. Joy (their sister) has not been regarded by these young men. They could destroy, it seems, her character "with equal facility" as mine but with their "great leniency" they forbear . . .

I consider this whole business by no means trifling in its consequences. I am well aware I am the head of a family, that I have a deep responsibility. I consider myself not so devoted to property as to give up character for it & I am deeply impressed with the truth that the judgment of the tribunal I am now before, involves the future happiness of my family & all I esteem dear in life. I therefore premise that my assertions in this appeal will not be hastily made & on the truth of which I shall be perfectly willing to stand or fall.

I conceive it will not be thought improper to say that on my arrival from India Oct 1795 I was indebted to no one, with an active property of over $200,000, with no person dependent on me . . .

In consequence of the ruinous speculations by Mr. Barrell in the Virginia lands, Georgia lands & French estates (none of much value) Middlesex Canal ($44,000), some bridges & the Western Reserve lands & in a very expensive establishment, his home at Pleasant Hill ($48,000) he became much pressed for money.

Before I was connected with his family he applied to me for a considerable loan, . . . $7,000 . . . I married Mrs Joy 1797 & before the close of 1799, having been induced by him to endorse his notes, I was obliged to take them up. Having to satisfy other demands against him, his debt to me was nearly $59,000, as in books & papers in his own hand. In this same year due to this debt & a conditional agreement made by me in his behalf, with Jones, Jeffery & Russell, Mr. Barrell gave me absolute conveyances of the principal part of his real & personal estate, with no stipulations or agreement.

It is probable that Mr Barrell, from our relationship & the course of my conduct toward him, conceived that if, by the management of this property, according to my best judgment, I should realize any residue, it would be applied to his & family benefit. Such has ever been my disposition; such was probably his confidence. . . .

I continued my advances which at his death were over $92,000. I would here beg the reader's attention to an observation, that this $92,000 & all property that ever belonged to Mr. Barrell, then in my hands, if sold on any reasonable terms, would not have been sufficient to discharge his debt at this time. At his death he left not one single farthing of property . . . .

Would it have been unreasonable or unkind to withhold further advances to his family? To have told them the very great extent to which I was already involved?

On the contrary I immediately took on the care, support & expense of the whole family, his widow & six sons, his son's widow & her 4 children . . . their different establishments, educating some, supporting all, to the present. For Mrs Barrell I have regularly been called upon . . . She retired to Wethersfield Conn, place of her birth, to be with her brother Col Webb . . . Her letters express her gratitude to Mrs Joy & myself.

The 2 eldest sons I established in business when they were of age, have endorsed their bank paper, am answerable for them at the bank. For Samuel Barrell now 26, though I paid for his liberal education, I have been at considerable expense, now over $3,700. This Samuel has been as I believe the principal if not sole agent in this shameful persecution. He sent me, to pay, his board bill since Oct of $158. All of the Barrell children have looked to me for support & received it to $12,888, without interest. Add simple interest, it becomes $17,150.

These young men have dared to say that this helpless family was committed by their father to my charge & that I promised to care for them. This is an absolute untruth. No such word ever passed between Mr Barrell & myself The manner of his death is a confirmation of my assertion.

He lived in Charlestown & enjoyed unusual good health. He went to bed as well as he had been for many years. On rising in the morning he was suddenly seized & complained of difficulty in breathing. Before he could dress his life departed from him.

Since his decease, payments for which I am answerable, advances for the family & interest, have brought the account, after credit for all monies received to above $185,000.

By the declaration of these young men it appears the concerns of their father were occasionally a subject of conversation between myself & them. That I uniformly stated to them that unless a compromise could be affected between the United States & the Georgia purchasers, my claims on the Barrell estate would absorb the whole property. They further say & make the foundation of one of their charges against me, that I also added if this claim was comprised they would realize something from their father's estate. At another time, if the Georgia lands come to anything, there will be considerable for them. I do NOT recollect making these declarations. Several years have elapsed by their own statement, since they were made. Nor do I think it necessary to deny them . . . .

When I saw how long the Georgia settlement would take & the depressed state of the Mississippi stock, I knew it would not fetch nearly as much as it stood me in & told them so.

I did not do this to deceive or disquiet them. I had nothing to fear, I was not in their power, I was telling them all the property was absorbed. Twenty years had elapsed between the purchase & the compromise . . .

I am now of the opinion if the compromise had been made in a reasonable time & full indemnity received, I should have received more than the amount of my expenditures & interest. I would have applied the surplus to the benefit of the estate . . .

A second charge is that I did not sell in 1804 the Pleasant Hill Farm, 77 Middlesex Canal shares, the eastern lands & Ohio shares. That these would have discharged my debt.

This is not in any part true . . . they would not have brought what they stood me in & the large sums owed Jones, Jeffery & Russell & others on Mr. Barrell's account by many thousands . . .

There was a prospect of Pleasant Hill Farm being connected by a bridge to Boston & I was reluctant to sacrifice while there were hopes of its being effected. The Canal shares would not have brought 4 shillings in the pound of their cost . . . No one has been able to dispose of their Eastern or Ohio lands.

Mr Barrell some years before his death was pleasantly situated on Pleasant Hill Farm . . . I almost say in 48 hours, but certainly in a very short time, as though his mind had been blotted out forever & a perfect delirium succeeded it, he rushed into speculations of the greatest magnitude & did not desist until he had made himself responsible for payments more than double his worth.

These speculations consisted of French estates, Ohio, Eastern, Georgia, Western Reserve lands; Middlesex Canal & bridges (shares); from all this, except Western Reserve I have had less than $300,000. (The Messrs Barrell claim I had more than $160,000 from Georgia speculation alone. Although they knew when they made the statement that due to disputed titles, I could have had only about $100,000 from Mississippi stock) . . .

At the commencement of his troubles most of this property was unsaleable . . . I was induced to advance money to extricate him from his troubles & finally obliged to become owner of all these ruinous, destructive, miserable purchases.

There are few, I trust who will say I could have sold them; fewer that I should not have sold them, if possible to do it to my advantage . . . I endeavored to use my best discretion & judgment in its management.

These young men, removing even the smallest pebble in the street in the fond hope of finding some weapon of destruction, make another charge respecting some wine of their father's. If I had not prescribed to my temper & feelings a different course, I should call this a pitiful charge.

I answer that this purchase was in pursuance of their own desire, as from the following certificate & at an appraisement by order of the Judge of Probate, which I undertake to say was 50% higher for the Madeira wine than any Madeira of any age or description was selling for at that time in the stores of Boston. (They misrepresented the quantity of wine by more than 1/8 part; many of the other items in the request, which are not inconsiderable, the signers took for themselves; & I am now accountable for them at the Probate office, although they make no part of my charge against them.)

Copy of request of Legatees of Mr J Barrell to B Joy.

"The subscribers, heirs & legatees of the late Joseph Barrell, Esq, wishing from motive of delicacy & respect . . . to his memory to prevent a public sale of the wines, liquors, books, family pictures & particular pieces of plate, are desirous that you would prevent it by taking those articles at prices fixed by the gentlemen appointed by the Judge of Probate to appraise the property he left.

To Ben Joy, Esq. Signed, Sarah Barrell
Boston May 1 1805 Charles Barrell
Henry F Barrell
George Barrell"

With respect to compound interest: the mercantile world makes up their accounts annually. At this moment I am indebted to the bank solely on the Barrell account & pay interest every 60 days.

In my statement I have not uniformly compounded the interest. I have subtracted sales & payments received from the foot of it. It would be extremely unjust that the payment be taken from the principal, when there is more interest due than the payment received . . .

I will now make a few observations on the remaining charge, which is the procrastination of my statement. Nov last was the time, by their declaration, that they applied to me for an account of transactions of 20 years standing.

I was then preparing for my departure for Washington, not only in my behalf, but as agent for the New England Mississippi Land Co, for persons concerned in the Georgia purchases, & particularly those claims of Mr. Barrell.

I well knew these young men had no demand on me; that the property was my own & I was responsible only to myself for its management . . . My only motive to give them any statement was to support & maintain the integrity of my character & views . . . To comply, I gave them a knowledge of the facts . . .

I sent the statement with a letter, to Mr Snow, a friend of the family, asking that it be shewn the Messrs Barrell. But as it was hastily drawn up & incomplete, it should not in future be brought against me. Much more time is required to make a true statement of these complicated transactions of 20 years.

In a letter to Henry F Barrell I desired that no authenticated copy of it should be taken. This statement they particularly examined, as they acknowledge in their Jan letter & from it made such extracts as they saw fit . . .

This was not a general accounting. It was a statement of every item, charge & credit for nearly 20 yrs. On re-examination I find trifling omissions & little differences from my present account, except in regard to bank interest, which in this last I have not estimated, although I have just claims to it.

What then is the next step taken? Why, these young men write me in Washington, protesting against all parts of my conduct, misrepresenting facts, abusing Mrs Joy & myself & finally declaring that, unless I would agree to leave all disputes, all my transactions & conduct to 3 impartial men, in 21 days from date, they would publish to the world their grievances & my refusal.

My answer is annexed to their pamphlet except that they omit Mrs Joy's name.

I returned to Boston the last of May. I was preparing, to their knowledge, as I promised, a full & accurate statement, when their pamphlet made its appearance, to which I hesitated long whether or not to reply . . .

I now solicit attention to a few prominent features in this pamphlet . . .

Mr. Barrell left a destitute family of twelve. Though I well knew my financial situation at that time, I have supported them to the present hour; the time his children lived with my family equals some 10 years board. The vexations, anxieties & sacrifices I shall not detail . . . .

Behold my reward! If there is any person after reading this statement & consulting his understanding, will lay his hand on his heart & conscientiously say he would have done more, to him this appeal is not addressed, for in his eyes I can never be justified. In those of all others I presume & hope I shall . . .

My advances with interest, for which I have satisfactory proof are above $184,000. This accounting should be examined & proved by 3 impartial & honorable men. To their decision I will abide with cheerfulness.

With the same cheerfulness I will submit to those gentlemen for their judgment, any fraud, dishonesty or wilful intention to lessen or increase the property for my own interest, to the exclusion of others.

As to the time of selling or not selling any part of the property . . . I will never consent to leave to the decisions of any persons. The property was duly conveyed to me, it was intended to be mine, it is mine . . . I am the sole person having any right in the disposition of it. I will not be accountable to any person or persons . . .

This is not through fear. The principle is wrong & I shall not submit to it. (The Messrs Barrell had some sinister design in endeavoring to draw from me a written promise to submit my conduct in relation to their father's affairs) . . .

I have reason to believe from their conduct, that, by exciting the apprehensions of Mrs Joy in my absence, & endeavoring to intimidate me with a threat to publish me to the world, they hoped to obtain from me, in their cunning, what would have amounted to a tacit acknowledgement of their right to call me to account, as agent of their father, which I totally disavow.)

In conclusion I will say that if the Messrs Barrell or any of their friends, will pay me the amount which those gentlemen determine was expended by me & the interest thereon & the amount for which I am answerable on account of Mr Barrell's affairs; or secure the whole to be paid to me by instalments at 6, 12, 18, & 24 months with interest, I will engage to convey to them every item of property I received from their father, for which I do not account. This shall not preclude me from disposing of any part of the property previous to their making such arrangement.

Having from a sense of justice to my character & duty to my family stated the leading facts in my connection with the Barrell affairs, I shall not, by any abuse from the authors of this pamphlet to which this is a reply, be induced again to trouble the public on the subject. On some gentlemen's opinions I shall rest for a complete justification of my account.

B Joy.

Clipping found in Mary[7] (Bourne) Joy's diary: "A wife's prayer: If there is anything that comes nearer to the imploration of Naomi than the subjoined, we have not seen it: Lord, bless & protect that dear person whom Thou has chosen to be my husband; let his life be long & blessed, comfortable & holy; let me also become a great comfort & blessing unto him, a sharer in all his sorrows, a meet helper in all the accidents & changes in the world; make me amiable forever in his eyes & forever dear to him. Unite his heart to me in the dearest love & holiness & mine to him in all sweetness, charity & compliance. Keep me from ungentleness & discontentedness & unreasonableness of passion & humor & make me humble & obedient, useful & subservient, that we may delight in each other according to Thy blessed Word & both of us may rejoice in Thee, having our portion in the love & service of God forever, Amen."

Found in James Frederick[7] Joy's pocketbook: "DETERMINATION: The longer I live, the more certain I am that the great difference between men—between the feeble & the powerful, the great & the insignificant—is energy, invincible determination. A purpose once fixed—& then—DEATH OR VICTORY; that quality will do anything that can be done in the world, & no circumstances, no opportunities, will made a two-legged creature a man without it.—Sir Thomas Powell Buxton."

Hon James Frederick Joy: AB Dartmouth College NH 1833 with valedictory oration; principal of Pittsfield NH Academy; tutor in Latin Dartmouth College 1834; LLB Harvard 1836; LLD Dartmouth and Iowa Colleges.

He settled in Detroit Mich as a lawyer with George F Porter, as "Joy & Porter." The firm practiced with conspicuous success for over 25 years, when other interests drew Mr Joy from his profession. In 1845/6 Mr Joy & Mr J W Brooks prepared a charter, organized a corporation, raised the money & purchased from the State of Michigan, the railway system, the construction of which had plunged the State into bankruptcy.

This purchase, followed by the completion of the railroad—The Michigan Central—marks the turning point in the history of Michigan.

Joy & Porter were attorneys for this corporation, as well as the Illinois Central & successfully conducted two of the most important suits in the history of American railway litigation.

Mr Joy now abandoned the general practice of law & devoted himself to the development of great railway enterprises. He was director of the Illinois Central; chief organizer & president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy; president of the Hannibal & St Joseph.

He built the bridge across the Missouri at Kansas City, which made that city the leading market in the Missouri valley. He purchased in his own name 800,000 acres of land in Kansas from the Cherokee Indians, organized the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf Railroad Co & built the railroad through the strip of land under protection of government troops.

Mr Joy resigned the management of the Burlington system, to become president of the Michigan Central Railroad Co., from which he retired in 1876. At a later period he was nominally president of the Wabash RR & aided materially in the difficult task of reorganization of the system. His last public enterprise was the erection of the Union depot in Detroit.

In 1860-61 Mr Joy was a member of the Michigan Legislature; in 1880 delegate-at-large from Michigan to the Republican National Convention. In politics he was successively Whig, Free Soiler, & Republican. He was a staunch supporter of the Presbyterian Church. His home life was unostentatious, his family & his library furnishing his chief delights. The Latin & Greek classics in Latin & Greek were his favorite relaxation from business.

The traits of character which made James Frederick Joy the foremost citizen of his state & a chief factor in the prosperous development of a large section of our country were clearly marked. They were business integrity, common sense, untiring industry, prompt decision & unswerving determination—all qualities clearly traceable in the lives of his parents.

Letter from Mary Bourne Joy to James Frederick[7] Joy

Monday morning (1865?)

My dear Husband,

I have just sent Archie to the office & he brought me your very welcome letter, which I fully expected as you did not come home this morning. I awoke quite early & looked & looked for you until half past seven o'clock.

I am very sorry you did not get all the letters I sent you last Saturday. You ought to have got them Sunday morning for I sent them early to the Post Office. I hope they have reached you ere this.

We are all moving along as well as can be expected in your absence. Sarah Reed[8] is enjoying her friend Mrs Holmes. Mattie (Martha Alger[8]) I think is getting to feel more settled at school & home too. Hannah has her fall bonnet newly trimmed & it looks very pretty. She likes it & can no longer have for an excuse for going out that she has no bonnet.

Fred's[8] face grows very yellow, clear down below his nose, the effect of his bruise. Harry Bourne[8] has his cracker & milk at night just before retiring. I do not like to feed him too much at first, especially while this warm weather lasts. He improves in walking & looks older every day.

I am trying to get my family ready for cool weather, but have so many varied interruptions, I make very slow progress.

Last Saturday evening we all walked around about ½ past eight to see the little church back of us, it being open & lighted for rehearsal. Upon our return about nine o'clock, Annie came rushing down stairs, as white as a sheet, saying she was in her room in her nightdress & Mr Howard spoke from his window at Mrs Root's and said "Mrs Joy, who is on your piazza?"

Annie opened the blind & he said a man just jumped from the roof of their back piazza onto ours, went the length of our piazza, climbed down the further post & ran off. Of course we were all very much frightened & Archie did not come in until half past ten! And then we made him search the house from top to bottom.

I think the man intended to get in at one of our windows. But Annie was flying around between her room & mine all the evening, the baby (Richard Pickering[8]) being very wakeful. Mattie & Annie both heard the gate open & we saw traces of his climbing up in our yard. They thought nothing of the creaking of the gate until they heard of this fellow. He must have been on the piazza about an hour.

I have Archie sleep in the little bedroom now & shall until you return, though I must say I think in case of emergency I should have as much if not more courage, than he. If you are going to be away so much we shall have to employ a private watchman. I think your police tax ought to insure us safety from burglars.

Yesterday Sunday it rained nearly all day & I remained at home in the evening to help guard the house, all going to church but Mary. The baby is awake & Annie has gone to put Fred to bed, so I must stop for a while.

It is after dinner & I resume writing to you & must close my letter so as to mail it this afternoon. I am very sorry you are kept so long from home. I have no money but will borrow until you come if I need any.

Mr Porter came up Saturday & wished to know if I would send word to the farm that the eaves & pipes were all ready to go to the farm & would like some of them to come in with a large wagon & get them. I sent Archie out on Saturday to tell them. William Burnham came in this morning with hay & is now waiting at Mr Porter's for them to finish the work. I have sent for him to stop here on his way home, so that I can tell him about the gate as you requested, etc. I will close now & write again tomorrow. With much love & many kisses for you my dear husband, your affectionate wife.

Speech by Hon James Frederick[7] Joy at Second War Meeting on the Campus Martius, Detroit Mich Sat 19 July 1862.
Fellow Citizens:

I am proud that I am a citizen of Detroit. That our city is loyal to the core, this meeting proves. The Constitution is in peril. It is a war, not for tariff or free trade or sailors' rights. Before me are men of every nation. It depends on us whether this country shall fall & be a shame in the eyes of the world. If not, we must fight. There was a time when the Roman Republic was invaded by Hannibal. Many of the provinces revolted and joined him. The Roman armies were almost totally destroyed. They raised another army & yet another & won. Let us emulate their example. (A voice—"Will you Go?") They will not have me, but I will furnish twenty substitutes (cheers). What I have is at the service of my country, if it takes every dollar." (Applause) (Hist of 24th Mich of the Iron Brigade, known as the Detroit & Wayne County Regt, O B Curtis 32).

James[6] Joy's Last Letters.

In 1857 James[6] Joy of Groton Mass, in his 80th year, wrote these letters to his wife Sarah Pickering & his son Richard Pickering[7], to be read after his death, which was near.

My dear beloved wife,

We are both old & feeble, & I find old age is fast bearing us down to our final rest. I am well aware that I shall not be here much longer. We have lived together many long years, & seen many happy days together.

We were both young when we were united together in Durham (NH) & spent many happy days there, surrounded with good friends and neighbors, & a young family of pretty, sprightly children.

But I found it necessary to extend my Business as my family increased, & I have never been sorry that we moved to Pittsfield (NH). Our family of children continued to increase & our means to support them also increased & we spent many happy days in Pittsfield. I think that was rather the pleasantest part of my Life. I had plenty of Land, plenty of Business, Our Children were all with us, apparently Contented & happy & I did expect to spend the remainder of my life there. But the great changes that took place in Business 1836, 37, 38 made it necessary for me & my Sons to change our business; & when they went to the west I intended to have gone with them & all settled in the same Neighborhood & like Ruth & Naomi, Lived & Died all to have been buried together. But it was not so to be & it now appears that we shall not be united again in this world of sin & trouble.

Many days & years have passed since our family have been separated; we have been called to mourn the loss of several of our dear, beloved Children, taken away from us by that wise God that rules all the works of His Hands for His own glory & agreeable to His own plans from the beginning.

But my dear wife, we have great reason to be thankful for those dear Children that have been spared to us in our old age. They are all Respectable & in good Circumstances & we have reason to hope they will live for a Comfort to us while we live & a Comfort to each other— so long as they are permitted to live.

I do hope, my dear wife, you will continue to live with Richard[7], happy & contented during the remainder of your life. He has been a good son to us & I think is entitled to the most of my property after you have done with it.

If Hannah[7] remains unmarried, I hope she will have a happy home with you & Richard as long as she pleases.

Now my dear wife, I must bid you a long, long farewell & I do believe & hope that we shall all finally meet in that happy world where peace forever Reigns.

I am at peace with all men & I trust & hope with my God & Saviour.

I once more bid you farewell & before you receive this I shall probably be far advanced on my journey to that final home, from whence no traveler ever returns.

With sincere affection I remain your loving husband as long as life Shall last. James Joy.

My Dear Son, (Richard Pickering[7])

I am aware that I have but a short time to remain here with you & when I leave you I have a desire that my Business may be so arranged that you will have very little trouble to settle my estate. My will is that you have most of my Property after your Mother's decease, & if she is Satisfied with this, I think you had better agree to pay her $800 a year during her life & let her do with it as she has a mind to. But it is my desire that she remain with you & that you make her Situation as pleasant & happy as you can the Short time she has to remain with you. & if Hannah remains unmarried I want her to have one of the chambers & make her as comfortable as you can. She will have Income enough with prudent Care to maintain her & I hope she will be contented & happy, let her lot fall where it will.

My dear Son, I have worked hard all my life to lay up some property for my children & it is a Comfort to me to know that you are all in good Circumstances. You are now in easy circumstances & with prudence you have income enough to maintain you without so much hard work as farmers here are compelled to do & I hope you will not go into any risk to lose what you have. One thing I advise you never to do. Never endorse for anyone, not even your own Children, if you have any. Not even the nearest & dearest friend. Many men lose their property & become poor by signing for their sons. I have seen it so often that I tremble when I think of it & if you do it you will be ruined. Riches make to themselves wings & fly away. I advise you to have your buildings here & at Manchester always insured. Do not neglect, not even for a day, & look close after your money concern. Keep a Memorandum of every note & Bond that you may always know how your business stands. Much depends on your brother Frederick's[7] care. But he may be taken away suddenly. He is liable to accident & it is much better for you to have your business under your own care than any other man.

Your affectionate father,

James[6] Joy.

From US Army in World War II p 3, in vol on "The Women's Army Corps" — put out by Chief of Military History of the Dept of the Army:

"From the earliest days there were innumerable stories of females who disguised themselves well enough to enlist in the army . . . There is evidence not all were fictional . . . The American Congress passed a special Act in 1838 & recognized the claim of one Rev soldier, Deborah (Sampson) Gannett, alias Robert Shurtleff, by granting her husband Benjamin Gannett a "widow's pension"."

Although Benjamin Gannett does not seem to be connected with this Joy-Gannett line, he may be a cousin, the story is interesting.

The following is from the Natl Archives file #5-32722 under Deborah Gannett: "Deborah Gannett b 1759 of Sharon, Norfolk Co Mass, applicant for a pension for service in the Rev War, maketh oath that she served as a private soldier under the name of Robert Shurtleff upwards of two years . . . Enlisted Apr 1781 in co commanded by Capt George Webb in the 4th Mass regt commanded by Col Shepherd, & afterwards by Col Henry Jackson 8th Brigade of Gen John Patterson & served in said corps in Mass & NY until Nov 1783 when she was honorably discharged in writing, which discharge is lost . . . Her former certificate was #13434.

"She was at the capture of Lord Cornwallis, was wounded at Tarrytown & now receives a pension from the United States, which she hereby relinquishes. She is in such reduced circumstances as to require the aid of her country for her support.

"Mass Dist 14 Sept 1818 — sworn before M Davis, Dist Judge. After slow investigations, Deborah d 29 Apr 1827. Benjamin d Jan 1837. Congress passed a special bill 7 July 1838 awarding him & heirs $466.66 . . ."

James Frederick[7] and Mary (Bourne) Joy, #146.

Barkentine James F. Joy, built 1864 for George W. Bissell by Stewart McDonald at his shipyard foot of 12 St., Detroit. Designed by Capt Stephen Langston 179 x 35 x 13 ft, 1000 tons cargo. She was largest ship on Great Lakes when built. Photo of original sail plans copied by Richard Pickering[8] Joy #306.

Honorable James F Joy

Dear Sir

Your many friends and fellow citizens earnestly desire that your approaching birthday shall not pass without some public manifestation of their respect and esteem for your character and their appreciation of your long continued and eminent services to this community.

It is more than fifty years since you came to Detroit. It was then an unsignificant town; Michigan itself was largely a trackless waste. It had neither railroads, canals, or any other improved means of transportation.

Now Detroit has attained metropolitan rank. Railroads have penetrated the most remote parts of the State, opening prodigious sources of wealth, and building happy and prosperous homes all over the land.

These are the splendid fruits of those great enterprises of internal improvements in which, for many years, you have borne so large a part, and to which your wisdom, foresight, and indomitable energy have contributed so much.

We gratefully acknowledge our indebtedness for what you have done in the past, but, at the same time, we congratulate ourselves for the assurance that your health and vigor gives of years of prolonged usefulness.

We honor you for the great ability, integrity, and tireless energy which have combined to make your services so beneficial to our City and State. As your neighbors and friends we wish to meet you, that we may offer you, in person, our sincere tribute of respect and esteem for your high character and gratitude for your invaluable services. We therefore ask you to accept a Public Reception on your next birthday, at such place as may be agreeable to you.

Detroit, November 14th 1891

A family tradition holds that Zelah[7] was something of an engineer. At Kerhonkson Ulster Co NY, a wooden bridge over a creek was regularly washed away by spring freshets. Zelah offered to rebuild the bridge proof against anything short of an earthquake. He secured the contract & sprung a stone arch over the stream. The village wise men predicted it must collapse when the wooden framework was removed. One dark night the old Yankee stonecutter & son William[8] slipped the keystone into place, removed the supports, leaving the perfect arch to confound his critics. The "Joy Bridge" still stands (1896) testifying to his workmanship.

"I have been checking with older residents of Kerhonkson area—some recall hearing of such a bridge." (Eileen Baker Town Clerk Town of Rochester; the Town Seat is the Hamlet of Accord NY. The Hamlet of Kerhonkson is in the Town of Wawarsing; their Town Clerk is in Ellenville NY." Aug 1966.)

"A Jacob Joy owned a rather large farm 1850-90 in Naponoch nr Kerhonkson. I find no Joys in this area now. Katherine Terwilliger Ellenville NY Aug 1966."

This was of course "outside" as the Cape Cod Canal was not built. July 1900 began passenger & freight service NY to Providence with the "City of Richmond" & the "Tremont."

The New Haven RR at once started a "rate war" which continued on & off several yrs. Joy Line in reprisal started NY to Fall River Mass service 1906.

The sinking of the Larchmont off Watch Hill RI with loss of 183 lives (of 200 aboard) 11 Feb 1907 brought financial disaster to the Joy Line. Reorganized under control of New Haven RR under name "Bay State Line" controlled by Hartford & NY Transportation Co which in turn was a New Haven RR subsidiary.

In 1910 Mr Dunbaugh started the Colonial Line, which ran until the US government took all their vessels in World War II. The Colonial Line had no legal or financial ties with the Joy Line, but in effect took over their route. Most of the personnel were former Joy Line employees.

Their vessels included: (A—Formerly): Allan Joy a Cape Charles; Larchmont a Cumberland (Portland SP Co); Edgemont a State of Maine (Portland SP Co); Tennessee a Lincoln; Kentucky a Martinique; Fairchild a Richard Borden. (Steamship Hist Soc of America Inc Staten Island NY.)

Interested in sociology, his opinions at an 1899 convention of correctional & charitable organizations in Detroit, show his insight on the subject to be keen. He had earned recognition as a careful earnest & advanced student of sociology. "He concedes there is no possible way of eliminating the confirmed criminal classes except by the drastic process of forcible extinction a process as repugnant as it would be effective. He also discussed reformatory methods but struck the keynote to the best development of society in urging for children such environmental & educational advantages as will minimize criminal tendencies & divert their thoughts to the better walks of life." "Fort St Presbyterian Church is listed by Det Hist Soc as one of 14 historic landmarks in Detroit. It is one of the historic churches of the midwest.

It was founded 1848, organized 1849 with 26 charter members, by men who wished to start a Sunday school. They were warned that a church so far out in Detroit on the "west side," at Fort & 3rd Sts, would not succeed. A Conn architect Albert H Jordan was retained "to design an imposing edifice." Begun in 1853 it was dedicated 1855.

The sanctuary seating 1200 has been cited as an outstanding example of Gothic revival in the USA. The spire rises 224 feet. The outside chime tower is modeled after King's Chapel Oxford Eng. Of interest are the stone finials around the top of the bldg. The significance of the stone faces under the finials is no longer clear. Other features of note are: the great hammer-beam timber roof, the span exceeded only by Westminster Hall London Eng; the soaring fenestration; the carved angels in front of the chancel, partly hidden by the organ; handcarved walnut pews, a lost art in woodworking; the baptismal font of Caen (France) stone on Mexican onyx columns.

The Swift organ, built 1915 contains 4 manuals & 3,253 pipes. The Amer Guild of Organists consider it one of the outstanding organs in this country.

Mr James Joy provided funds for Joy Kindergarten, Kolhapur India, which still, 1962 serves orphans there."
(From Fort ST Presbyterian ch folder 1962.)

A letter from Robert W. Harvie, Kolhapur India 10 July 1966:

"The Joy Kindergarten building was used as such until the mission was dissolved 1955 & the Indian Church took over. Until 1962 regular classes were held privately, then sporadic classes until 1965. The building is now used for small group meetings. I still have vivid memories of a week long seminar on stewardship held there Jan 1964. The Alice Home for Widows & Orphans was built about the same time as Joy Kindergarten. Unless the Church in India takes a larger share in the support of this home it will probably also close in a few years."

Letter from James Richard[8] Joy to his daughter Helen[9] (Joy) Rushmore.

Thurs 10 Mar 1910

My dear Daughter,

I am in "New Mexico" (name of Pullman car) riding southward along the ice-fringed Hudson, returning from Detroit. Your cousin James[8] Joy left home Monday morning in his usual health. 100 steps from his door he fell, death-stricken with apoplexy. After they brought him home he was conscious briefly & bade Emilie goodbye, but only lived an hour.

Yesterday I lunched with Harry[8] at his palace on Lake St Clair. The funeral was from James' house. After returning from the burial I boarded this car & shall be in NY (DV) at 2.

James[8] was 63 years old. He was never in business, but, apart from his work for his father & their large estate, his time & money were devoted to the church & missions. For 25 years he had been Supt of the Sunday School, Fort St Pres Ch. He was very highly esteemed. He had no children.

His 2 half-brothers are Harry[8] & Richard[8]. Harry is my age—a tremendous worker, now Pres of the Packard Auto Co with 5500 men in his employ. His wife was Helen Newberry (of a great Detroit family). They have 2 das Helen[9] 14 & Marian[9] 10.

Dick[8] is Alice[8] (Joy) Arms age. He was a widower 12 years. Is married now to a rollicking girl of 21. They have a little boy R P Jr. Dick is a big handsome dark haired man & is Pres of the Bank of Commerce. I thought this was a good time to give you a lesson. We're nearing NY now & I must come to a halt. I hope this letter will not be a hindrance to you for I want to help you just as much as I can. I am glad that college has taken such a strong hold of your "insides" as you expressed it. This is just what I hoped would be the case.

Yours lovingly — Father.

They were married in the small Evangelical Ch which stood at the corner of Lake Shore Drive & Kerby Road. This property was known as Hamilton Park, with a golf course in the center of a trotting horse race track, extending back from Lake Ste Clair, covering some 40 acres. Some of the maple trees ringing the track in two rows are still seen, 1964. This entire property was purchased by Mr. Joy, where he built his home in 1909. This was torn down in 1959 & the property subdivided.

Henry Bourne[8] was educated in Detroit Public schools: Orchard Lake Mich Military Academy; Phillips Academy Andover Mass; Yale Sheffield Scientific School ex-1886; travelled extensively in Europe & western US until about 1890.

Mr. Joy worked for the Peninsular Car Co; was treasurer of the Fort St Union Depot, of which his father was president. On the death of his father, in 1896, he succeeded him as president of the Detroit Union Railroad Depot & Station Co.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, Mr. Joy enlisted in the US Navy at Norfolk Va, April 29 1898, with the rating of Chief Boatswain's mate. In this capacity he served with the Michigan State Naval Reserve Unit, which formed the crew of the USS Yosemite, until honorably discharged at League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia 22 Aug 1898.

The Yosemite participated in the blockades of Havana & Santiago, Cuba & San Juan, Porto Rico, where on June 28 she was engaged for three hours with a Spanish cruiser, torpedo boat & gunboat, being also under fire from the forts. His brothers-in-law served also on the Yosemite, Lt Truman Handy Newberry was Executive Officer & John Stoughton Newberry Jr was Chief Quartermaster.

In 1899 Mr Joy assisted in organizing & financing the Peninsular Sugar Refining Co, the largest sugar beet factory in the state, of which he was a director & treasurer. In 1900 he was appointed receiver for the Chicago & Grand Trunk RR Co.

In 1902 he entered the automobile business, by purchasing an interest in "The New York & Ohio Company" of Warren Ohio to manufacture a motor car designed by James W Packard. In 1903, with capital raised by himself, the plant was moved to Detroit, as the Packard Motor Car Co of which he was general manager, being elected President in 1905. Under his leadership emerged the renowned Packard motor car. He was chairman of the Board in 1916-17.

He was mainly responsible for the development of the Liberty airplane motor, acclaimed as one of the outstanding emergency achievements of World War I.

In 1917 Mr Joy was commissioned Captain in the Signal Corps, US Army, assigned to duty in the aviation section. At this time he severed his connections with the Packard company. With the rank of Lt Col he served in various capacities. Stationed near Augusta Georgia he organized four regiments of motor mechanics, who served in France to assemble the Liberty Motors over there. He never had orders to go abroad with any of the regiments to his regret.

Mr Joy worked for the repeal of the XVIII Amendment; he established Joy Hist Research, collecting data on the Abraham Lincoln-James Frederick Joy correspondence on Mich railroads. This data was given Clement Library at U of Mich. He presented the original diary of Geo Washington (Oct 1789-Mar 1790) to the Detroit Pub Library.

Mr Joy was active in Liberty Loan, Red Cross & other campaigns. He acquired Joy Field, a large tract of land nr Mt Clemens Mich, on Anchor Bay an arm of Lake St Clair. He built it into a bird sanctuary for Canada geese on their migrations north & south. Later the land was cleared, diked, drained & put in condition at Mr Joy's expense for use as an aviation field. He offered its use to the US Govt, who accepted & renamed it Selfridge Field. At the close of WW I, Mr Joy sold it to the US Govt at no profit to himself.

In 1912 Mr Joy was one of the prime movers in the establishment of the Lincoln Highway, "That there should be a Lincoln Highway across this continent is the important thing." He formed the Lincoln Highway Assn, was elected Pres, holding the office until his death 1936. (See Lincoln Highway, Dodd Mead & Co 1935.)

In 1938, on the Lincoln Highway on the Continental Divide, west of Creston Wyo, a granite monument (Westerly RI granite) was erected: "In memory of Henry B Joy, the 1st Pres of the Lincoln Highway Assn, who saw realized the dream of a continuous improved highway from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

Mr Joy also served as one of the original directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago; director of: Natl Assn of Mfgrs; US Chamber of Commerce; Natl Automobile Mfgrs Assn; Amer Protective Tariff League; Amer Fair Trade League. He was a member of: The institute of Radio Engineers; Bd of Woman's Hosp Detroit; trustee Grace Hosp Detroit & Det Coll of Medicine & Surgery; Vice Pres Navy League of US.

Mr Joy was an ardent amateur radio operator, a member of the US

Skeet shooting team. He patented the Joy Automatic Skeet Timer.

Helen Newberry Joy, a leader in the cultural, philanthropic & civic life of Detroit, was educated in Detroit & NY City; member of many patriotic societies, musical & theatrical groups, philanthropic & civic organizations; helped found the Mich Ch of the Amer Red Cross in 1905; served as chairman of the Board of Lady Managers of Detroit Grace Hospital & gave them Helen Newberry Joy Nurses Home; one of the founders of Women's Hospital & the Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe. In 1915 Mrs Joy & her two brothers, Senator Truman Newberry & John S Newberry gave to the University of Michigan the second women's dormitory, naming it after their mother, Helen Handy Newberry. Of the many honors that came to her, she was perhaps proudest of the following:

Citation accompanying the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Arts, Wayne University, June 17, 1948.

"Helen Newberry Joy, a native of Detroit; member by birth & marriage of families whose lives are part & parcel of the historic events of our country & especially of our old Northwest Territory; now as ever actively engaged in her chosen field of service for others.

"In our community, her life & work are an inspiration, often to lead the way, always to kindle the spirit of others. The story of her activities is legendary. In every good work whether for social welfare, health & civic improvement; for education & assistance to young & old; for the encouragement of art & music; & especially for the development of the best in patriotism, she has provided brilliant leadership. Buildings stand because she helped erect them; lives are stronger, limbs are straighter, hearts are lighter, minds are clearer, because she helped to heal them.

"The future holds a better promise because she reminds us that out of the indomitable spirit of our past & the courageous will of our present nothing we wish to achieve is impossible. To a great-hearted citizen this University, which here serves as spokesman for the community, wishes to express appreciation for a life of service & an example of devotion to the highest ideals of womanhood."

A testimonial was presented to her in 1953 by the city of Detroit.

164 Ch of Hiram[7] (Abij[6-5]-Benj[4]-Saml[3-2]) m(2) Caroline Hayden:

320 i. Caroline[8] Joy French, Hallowell Me 9 Aug 1833 - "Arbor Lodge" Nebraska City Neb 29 June 1881, after 5 mos of great suffering; bur Wyuka Cem, Nebraska City; m by Rev Joshua Cooke of Jefferson Ave Pres Ch at home of Mr. David French, corner Congress & Brush Sts 30 Oct 1854 Julius Sterling[8] Morton, Adams, Jefferson Co NY 4 Apr 1832 - Chicago Ill 1902 (son of Julius Dewey[7], Adams NY 10 Mar 1808 - Detroit Mich 14 Feb 1865 & Emeline (Sterling) Morton - Abner[6], 1774 - Dartmouth Mass 1863 - Abner[5] b 1735- Samuel[4] b 1709 - Abraham[3] b 1676 - Richard[2] b 1640 - George[1] Morton b 1615.

As her mother's dying wish, Caroline was given to trusted friends, childless, Dea David & Cynthia (Eldred) French. She took the name of French, but was not legally adopted. Educated at an Epis School in Windsor, Canada, at Wesleyan Seminary Albion Mich, & a girls' school in Utica NY, she was adept at music, drawing, painting, sewing. At home she had religious training, was taught "the duties of Housewifery" & learned "the ethics of use & immorality of waste." A handsome young woman, tall, slender, graceful, luxuriant brown hair, hazel eyes, always dressed with taste & a due regard for the occasion, genial, cordial, gentle . . ." Engaged at 14, she married at 21.

Their wedding trip was by rail from Detroit to Chicago & Alton Ill; by steamer down the Mississippi to St Louis; another boat on the Missouri to St Joseph, & stage coach to Council Bluffs. This took seven full days & nights of hard travel.

Nov 1854 the Mortons settled in their 2 room log cabin at Bellevue, a hamlet, with no more than ten other women there. It was on a bluff above the Missouri River.

In 1855, when the capital of the territory was moved to Omaha, Mr Morton "claimed" a "forty" near Nebraska City, building a one-story frame house, with a long front porch, "Arbor Lodge." The original was added to, as family & social life required. It grew under her loving care into a home of comfort & elegance, center of all the domestic virtues. On the day of her funeral business in Nebraska City was suspended & many persons of all stations of life assembled to pay honor to her memory. Today, 1881, it stands an ample, handsome, delightful mansion. A conifer brought by her hands from the mountains is marked with a stone, which one cannot read without a tear.

Her four sons carried her to rest in Wyuka Cemetery, Nebraska City. The monument erected is a shaft 20 ft high, 3 ft in diameter, in the form of a tree, broken at the top. A branch hangs, symbolizing the broken life. Opposite side from the branch is a knot cavity, in which are three fledgling birds, which have left the nest. At the top of the trunk, looking down, is the anxious mother, her youngest fledgling under her wing.

Around the base lie emblems of her life—a music sheet with Rock of Ages on it, needles & embroidery materials, a palette, pencils & brushes, graceful ferns & large lichens, a vase on its side with broken lilies, ivy twining to the top.

This 20 foot square is protected by a fence of stone, a foot high, resembling logs standing on end, close together, across which lie whole stone logs, horizontally.

(From "In Memoriam—Caroline Joy French Morton" by J. M. Woolworth, Cortlandt Neb Christmas 1881.)

Mr Morton early entered public life: Sec'y of Nebraska State 1857; acting Gov 1859-60; Sec'y of Agriculture in Pres Cleveland's 2nd Cabinet 1893-97. (Dict of Amer Biog XIII—157.)

Francis[8] was brought up in family of his gr-father Ramsdell a Marblehead fisherman. A kind neighbor, his only teacher, taught him to read. At 12 he began to earn his living, as cook on a Grand Banks (Newfoundland) fishing smack, then apprentice in a rope walk. Out of his small earnings he bought books & subscribed to a weekly newspaper; was active in literary society & militia co. After a brief experience making women's shoes, he was appointed 1838-50 a dept supt in the gov't cordage works at Charlestown Mass Navy yard; popular with the workmen, interested in political questions, Capt of Charlestown Militia Co, 1841-47; prominent Odd Fellow; generally esteemed as an active, intelligent & useful citizen. While agent of a fire insurance co he met Mr F M Holmes, with whom 1850 he formed a partnership for manufacture of furniture. First as Holmes & Joy, later F M Holmes & co, the firm was one of the most prosperous in the country. Mr Joy in charge of sales & correspondence, contributed greatly to its success. In his prosperity he did not forget his early life in the fisherman's cottage. In token of regard for his grandmother Margaret Ramsdell he gave an organ & other gifts to 1st Baptist Ch in Marblehead. His mother & mother-in-law he assured a comfortable living & made substantial recognition of his regard for many of his early & worthy associates.

Prof Dr Charles Arad[8], Ludlowville NY 8 Oct 1823 - Stockbridge Mass 29 May 1891; m Minden Prussia 15 July 1855 Laura Louisa Henrietta Rupe, Minden Prussia 7 Sept 1833 - London Eng 1 Mar 1929. Prof Charles Arad[8], entered Williams Coll but changed to Union Coll, grad 1844 AB, in class with bro Henry L[8]; studied law at Harvard, LLB 1847; diverted from law by joining a party for 2 yrs to survey region around Lake Superior; studied chemistry at Gottingen Univ, Germany PhD 1853; Prof of Chemistry at Union Coll, then Columbia Coll NY City; until 1877, retiring due to failing health. An indefatigable student & laboratory experimenter, his 1st important investigations begin in Gottingen, with early researches into the field of the combination of alcohol radicles with selenium; later into the compounds of glucinum, his articles in Amer Journal of Science; later into analysis of minerals & meteorites, articles in Dana's Mineralogy.

Member of juries of World's Fairs of London, Paris, Vienna & Philadelphia; Pres NY Lyceum of Natural Hist, now Academy of Sciences; Pres Amer Photographic Soc; Pres Polytechnic Assn of the Amer Institute; foreign sec'y American Geographical Soc; member of many learned societies at home & abroad; ed of Journal of Applied Chemistry & other scientific periodicals & a voluminous contributor on chemistry topics. For several yrs after 1877 he lived in Europe & "was known all over the city of his residence as the helper of wandering Americans to whom he was a friend, interpreter & guide." The closing months of his life were spent in Stockbridge Mass one of his favorite homes. "We who knew him here never knew a man who took more delight in doing kind things, saying kind words, helping young scholars or smoothing the way of others in the rugged paths of life." Dr Henry M Field, ed NY Evangelist, 4 June 1891, pays a glowing tribute to his friend, "who will always remain in our memory as the type of the gentle scholar." (excerpts from Records of an Active Life, Dyer).

Letter to Dr. Henry L[8] Joy from Arad[7] Joy—

Ovid NY 3 Apr 1850

My dear Son,

I enclose the $600 less the premium as you requested. If you collect, or have hope of receiving in a very short time the $214 from Easterly, you can return the smallest dft. I prepared it in this way in the hope that you would get the $214 there. I hope you will.

Mr. Dyer & Cornelia have written me, expressing much satisfaction with your arrangement, etc.

A long letter from Charles to Cornelia was rec a few days since & sent to her. It is a fine letter & you ought to see it. When you write her, ask her to send it to you, to be returned to her.

Today we had one from Charles to Horatio, like the other, we sent it to Ludlowville to be sent to Cornelia & by her to you. But the other I forgot to make that request.

Brother Benjamin & his family want to see them, so we send all that way to Cornelia. Be sure to ask CC to send you Charles letter. We will try to have you see all we get. The envelope was turned & the inside was postmarked Marshall, as if he had a correspondent there.

Mrs Wm Dunlop etc has a son or daughter & Mrs Herman Eastman has a son.

We have had a cold snap, but now for a few days it has been warm & the roads begin to be passable. Today Horatio & I went to Romulus to see the King buggy but it was sold.

Having to be at Auburn on business on the 5th I think I will go to Skaneatales & see theirs & I can then judge better as to Kings. If I conclude in the end to get one there, or I may get one at Skaneatales. Cowles has left for Brockport & Warren S Reed has taken the store.

Horatio is writing, he will of course post you up on all the news. Let me hear from you often, be minute & let us know how you come on. Was my last letter satisfactory. Poor Calhoun is dead. I am astounded at the result of Webster's trial. I notice the court, as well as the jury & all others call him the murderer. Do you see my friends? I got you a barn coat, but only a linen one, which is the very best. It can be washed & it can be put on over another, etc.

Affectionately, Arad[7] Joy
Ovid NY 3 Apr 1850

Horatio Nelson[8] Joy to his brother Henry L[8],
Ovid NY 3 Apr 1850

My dear brother,

You will see from this that I am still in this delightful town. I don't know that I have anything very new to tell you in regard to my movements. I had expected to have returned to Phila long before this, but as father wrote me from there that Burr had gone to New Orleans, I concluded that I might as well be here as there as I could not settle up my affairs till he ret.

I have made out to enjoy myself since I have been here, pretty well. I have not been out of town however to make any calls in a long time, because the roads have been so bad it was impossible to get about. I have been down to Schuylers but once & that was several weeks ago.

The roads are now getting quite good so that I can soon venture out again. The last day of February (whilst father was in Washington) I concluded that it was about time to disturb the rats & mice at our house, for it appeared as though they had taken peaceable possession, as there was no one to interrupt their gambols, or at least so few of us that when I come to go to bed everything looked gloomy enough.

In order to disturb this monotony, I proposed to John Ferguson that he & I should give a "Bachelor Party." This we did, only inviting those in town. We had one grand good time, although it thundered, lightened, hailed & rained about the time they were to come. I sent the carriage around & gathered them all in, etc.

They all say it was decidedly "The Party of the Season." We kept it up till 3 o'clock in the morning. When we broke up the moon was up & it was a glorious morning. My invitations attracted a great deal of attention from their oddity.

This I believe is about all the news I have to tell you out of the regular run of news in this place & so far as that is concerned, I suppose father has posted you up to the present time. Rev Mr Smith leaves for New York next week. Mr Doig is now here. I want to go back to Phila in time to return here, so as to go to Michigan with father in May. But this will depend somewhat on Burr.

I am very glad you have settled down in Marshall, for now you are ready to live, without first making your friends. They are already made & are about you.

In regard to myself I have nothing to say at present. Doig says that I ought to be looking about for a wife, etc. He says by no means settle in Michigan.

Remember me to all my good friends in Marshall.

Affectionately,

Horatio N^{s} Joy

ii. John Randall[8] Jr, 26 Dec 1826 - 1827.

395 iii. John Dolbeare Waters[8] b&d Boston Mass 6 Apr 1828 - 4 Oct 1898; m there 4 May 1854 Frances Emily b 16 Feb 1829, da of Joseph & Margaret (Richardson) Bassett of Boston. Born on North Sq, but boyhood home was on Salem St, nr church where signal lanterns were displayed for Paul Revere 18 Apr 1775; attended Eliot school on N Bennett St; employed at early age by Mason, Lawrence & Co, drygoods commission merchants, where his character & ability gained his admission as a partner, the firm being known as Lawrence & Co; in 1866 left this house to become the active member of Frothingham & Co; on death in 1872 of Mr Frothingham, he est the firm of Joy, Langdon & Co, with offices in Boston & NY City & was an active member until his death, 1898. For nearly 50 yrs he held a prominent place in the dry goods commission business & had the closest connection, as selling agent, stockholder, director & pres, with many of the largest mills in NE; director NE Nat Bank; on Board of Managers of Suffolk Savings Bank for nearly 40 yrs. Although eminently a business man, giving his business his active & close attention, up to within a few hours of his death, he was a man of broad views; his fine physique enabled him to do a large work in many other fields. When quite a young man he joined the Howard Benevolent Soc, was assigned the personal charge of the "North End" district, covering very largely the land formerly owned by his paternal ancestor Thomas[1]. It was in this society that he organized the system of relief for the needy, on substantially the principles of present day Associated Charities. One of the first & most active trustees of the Home for Aged Men, in Boston, of which he was for many years vice pres. In 1889 he, as prime mover, helped establish the Bethany Home for Young Women, of which he was pres until his death. He was deeply interested in & served as treas of the committee which raised funds for the equestrian statue of George Washington in the Public Garden. He realized to the fullest extent the value of higher education & gave unstintingly of his time and means to Dean Academy & Tufts College. Of the former, he was treas many years. It was mainly through his efforts & credit that the academy was promptly rebuilt after a disastrous fire. Though not until 1880 a member of the Board of Trustees of Tufts (Pres for over 10 years), he had always given valuable personal aid to the College & never missed the annual Commencement exercises. On becoming a trustee, he was elected a member of the Executive Board & Chr of the Finance Comm. Next to his family, he prized his church. From the time his mother took him at 4 yrs into the Sabbath School, he never severed active connection with it. He was brought up in the Universalist Ch & during his life he saw a great change in the estimation in which that faith was held by the people. By natural bent an organizer, he came to maturity just at the time this church was prepared to take on a more stable form. To this he contributed largely, being in fact, the shaper of most of its organized forms. The Universalist Sabbath Sch Union was presided over by him for more than a decade; the Mass Universalist Convention owes much of its present (1896) financial position to his 35 yrs service as treas. The Universalist General Convention (national organization) elected him pres for many years; then he served 20 yrs as chr of its bd of Trustees; as treas of the Universalist Publ House for over 30 yrs he had the satisfaction of seeing that institution firmly established. He was the "father" of the Universalist Club, rarely missing a meeting. His special attention was given to the financial side, & it is largely through his work, advice & counsel that all the organizations of this church are today (1896) possessed of substantial foundations for the continuance of their service in futurity.

The following is from an address by Rev J Coleman Adams DD, in All Souls' Ch, Brooklyn NY: "I am especially impressed with this truth today as I think of a strong positive, noble life which has gone out from the earthly communion of the Universalist Church. Last week the tidings came with the force of a personal grief to many, that the foremost, the most active, the most efficient layman in our ranks has passed away. John D W Joy of Boston, has illustrated in our church just this principle & law of the transformation of human energy into the institutions & forces of our spiritual body. He was one of the most remarkable figures that ever stood in the councils of any Church. A strong, forceful, positive, courageous man, of keen insight, marvelous executive ability, fertile in resource & prompt in action, he was one of the most providential men our church ever had. He grew up into prominence & influence just as Universalism needed a compact & workable organization. He saw the needs of the hour and joyfully turned his strength to meet them. He was one of the real organizers of the Church under the present constitution. He was always a guide in its financial affairs. He laid the cornerstone of much of its wealth. He fostered its finest institutions. He was the warm friend of its clergy, the adviser of its officials, the counselor of its wisest men & all because he loved the Church & the faith for which it stood. He was the most loyal Universalist I ever knew. To him his Church was first & foremost. He was faithful to it for better or worse. His going away is a subtraction of a marvelous center of energy for our resources. In the affairs of our Convention, in the administration of Tufts College, in the management of the Publishing House, Mr Joy was as active today as when he helped found these organizations. It is certainly true that 'virtue went out of him' which put life into these institutions. They are in a larger sense than many people know, the transformation of his personal force. Thank God he had it in such degree & that he gave it so freely to us all."

Agnes' adventurous spirit which found vent in escapades which lived long in local tradition, took her to Washington early in the Civil War. Her husband who had served with honor in the armies of Prussia & Austria, came to America in 1861, entered the Union Army as Col & Chief-of-Staff of Brig Genl Loûis Blenker. Agnes' energy & cleverness secured for him the colonelcy Nov 1862 of 8th NY Volunteers; 8 June 1864 Col of 68th NY Vols under Genl Sherman; 13 Apr 1865 Brig Genl of Vols; Military Gov of Atlanta Ga.

Accompanying her husband, she became a notable figure in Camp, field & hospital—the toast of the officers and the talk of the men. In the Civil War the "Soldier Princess" was not only a picturesque figure in the social life of the army, but her unfailing cheerfulness, warm sympathy & womanly ministries in the hospitals endeared her to the men. It was largely due to her popularity & influence that the military talents of her foreign-born husband received the official recognition & reward they merited.

After being mustered out, in Feb 1866 Salm joined the foreign forces in Mexico, where Austrian Archduke Maximilian was struggling to maintain himself as Emperor against the forces of Pres Juarez. Salm became Maximilian's chief & personal aide, & was joined by Agnes, who shared all his anxieties.

When Maximilian & his suite were captured, when Queretero fell due to treason & all were threatened by summary execution, Agnes disregarded personal dangers, rode day & night between the prison & the Liberal Hdqtrs, trying to negotiate terms, on her knees begging Juarez to spare the life of Maximilian. Her husband's life was spared.

For her efforts in his behalf, Maximilian, just before his execution, decorated Agnes with the Grand Cordon of the Order of San Carlos, the last he bestowed. His mother, the Archduchess Sophie gave Agnes Maximilian's miniature set in an emerald bracelet. The Emperor of Austria, Maximilian's brother pensioned Agnes.

In Europe in July 1870, undaunted by the rigor of Prussian military discipline, she obtained permission from Genl Steinmetz, never before accorded a woman, to accompany his staff in the war.

Before & after the death of her gallant husband, Agnes exerted herself to the utmost, organizing hospitals & distributing supplies & delicacies to the sick & wounded.

Agnes was recommended for the Order of the Iron Cross, an honor reserved for men. She received the Prussian Medal of Honor, made from captured cannon. The Empress Augusta, meeting her in a hospital gave her an onyx brooch. The Princess has autographed letters of thanks from the commanding generals of the armies in which she ministered.

Left a widow at 26 after a decade of breathless activity, the Princess went to Rome in 1870 to consult Pope Pius IX in regard to entering a convent. He told her she had no vocation for this life. She settled to the routine of German social life in Bonn & Karlsruhe.

Her book, written 1875 "Ten Years of my Life" is an entertaining narrative of her experiences in the USA, Mexico & Europe from 1861-1871.

The Times of London, 21 Sept 1876: "The marriage ceremony of the well-known authoress Princess Salm-Salm with Mr Charles Heneage of the British Legation in Berlin, took place yesterday at the British Legation & was repeated in the Protestant Chapel at Stuttgardt, in the presence of a brilliant assembly." They were later separated.

In 1899 the Princess revisited America bringing the flags of her husband's regiments, the 8th & 68th NY Vols, to the survivors, who granted her honorary membership in the Blenker Veteran's Assn. She was warmly greeted by Carl Schurz & other wartime friends.

In 1899 she was elected an honorary member of NY Chapter, DAR.

In 1900 she was again in America, raising funds to equip an ambulance corps for the Boers in the South African War.

Her appeal to Juarez is the subject of an historical painting by Manuel Ocaranza, 1873, owned by Genl Mariano Ruiz, Mexico City. She also figures in the drama Juarez & Maximilian by Franz V Werfel, produced in Vienna, Berlin & NY 1925-26 & in several novels.

Mr Morton went to Chicago 1879, became a member of E I Wheeler & Co known in 1885 as Joy Morton & Co, later Morton Salt Co, leader in the salt line in the USA. Their first office building in Chicago, modeled after the old Boston Town House built by Thomas Joy, was located at Ill Central RR Old Pier # 1, lake front end of Lake St. In 1921 Mr Morton set aside 400 acres in DuPage Co Ill to be known as Joy Morton Arboretum, endowed by himself. He lived in Lisle, DuPage Co Ill.

512 ii. Paul[9] Morton, Detroit Mich 22 May 1857(1858?) - Chicago Ill 19 Jan 1911 (NY City 19 May 1911?); m 13 Oct 1880 Charlotte Goodrich, Pottstown Pa 2 Dec 1858(1853?)- NY City Jan 1939. Left school at 15 in 1872, was with the CB & Q RR, in Burlington Ia, 1876 Platsmouth Neb for yr, then genl offices in Chicago; 1 July 1878 asst genl freight agent; 1882 genl passenger agent; 1884 genl freight agent; had prominent position in 1888 in settlement of great CB & Q strike; 1890 left rr for Colorado Fuel & Iron Co, vice pres 1896-1908; then vice pres of reorganized AT & SF RR. Paul Morton—A "Gold Democrat" like his father, he became a Teddy Roosevelt Republican. As 2nd VP of SF RR he handled freight rates on a competitive basis, not caring to deny the illegalities involved when questioned by ICC in 1901. "His unusual mental poise, energy & executive ability" (NY Eve Post 20 Jan 1911) made him a marked figure on the witness stand, developing a tradition he could "Look any man in the eye & tell him to go to H . . ." (GB Clarkson, Industrial America in the World War, 1923, 44).

These traits, perhaps, attracted the interest of Pres Theo Roosevelt. At close of Republican Natl Convention 1904, he was appointed Secy of Navy & served 1 yr July 1 1904-5. In his only annual report Nov 1904 he took pride in reporting the unusual number of fleet additions that year.

In Dec 1904 the traffic mgr of SF RR admitted granting illegal rebates while Morton was his superior officer, in spite of an injunction against such practices of 25 Mar 1902 & Anti-rebate law of 19 Feb 1903.

Morton became "Grotesquely out of place in the cabinet of a President who is engaged in declared & open war against rebates," (Milwaukee Sentinel 3 June 1905). The atty Genl backed by Roosevelt declined to prosecute Morton. Before the special counsel for this case resigned, Morton announced he would leave the cabinet July 1 1905. He became chairman of the board of Equitable Life Assurance Co. He was rejected by this company for a life policy in 1910. This was justified when his heart failed him suddenly in Jan 1911. (Dict of Amer Biog-XIII 264)

513 iii. Mark[9] Morton, Hearndon House Hotel Omaha Neb 22 Nov 1858 - Wheaton Ill 25 June 1951; m Cedar Rapids Ia 20 Jan 1887 Martha P Weare, Cedar Rapids 15 July 1858 - Lake Forest Ill winter 1941. From 1885 with Joy Morton & Co Chicago, salt dealers.

514 iv. Carl[9] Morton, "Arbor Lodge" Nebraska City Neb 18 Feb 1865 – Waukegan Ill 7 Jan 1901; m Nebraska City 20 Dec 1888 Boatie Payne b&d Nebraska City 1869 - 7 Dec 1932.

Carl[9] grew up in Nebraska City, attended Talbot Hall, a boys' private school, as did his 3 brothers. As a young man worked 2 yrs for CB & Q RR—as did his brothers. Then he worked for Nebraska City Cereal Mills which became Argo Mfg Co; genl mgr 1891; to Chicago 1900 as Pres of US Sugar Refinery, when Argo was bought by Corn Products Co.

He was a man loved by all people—high and low—a great promoter for Nebraska City; with his father, built The Overland theater there, opened 1897. Architect was Sidney Lovell who built the Lafayette Sq Theater in Washington DC; the drop curtain painted by Haskell Coffin, represented the Cheyenne Indians 1864 in a raid 100 miles west of Nebraska City.

Memorial to Henry Bourne[s] Joy on Continental Divide, near Creston, Wyo.

Helen Hall (Newberry) Joy, Honorary Degree, Doctor of Arts, Wayne University, Detroit 17 June 1948.

Henry Bourne[s] Joy, Pres Packard Motor Car Co., Detroit, in 1901 Packard, designed and built by James Ward Packard of Warren, O.

Henry Bourne[s] Joy in Iowa mud 1915 laying out the Lincoln Highway.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY B. JOY

"H B"

Joy was his name. Joy filled his soul
And smoothed each passing day;
Grand spirit his in every role
He bore in work and play.

He was a great and noble man,
Whose inborn sense of right
Caused him to form the noble plan
He lived with all his might.

O'er all things "Wrong" he did combat,
Deceit he could not bear;
"Right" was H. B.'s "Magnificat",
His great heart played the air.

No matter were the cause unknown,
If principle was at stake,
He'd war, if need be, war alone;
No odds could his purpose shake.

Straight thinking backed his every act;
He'd drive straight for the truth,
Then deal his blows with iron fact
And with established proof.

Crusader he was born to be,
To work for all mankind;
To take the flaws from liquor laws,
To keep the social blind

From traipsing after foreign cranks,
And selling out our land;
He's earned our everlasting thanks
For every valiant stand.

Upon each thing he touched he placed
His own uplifting mark;
It makes a brilliant pattern traced
By his creative spark.

To thousands he was our "H. B.",
To others he was "Boss";
Some called him "Big Chief Washiki",
But all now mourn his loss.

To me he was employer, guide,
My leader and my friend;
Whose shining spirit will abide
With me unto the end.

The Clarke Family & Its Coat-of-Arms.
Motto: Labore et Honore (Labor & Honor).
Arms: Or & gules indented per pale, lions countercharged guardant.
Crest: Ar arm embowed holding a sword.

According to the legendary history of Ireland, the Clarke family descended from Meilesius, King of Spain, through his 8th son Heremon m Tes, who defeated his bro Heber in battle to become King of Ireland. From Meilesius to coming of St Patrick 118 kings ruled Ireland, 60 of whom were desc from Meilesius.

Recorded hist of Clarke fam from ab 460 AD, when it was founded by Earca, son of Illiol, King of Ireland ab that time.

Clarke was anciently Cleirghs, "the clerk," taken from Cleirach one of the 10th Century chiefs. Other Irish versions are Cleary, O'Cleary, McCleary, English are Clark, Clerke, all from the same origin.

O'Clearys or Clarkes, hereditary historians to the O'Donnells, were authors of the "Annals of the Four Masters." Bro Michael O'Cleary, Order of St Francis, was Chief of the Four Masters & compiled the "Annals of Ireland," which covers 4500 years of Irish history & legend.

The family had large holdings in the Barony of Tir Hugh; the castle now in ruins was at Kilbarron nr Ballyshannon on the Atlantic coast. Other lands were in East Brefney, now County Cavan.

Of a pioneering spirit, this family is now found in many lands: Maj McCleary fell at Bunker Hill; in France, Marshal Clarke became Duc de Feltre, Minister of War under Napoleon. Many distinguished themselves in wars for freedom; descendants are well represented in the clergy, arts, sciences & professions.

ALLAN R. CULLIMORE

Who, early in a lifetime devoted to humanity, conceived a great idea and, in the spirit of a true engineer, brought it down to earth for the service of mankind.

He will long be remembered by countless friends and a grateful community. But let these simple words be his lasting monument:

~ He created a College ~

ii. Arthur Frederick[10] Busk b London Eng 1908. Served with the 8th Army (British) N Africa & Italy; later with Military Gov't in Italy.

"BUSK is merely the gutteral or northern form of Bush, meaning "a dweller by a thicket or bush." It is one of the oldest & commonest surnames in parts of Scandinavia, there spelled Busck or Busch. Our particular ancestor Busck, b 1688, came to Yorkshire, Eng 1712. The part of Sweden where he was b was at that time part of Norway—under Danish rule—before the Peace of Roskilde 1654. Therefore the family really come from Norway. On marrying a Yorkshire girl our ancestor changed his name to Busk, became a naturalized Englishman. You may be as amused as I was to read that one or two learned books on British & American surnames say Busk is derived from "articles of clothing" and even in their ignorance, quoted as an example one of the members of my branch of the family." (From Edmund W Busk, Langford, West Mersea, Sussex, Eng. Busk family historian, 1966.)

Mr and Mrs Hopkins are artists of note, in oils and water colors. They have had "team" exhibitions on their work in Nebraska, Kansas, Michigan, Colorado, California, Washington and Wyoming. Mrs Hopkins has exhibited in New York City, where she was a member of the Natl Soc of Painters & Sculptors. She is listed in Who's Who in American Women, both are listed in Who's Who in American Art. They are both active in the Casper Wyo Artists Guild and the Wyo Art Assn. They had a collection of 20 oil paintings called "Trail Blazers of Wyoming," which was acquired by the Wyo Landmark Assn some 30 years ago. A permanent exhibit in the State Capitol Bldg has been of value to teachers in the public schools who use it to teach Wyoming history. Mr and Mrs Hopkins are now building up a collection of portraits of men connected with the history of Fort Casper, which they are donating to the Fort Casper Commission. They have had many painting trips in the United States, Mexico, Costa Rica and Peru. In 1963 they celebrated their Golden Wedding with a trip through Portugal, Spain, France, England & Scotland, with some 40 watercolors and sketches as mementos.

"Just 4 months ago Cpl William H Fuller flew his last combat mission in South Vietnam; he was a technician with VMA 331. On 28 Mar he was awarded the Air Medal, presented by his Commanding Officer

Lt Col Gordon V Hodde. Flying as aerial gunner with VMO-2 located at Marble Mtn Air Facility, he participated in many (75) of the 1st Marine Corps large scale operations, such as Starlight, Midnight & Piranha.

"Fuller's primary job was however to arm the VC (Viet Cong) hungry UHIE helicopter gunships with rockets & machine guns. But along with all members of this helicopter unit, he also flew the right door position-gunner.

The citation read in part that while a member of this unit 'Cpl Fuller contributed materially to the success of his squadron. His courage & devotion to duty in the face of hazardous flying conditions were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service'."

Joys in Ireland and England

Compiled by Helen Joy Lee, Westerly, R. I., 1967

The Name Joy is derived from the locality Jouy in Normandy & may have reached England in the form of De Jouy. (Patronimica Britt.)

Families bearing the names of Joy, Joye, Jay, Joyce, Gee, were residents at early dates in the English counties of Norfolk, Wilts, Bedford, Huntingdon, Cambridge, Oxford, Somerset, York & Northampton, as well as in London & Ireland. (Media Research Bureau, Washington DC.)

The following, arranged as nearly as possible in chronological order, but not necessarily in relation to each other, are the Joys, with references, as found in various records:

1273 Elena Joy, d Huntingdonshire.

1273 Simon Joy, d Cambridgeshire.

1273 John Joy, d Oxfordshire.

1327 Martin Joy, d Somersetshire.

1379 Robert or Robertus Joy Sr & Jr, d Yorkshire.

1395 William Joy, d Vicar of Tibenham, Co. Norfolk, of All Saints Church, in the hundred of Depwade, 14 miles sw of Norwich. Its register dates from 1558. The church is remarkable for 17th century woodwork, esp the great double decker Buxton family pew in the south aisle, erected in pursuance of a faculty granted by Archbishop Laud in 1635.

1441 Thomas Joye, d rector of Fritton, Norfolkshire.

1472 Godfrey Joy, d Alderman of Norwich, Co Norfolk.

1487 William Joy, Archbishop of Tuam, Ireland, d Dec 28 1509.

1517 George Joy d 1553 a fellow of Peterhouse College Cambridge, one of the most learned and devoted leaders of the Protestant Reformation in England. He worked with Tyndale on the translation of the Bible into English. (Carter's Cambridge, 23; English Worthies, 63; Fuller's Worthies, 117)

Norfolk County, England, has been for five hundred years the seat of a family of Joy (now Jay). John Jaye (1563 - 1619), of this line, lord of the manor of Holverston, lying between Hillington & Yelverton, received a grant of arms in 1601, as follows:

"Gu. on a Bend eng. Ar. Three Roses of the field, seeded. Crest: an Otter pass, ppr." (Those who have given most studious consideration to the ancestry of the American colonist are of the opinion that he was of this Norfolk stock.)

This Jay family occupied the manor of Holverston on the road between Yelverton & Hillington, in Co. Norfolk. Mr. J. C. Brown of Boston, Mass., has added to our obligations by preparing from Blomfield's History of Norfolk Co. and the Heraldic Visitations, the following pedigree of this family:

John Jay of Holverston, d. 1619, aet. 56	= Lucy Johnston of Norwich				Henry Jay, Alderman, of London
Suckling Jay of Holverston, d. 1677 aet. 74	= Bridget Heveningham	Christopher Jay Alderman, Sheriff, Mayor of Norwich, M.P.; d. 1677	= Judith Brown	Jane	Elizabeth m. Sir Edward Nicholas	Dorothy
John Jay— After his death, the manor was sold to Marcom.		Suckling Jay d. 1679

The name of the Norfolk Family is spelled as our Thomas spelled it, though his American posterity have fixed on a different vowel. The name Hobart of Norfolk has suffered far more, as Hobart, Hubbard, Hubert, etc., bear witness.

The close relations between the Hobarts of Norfolk and the Jays, furnish a suggestive parallel to Thomas Joy's relations with the Hobarts of Hingham, Mass. Thomas Joy's pastor in Hingham, Mass., was the Rev. Peter Hobart; his partner in important operations was Capt. Joshua Hobart, who also witnessed his last will.

At the same time in England, Elizabeth Hobart, of Holverston, makes bequests to "my friend Mrs. Jay, my friend Major Joy, and my little godson Robert Jay, Mistress Mary Jay and Mistress Ann Jay."

In Essex Co., Eng. 1684, Isaac Hubbard was brother-in-law of Mr. John Jaye. In a recent (1898) post office directory of Co. Norfolk, Eng., the name Joy appears but once. There are a dozen Jays, including "Thomas Jay, miller, of Diss" & such familiar Christian names as James, George, Benjamin, William, Charles & Joshua.

Mr. Brown, an experienced genealogist, concludes that the region of Norfolk, about Norwich, is the ground which must be visited by the person who shall, at no distant day, we trust, discover the birthplace and parentage of Thomas Joy, the Colonist.

A note by Alexander Owthwaite[5] refers to "several cousins." They might be sons of his uncles David[4], William Lomas[4], Samuel[4] or Edward[4], or grsons of Charles of the previous generation. These are:

(a) Bertram C Joy, M I Mech E, living 1939, when he wrote for trade paper "Edgar Allen News." He was an inventor & may be identical (but probably is not) with

(b) Bertram Joy M I A E, who was working at Simms Mfg Co 1900. Also said to be an inventor.

(c) Basil H Joy, technical secy of RAC ab 1900, later secy to M I A E. The engineering & inventive strain was strong, as Douglas Glover[6] Joy who was trained as an engineer, was also a clever, (but unsuccessful & unbusinesslike) inventor.

(d) John Middleton Joy (or Joy-Middleton), joined "Filtrates" ab 1920. Desc, from the firm's founder through his mother, changed his name from Middleton.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery of the United States Navy presents this certificate of Merit to Captain Ernest Harriman Joy MC USN: For his distinguished and outstanding service to the Medical Department of the Navy.

For more than two decades he has devoted his talent and energy as a physician and teacher to the needs of the United States Navy. During World War II he served aboard ships in both the Atlantic and Pacific Theaters, and following this rendered distinguished services in United States Naval Dispensaries and Naval Hospitals. In more recent years as Force Medical Officer on the staff of the Commander, Cruiser and Destroyer Force, United States Atlantic Fleet and as Officer in Charge of Preventive Medicine Unit Number Two he has made significant contributions to the promotion of health in the Navy and Marine Corps by aggressive application of the fundamental principle of Naval Medicine: prevention of disease and injury. His knowledge, his personal warmth, his military enthusiasm and his effective leadership will be missed.

As Captain Joy retires from active duty, it is with great admiration and sincere appreciation that we confer upon him this Certificate of Merit in recognition of his distinguished career in the service of his country.

I believe but cannot verify that George C was son of James or John. William Joy, no relation of Richard, but a friend, also of Charleston. His will prob 1774 names his sons Daniel & William.

The wills of Richard & William, both filed in Charleston SC Prob Ct Recs, both mention each other, as good friends, as executors or witnesses."

3 i. Peter[4] d May 1745; m Providence RI 23 Dec 1729 Abial d Jan 1746, da of William Randall Jr.

Wm Randall Jr gave them piece of land west of his house (which stood where present (1965) Cranston Print Works is) in 1730. Peter listed as house carpenter, prob built his house here. 1733 sold this land to his bro-in-law, bought land in present Knightsville section, exact location not known from deed description. Lieut in the Train Band. Left fairly comfortable estate of £ 300 to his wife. She sold her home & 22 a of land, with home, stable & smith's shop. At her death she left £99. (b). The Randalls had a tannery as well as a mill on the Pocasset River. The Randalls, & Peter & wife bur in family burying ground, now part of St Anne's Cem, but separated by a driveway.

From 1800-70 the mill changed hands some 20 times. At its peak it was the Rhode Island Print Works. Before & after, it made cider, powered by a lone horse, Holton's Patent Grist, yarn, starch, lumber, dressed, bleached & printed cloth; vinegar, felt hats & the prohibition drink Vigorine, "the bicyclist's booster when taken at the foot of a steep hill."

The Cranston Historical Society bought the Joy Homestead, in poor condition in 1959. Thanks to many hours of hard volunteer labor, most of the handwrought latches & hinges are in place, the wide floorboards are there (found under 5 layers of linoleum in the kitchen ell), 5 fireplaces have been opened, two with beehive ovens & one with a crane.

David a carpenter. Prob built house at NE corner of Ash & Centre Sts. Levi[5] (Reuben) sold house 1799 to Thomas Smith. "In 1774 David[4] was one of the persons prominent in Nantucket business affairs. Owned 22 shares of stock in New North Wharf. (Steamboat wharf 1913.) Will of David[4] 1787: "To dau-in-law Anna s end of house she now occupies. They are to make no demand on my son Francis[5] for the work his bro Reuben did for him. To dau Sarah Barnard the N end of my house. To dau Mary[5] Coffin all demands for building her a house. To son David[5] S end of my house." Also mentions grdau Anna[6] Folger.

i. Samuel[5] b in homestead Cranston 1730.

6 ii. Job[5], b in homestead Cranston 1732; m Rachel, da of William Westcott. From 16 June 1757 through 1759 the day book of Dr. Charles Higginbotham shows Job owed him money. "Buckskin britches with Buttens £30; jacket £2; 4 pr other britches at 12 shillings each for the doctor," to help defray his bill. 1762 Job[5] sold "a piece of land & a shop," the deed states it was where he carried on his trade for some years past, to William Randall; 1763 he was living in a house owned by Henry Randall, who sold it the same year to Joseph Dyer. Where did Job[5] live after this? What property did Job[5] own 1764 when his taxes were exempted "for so long a time as he may remain under low circumstances?" In 1776 Job's[5] family were exposed to the smallpox epidemic. His household was ordered by the Town fathers to be visited every day to check for symptoms of the dread disease. There is no further record, but his son Peter[6], old enough to be drafted in 1777, was "judged unfit for duty in the Alarm Co of Cranston." In 1778 he & bro William[6] were adjudged "unable to provide themselves with firearms as required by law."

10 ii. Samuel F[6] Cranston RI 24 June 1764 - 7 June 1842; m Freelove Fiske, da of Samuel Fenner, who lived on present Plainfield Pike in Thornton district once called Fenner Place. Samuel[6] had his tannery on Joy Brook in rear of homestead. He was a currier & cordwainer. Samuel[6] served on Town Council several yrs & in other civic capacities. In 1803 he was titled "Gentleman." Over the yrs he added many acres to the homestead, from Plainfield Pike to present Scituate Ave, across that highway, east across present Phenix Ave, to Reape's or Saw Mill Brook. His uncle Edward Edwards was the miller at his grist mill. One winter morning, finding the water wheel frozen, Edwards went into the pit to free it, was killed when the wheel suddenly turned. His wife Patience is said to have put a curse on the mill, which accounts for its many vicissitudes.

Samuel[6] has a dark gray slate headstone, with weeping willows. He d after a long illness:

"Afflickion sore long time I bore,
Physicians skill was vain,
'Til God was pleased to give me ease
And free me from my pain."

DEATH OF HON DAVID JOY — By our last mails, the news was received of the death of one who was, in the business days of Nantucket, one of our most enterprising merchants, and was recognized and honored by all, as one of our most useful and public-spirited citizens — HON DAVID JOY. All our elderly men, who had business associations with him in the days of his prime, will bear testimony to his ability, uprightness and sterling integrity. He was honored with many public offices, and at one period, represented our district in the State Senate.

Mr. Joy was one of the founders of the Nantucket Atheneum, donating very liberally to the Institution, and has always manifested a great interest in its prosperity. A fine portrait of him is among those which now adorn the walls of the Library Room. (Inquirer & Mirror Nantucket Sat 10 Apr 1875, Files of Nantucket Atheneum, Nantucket Mass)

"We copy from Isle of Wight Express of Apr 10 1875: . . . He was an active agent in bringing about the overthrow of slavery in US; of establishing schools & other institutions in which the colored people of these states receive the same advantages as their white brethren. These institutions we hear, still exist (1875) & are in a flourishing condition; & will therefore be the best & most lasting monument that could be raised to the philanthropic labors of our departed friend. . . . .

"Though living in Ventnor for 5 years in a quiet style, the benefit of their presence amongst us has been felt in many a poor family circle & in many a sick chamber; & whilst the death of Mr Joy will be deeply felt, the departure of his excellent lady for her native country will be greatly regretted by all who may have had the honor of knowing her & especially so by the many to whom the benevolent hands of herself & her lamented husband were so constantly & so freely opened.

"They have been for many years staunch supporters of the Temperance Movement. During their stay in Ventnor they have done much by their sympathy & pecuniary support to aid the Committee of the Ventnor & Bonchurch Temperance Society in their enterprising efforts, by which that society has made its influence felt in our town as a power for good." (Nantucket Enquirer Sat May 1 1875.)

34 ii. Moses[7] Jr, Nantucket 20 Feb 1807 - 19 June 1895; m(1) int 4 Aug 1839 m 23 Aug 1839 Anne B, 22 Mar 1814 - 19 Sept 1857, da of Peter & Lydia Russell; m(2) Emmeline 1810 - 4 Jan 1876, da of Seth & Lydia (Chadwick) Paddock; m(3) 1879 Mary Ann (Baker) Coffin b 23 Sept 1823.

Mr Joy was closely identified with the business interests of the island during the prosperous days of whaling & won an enviable name among his fellowmen. In early life he made one whaling voyage as cooper of ship Sea Lion. About 1828-29 in cooperage business with his brother, the late Hon David Joy, making what were then termed "market Casks." They also carried on a refining of "gurry" (the offal of a fish, esp the soil from cutting a whale), by a special process. Others attempted the same business but only the Joy Bros were successful. They were interested in ships, & in the manufacture of oil & candles, their factory on Easton St being among the last standing. Like his bro David, he was a strong Abolitionist, a subscriber to Garrison's LIBERATOR, which the postmaster of those days, it is told, passed to him with tongs, refusing to touch "the dirty sheet" as he termed it. A fugitive slave arrived on an incoming vessel & was found the next day by Mr Joy, hidden in a cask. The poor Negro was kindly cared for. When it was announced his owners were coming for him, Mr. Joy placed him with the owners of a ship about to sail. The fugitive lived about a month after leaving port.

Mr. Joy was identified with the Atheneum. The first library was in the front room of his house. In 1833 he made a trip to Niagara Falls via the Canals, & on the return trip rode the first steam railroad at Perth Amboy NJ. A man of strong convictions, he stood firm for any cause he espoused & was highly esteemed in the community for his many noble qualities.

iii. Moses[8] III, Nantucket 18 June 1853 – NY City 1937; unm. In 1870, at 17, in the machine shop of his brother-in-law Darwin A Greene, he learned the trade of tool grinder; with the ambition in mind of building Nantucket's first water works, he enrolled in Cooper Inst, NY City. After 4 yrs of study he grad as civil engineer, with diploma (no degrees given here at this time); he worked for Darwin Greene; for H S Manning, now Manning, Maxwell & Moore, one of the largest machine Mfgrs in the world; Hopedale Mass Machine Co for 18 mos. In 1875 his uncle David Joy was ill on Isle of Wight, Eng. Moses was to go there and escort him & his wife home. Moses sailed Apr 3, David d Apr 5. The wdw was taken ill, their return delayed 3 mos.

On their return in 1875, Moses was taken ill. A spinal dislocation due to a fall from a load of hay when 11, caused him to become partially blind. At 24 he became totally blind, and went to live with his father. He regained the sight of one eye and worked on making his dream of a Nantucket Water Works a reality.

"My aim was to build a waterworks for Nantucket. Disease spread through the island by home wells & town pump water. People did not realize water was the cause of sickness, but I knew. Had it not been for the waterworks I built, today there would probably be no one on Nantucket except the fishermen whose wells were not affected by typhoid & other diseases. I confided my plans for the waterworks to no one. They were built without spending a cent, entirely on my personal credit. First I bought Western Washing Pond, where sheep were at one time washed. Then I interviewed people in NY City with splendid results. One man sent me all the pipe I needed – on credit. Also a boiler & other equipment from another firm - on credit . . . Work on the water system began October 1878, the water turned on March 1879. There were 8 miles of pipes . . . . All sorts of stumbling blocks were placed in my way . . . "water cannot be made to run uphill" . . . the public refused to give me the least encouragement . . . the fire wardens refused me the loan of the town hose to prove a stream of water could be thrown onto the Unitarian Church . . . I borrowed the needed lengths of hose from the New Bedford Fire Dept. When I connected the hose to the hydrant on Orange St near the James Easton house I was hooted at. When they saw a good stream of water go OVER the church they broke into cheers. After that there was no more trouble . . . the islanders were willing to help."

The present up-to-date water supply, considered one of the best in Mass, is a monument to the perseverance & energy of Moses Joy, when as a young man of 25, he conceived the idea of a town water supply in 1878.

In 1880 he built the water system for Milford & Hopedale Mass; 1884-85 at Lexington Mass; 1885 a water line for fire service at Cottage City (now Oak Bluffs) Martha's Vineyard; 1886-87 at Bennington Vt, associated with H W Purnam; the hydro-electric system at Petersburg Va; 1898 at Milford Conn; 1899 a water system with 85 miles of pipes for Guilford, East River, Madison, Clinton, Westbrook, Saybrook, Essex, Deep River & Chester; 1901 the electric light system for Clinton Conn.

With photography as a hobby, he did not own a camera until 1874. He invented focusing devices & moving picture cameras. In 1897 he made the first pictures for the Edison Biograph studios in the Bronx, one of the first in this country. For the biograph camera he invented a device which allowed the focus, then fixed, to be changed at the will of the photographer; he improved the shutter; 1899 he made the first "reversed" film, showing a girl diving into the water at Coney Island & defying gravity, going back to the diving board. This was a sensation!

His 1898 newsreel, which ran 2 minutes, of a beached shipwreck at Deal NJ, was sold to the Sylvester Z Poli chain of New England theaters. Years later he admitted that part of the lighting & wave effects were faked.

"How did I set the water rates? In 1879 I took the New England Water Works Assn year book, which listed prices in 115 New England towns, added up the total rates, divided by 115 & got the average rate of $1.50 a year for one faucet. This was the rate set for Nantucket water consumers."

When in NY he was a regular attendant at the Friends' Meeting House, 221 East 15th St.

Moses d in NY City from a fractured skull received when struck by a car, when on his way to the Camera Club at Broadway & 68th St, from his residence at 143 E 15th St. Going by street car to 42nd St & 3rd Ave Station, where he was to transfer to a trolley car to take him to his destination . . . the Camera Club. "On a rainy night about 5 we would hear a horrible screeching of automobile brakes & turning to each other, would say, 'Here comes Moses.' For he would get off the street car, looking neither right nor left, nor hastening or slowing his pace. We were given to understand that his death was caused by such an accident. On getting off a 3rd Ave Trolley car, he was caught between a car & an elevated railway post."

How It All Came About.

The idea of commemorating in some manner the Centenary of the migration of the Joy families from the New Hampshire hills to the prairies of Illinois, was born of a visit which two Joy cousins, Mr. Allen Reginald[9] Cullimore of Newark, N. J. & Mr. Harold Pratt[9] Joy of Joy Prairie, made to the Illinois State Park, at New Salem (north of Springfield, in Menard County) several years ago. They were so impressed by that Lincoln memorial that they determined to mark in some appropriate way, the Great Trek of their own ancestors. They found a prompt response from their relatives, not only the Joy Prairie group, but their eastern kinfolk. Their proposal to place a Marker on the site of the first Joy cabin was agreed to with enthusiasm, which was intensified when it was announced that a granite boulder from the Joy Homestead, Pittsfield, N.H., was to be brought to the Prairie & that it would bear a memorial bronze tablet.

Mr. Cullimore visited Pittsfield, N.H., in the spring of 1938 & with the cordial co-operation of the present owner, Mr. Ferguson, obtained from the foundations of the old dwelling on the "John Cram Farm," which was owned & occupied by James[5] Joy from 1820-1840, a suitable stone of more than twenty hundred-weight.

This was shipped to Joy Prairie, where Mr. Harold Pratt[9] Joy, with the help of the original deeds & an old "Plat of the Lands in Morgan County, purchased in June 1838, by James[6] Joy," succeeded in locating the site of the first cabin. It seemed desirable to place the marker as near as possible to the cabin site & yet by the side of the road "where the race of men go by." There the bit of New England was firmly set in a concrete base in defiance of frost & flood.

In September 1938 invitations were sent to some two hundred persons, about half of them descendants of James[6] & Sarah (Pickering) Joy, with friends & Joy Prairie neighbors.

Saturday, October 8, 1938, was the day fixed for the simple unveiling ceremony, an afternoon of brilliant sunshine & unseasonable warmth. About 140 persons grouped crescent-wise in the field nearly opposite the farm buildings of Edward Fairbank[9] Joy.

The Rev. W. H. Pankhurst, Congregational pastor from Jacksonville, Ill., made the opening prayer. Mr. Allen Reginald[9] Cullimore narrated the history of the undertaking, emphasizing the significance of the event, not only to the Joy family, but as commemorating a typical incident in the westward movement of the American people a century ago.

Mr. James Richard[8] Joy, the family historian, read a paper on "James Joy & His Sons," in which he quoted from a letter written from the cabin in November, 1838, by his father Richard Pickering[7] Joy to his daughters, Mary[8] and Sarah[8], in Pittsfield, N.H.

Introduced by Mr. Cullimore, Mr. Harold Pratt[9] Joy, speaking for the Prairie Joys, accepted the marker & promised to watch over it.

The company then moved into the highway, where little Jeanette Lorraine,[11] four year old dau of Warren Drake[10]-Harold Pratt[9]-John Batchelder[8]-Charles[7], unveiled the new bronze tablet, on its background of gray glacial granite. The sight was greeted with a burst of applause.

A reception followed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fairbank[9] Joy. Refreshments were served under the grateful shade of the trees. Old acquaintances were renewed & new ones made in a delightfully informal social hour.

Among the guests from a distance were Mr. & Mrs. James Allan[8] Joy of Chicago & Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. Mary Pearce[8] (Joy) Cullimore, of California; Mrs. Henry Bourne[8] Joy of Detroit & her grand-daughter, Miss Eunice Bourne[10] Lee; Mr. & Mrs. Allen Reginald[9] Cullimore of John Pickering[7], Charles[7], Sylvester[7] Joy.

New Jersey; Mr. James Richard[8] Joy, of New York City; President Hudson of Illinois College; President & Mrs. McClelland of MacMurray College.

The various family groups represented eleven states, & all ages from a babe in arms to four score years & ten. The group which deservedly attracted the most attention was composed of Mrs. John Allen (Bertha Alice[9] Joy) Schmink of Radnor, O., & her remarkable family. They figured they had traveled an aggregate of 5,700 miles from half a dozen states. Five of her stalwart sons & her pretty daughter were photographed with their mother & two charming "in-laws."

After a well-timed & crashing thunderstorm had cooled the air & laid the dust, came the banquet. Mrs. Edward Fairbank Joy directed the perfect arrangements. It was held in the pleasant one-room school house, & was prepared & served without a city caterer—chicken pie & fixings, rich prairie-made ice cream, cake & coffee.

At the head table sat the first cousins, in the 8th generation from Thomas[1] Joy. Mrs. Alice Pratt Joy was in the seat of honor. The others were Mrs. Mary Pearce Joy Cullimore, Mr. & Mrs. James Allan Joy, Mrs. Henry Bourne Joy, Mrs. Richard Pickering Joy, Mr. Sylvester Joy & Mr. James Richard Joy. All three bearing the name of their grandfather James[6] Joy. Five sons of the Pittsfield household were represented in this small group.

At three long tables sat three score children, grand children & great grand children, progeny of John Pickering[7], Charles[7], Sylvester[7] and James Frederick[7].

A cake with ninety blazing candles was set before "Cousin Alice" in honor of her birthday on the morrow. The company rose & sang "Happy Birthday," she graciously acknowledged the greeting & with a little help extinguished the candles.

All the guests signed a paper. Then Harold with the aid of a blackboard, charted the families, who stood in ancestral groups as their names were called.

Harry Joy[9] Dunbaugh (Emma Alice[8]-Sylvester[7]) told of his Prairie boyhood. James Richard[8] Joy spoke of his father Richard Pickering[7] Joy, who came early to the Prairie & loved it always, though he was soon recalled to care for his aging parents in New England. James Richard[8] recited his father's favorite ballad of "New Hampshire Bite."

This rare Colonial Ballad was often recited to him in his boyhood by his father, in Durham NH in 1812, who must have known many persons who antedated the Revolution, as this piece evidently does. James Richard[8] has not found it in any published collection of American Folklore.

In Boston there did live a merchant by trade,
Who had for two servants a man and a maid.
A New Hampshire boy he had for his man
And for to do his business; his name it was John.

He said to John one fine morning said he "Johnny take my cow and drive her to the Fair,
For she is in good order and all I have to spare."

Johnny took the cow and drove her to the Fair.
But on the way he met three men and sold them the cow for 6 pounds ten.
They went to the tavern for to take a drink;
And there the old farmers paid him all the chink.

The landlady said to Johnny, thus did she say,
"What will you do with this money, I pray?
I'll sew it in your coat-lining!" said she,
"Lest on the highway you robbed may be!"

The Highwayman sat behind, drinking of his wine.
Says he to himself, "This money's all mine."

Johnny jumped on his horse and away he did go.
And the highwayman followed on after also.
They rode till they came to a long dark lane.
Then the Highwayman said,
"Now, my good Sir, I must tell you in plain,
Deliver up this money without fear or strife,
Or I will surely take your sweet life."

Johnny jumped from his horse, without fear or doubt;
And from his coat lining Johnny pulled the money out,
And in the tall grass Johnny strewed it well about.

The highwayman quickly came down from his horse—
Little did he think it was for his loss.
But, while he was picking up the money that was strewed,
Johnny jumped on his horse and away he rode.
The Highwayman called loudly for Johnny to stay.
Johnny heard him well, but still rode away.

The maid, seeing John returning home,
Ran to tell her master in another room.
"Why, John," said he, "has my cow turned into a horse?"
"Oh, no, my Good Master, I well sold your cow;
But was robbed of my money by a Highwayman bold.
And, while he was putting the money in his purse,
To make your amends I came off with his horse!"

The saddle bags were opened and out of them was told Six hundred pounds in silver and gold.
"I vow, my Good Master, I well sold your cow!"
"As for a boy, you have done very rare,
Three parts of this money you shall have for your share;

And as for the Villain, you served him just right,
For you have put upon him A NEW HAMPSHIRE BITE!"

Mr. Cullimore thanked all who had helped in any way to make the occasion a success. The formal celebration closed with the banquet.

Sunday, Oct. 9th, was another warm & sunny day. Joys filled several pews in the church of their ancestors in Jacksonville. It was "homecoming Sunday" & some stayed for the church dinner.

There were pleasant family reunions. The most notable was that at which "Cousin Alice[8]" (Pratt) Joy gathered about her in her Joy Prairie home her three children, Bertha Alice[9] (Joy) Schmink, Edith Loraine[9] (Joy) Joy, & Harold Pratt[9] Joy, thirteen grandchildren, & seven great grands, including the delectable twins, Lois Ann & Doris Jean, toddling Dickie & baby Ronald, who will all in due time be taken to see the marker & to spell out for themselves the tablet's story of how the Joys came to Joy Prairie years and years ago.

Invocation by the Rev. W. H. Pankhurst, Church of the Pilgrims, Jacksonville, Ill.

O Gracious & Eternal Father, Who art the same yesterday, today & forever, we earnestly invoke Thy Blessing on this solemn but joyous occasion.

We thank Thee for the Century in which we live.

We thank Thee for this Country of which we are a part.

We thank Thee for the Pilgrims who crossed the seas & dedicated this land to a better civilization than they had left behind.

We thank Thee for the Found Fathers who gave us our form of government & wrote into our Constitution democratic virtue & law.

We thank Thee for the early Pioneers who pushed their way westward, hewed down the forests, cleaned out the marshes & dotted the landscape with homes, schools & churches.

We thank Thee, more particularly, O Father, for the consecrated & adventurous souls who located a hundred years ago in this vicinity, subdued the wild grasses, sowed the plains with corn & wheat & turned the wilderness into a garden.

We pray that this Marker, to be unveiled to their memory today, may remind us vividly of the courage, the hardihood, the rugged honesty & the genuine simplicity of the pioneer & may ever be a monument of meaning to inspire these qualities in the generations that shall pass this way.

We ask for this blessing in the name of Jesus—the world's greatest pioneer—& for the sake of humanity, world without end. Amen.

THE MARKER

Allan Reginald Cullimore

My part in this affair is very simple. I have been privileged to have something to do with the events which led up to this ceremony. Someone had to hew the wood & draw the water, & it has been my pleasure to contribute perhaps a little in the procuring of the stone & the plaque & to the events which led up to these exercises this afternoon.

There is, of course, no point in welcoming the Joys to this particular spot. As we stand on the site of the first cabin, we Joys, whether we come from the city or the country & no matter how far we have gone from the Prairie, realize that here we are at home & have a common interest.

It seems particularly fitting this afternoon that here in this field we have the sun bright overhead & the dust blowing & the hogs in evidence; it is just as well for some of us who have wandered somewhat far afield to again realize something of those factors which have made the Prairie successful in a material way.

I think the first suggestion concerning this Marker came to me when on a visit to Illinois some three or four years ago. I went to New Salem (Ill.) & saw that impressive Lincoln restoration which brings home, as perhaps nothing else can, the vital & far-reaching things that centered here in this locality at the time when John, Charles & Sylvester made the trip.

We cannot escape the fact if we would, that the experience which the Joys had in settling the Prairie was not an uncommon one; that these journeys were frequent; that the experience which the group had on the Prairie was not a unique experience but rather a common one & an experience shared by all the groups which traveled west, as these ancestors of ours did.

In an historical consideration of this movement West, the interesting part is that we were a part of a movement which shaped in an unmistakable way not only this particular community but the nation as a whole. I think it is well to consider as we gather here, that our Marker marks something perhaps more than the Joy pilgrimage. It marks in a concrete way other pilgrimages, which, taken together, are of considerable historical importance.

We are then in a sense doing honor to a general movement, something entirely above & without ourselves & in this sense what we do here today has a significance greater than the Joys or their descendants who live on Joy Prairie.

I say this in this way, not to detract at all from the Joys & what they specifically did as Joys, but to make the opportunity for the remark that other pilgrimages of other people from other parts of the country finally came together here. What we see as Joys is Joy only in part because there were the journeys of the Pratts & the Fairbanks & the Cowdins & these people together making this community is the thing which we truly honor. It is in a larger sense a combination of these groups to which we owe the thing which we honor here. The journey of John & Charles & Sylvester serves to crystallize & furnish a symbol.

We are then honoring & celebrating this journey as a part of a great movement which made America & we are celebrating our part in it.

In a sense, too, a celebration of this kind is its own reward. No matter what the occasion to get together, those of us who can, as many as can, in this place, on a common ground, brings up to all of us, the younger as well as the older, a realization of the value & the strength of certain common bonds which seem in some strange way to link those of one blood closer together. It gives to each of us as we meet here this afternoon, some of those deeper & finer satisfactions which go to make up the better things of life.

Those of the older generation have many things to remember & many things in common. For those of the younger generations it is a good thing to know & to see the elder Joys & to all of us who are in a younger but not the youngest generation, it gives the chance again to renew & perhaps appreciate more to the full what we owe to this Prairie influence.

It seems to me that the Marker then represents this also—the joy & the satisfaction of a common meeting on common ground of those of common blood.

Perhaps in celebrations & events of this kind it is wise to leave out as much of the personal as possible. But it seems to me that in almost all cases the personal is the real & the vital & the thing that remains with us after all generalities have passed.

I think it would be entirely true to say that to me this Marker becomes a very personal thing. To all of us who know the Joy traditions & the Prairie traditions, these names & these faces which we see here today & these faces which we have seen on the Prairie in the past tell all the same story. It is very largely a personal story . . . the effect of personalities upon other personalities, the gradual molding or shaping of younger people in the way of life of their elders, but perhaps not consciously or formally, but by means of influence & example, which has running through it a sincerity, a simplicity & a forthrightness which is characteristic of the Joys.

I can see now Jim Cowdin in the Joy Prairie Church leading the choir, Milt Matthews & Thurlow Pratt in the Sunday School, & many other faces & circumstances. At a time of this sort there comes up to each of us certain experiences trivial in themselves, but which have had a tremendous influence.

I can well remember in my own case a conversation with my uncle, (Hon) John Batchelder[5] Joy, on a dark night when we walked from Chapin to Joy Prairie (four miles), because the roads were too deep in mud to make traveling possible in any other way. I remember many chance remarks dropped perhaps unknowingly, but which had a very deep influence upon the lives of many of us who are younger.

In a very direct personal sense to us, who have taken the necessary steps to assure this celebration, it is in the nature of a personal tribute not only to the Joys in tradition & the Joys in the abstract, but to those Joys whom we knew in flesh & blood on Joy Prairie.

So, the Marker it seems has three particular functions: One, to mark broadly the great movement to the westward; two, to furnish a place for the clans to gather & perhaps pledge anew a certain faith in the Joy & the Prairie tradition; & lastly, to evidence that personal debt which springs from the affection & the reverence which the younger Joys feel toward the older ones.

In a word, this Marker has seemed necessary to us. It has seemed necessary to us to express what we feel. This occasion does it. This Marker gives some permanency to our feelings & to our appreciation. So much for the function of the Marker.

Fortunately it has not been necessary for me to make either a long closely knit or well thought out speech, because we have to speak to us next a man whose contact with the Joys & Joy history extends much further back than mine. Whose ability to treat of this subject is greater, we all know, by far, than the ability of any other single individual in the group; a man without whose enthusiastic support of this idea, this celebration would not have been possible; a man whose general characteristics & knowledge together have contributed so much to so many occasions.

May I present Mr. James Richard[8] Joy, perhaps best & most familiarly known to most of us as the author of the Joy Book, "Thomas Joy & His Descendants." Mr. Joy's subject, "James[6] Joy & His Sons," is one which he can present with full & complete knowledge.

"JAMES JOY AND HIS SONS"—James Richard Joy

In James[6] Joy & his sons we have a fine example of the New Englanders who swarmed into the Great Valley a century ago, bringing with them the sturdy self-reliance, the enterprise, the integrity, the sobriety, the domestic virtues & those moral & spiritual qualities which make for true greatness in individuals & in society.

James[6] Joy was born in 1778 in Durham, N.H., a tidewater village not far from Portsmouth. Like his father before him he was a farmer as well as a blacksmith. He could trace his descent through four generations of farmers in New Hampshire & Massachusetts to Thomas[1] Joy, who had come from England to Boston in 1636, & had followed his trade as carpenter & builder in that town with such success that he has been called the first New England architect.

Above his grave in the ancient burial ground in Hingham, Mass., is a marker placed there a few years ago by his distinguished kinsman, the late Henry Bourne[8] Joy, of Detroit. (The original gravestone stands beside a new one of granite.)

The 17th & 18th century Joys were a race of self-respecting, hard-working farmers, blacksmith & shipwrights.

When he was 24, James met one day on a bridge the girl who was to be the mother of his sons. She was Sarah Pickering, the daughter of a prosperous farmer in the adjoining town of Newington, descended from John Pickering, a pioneer who landed at Portsmouth in 1633.

Three days after her twenty-first birthday they were married, & the Joy Family, as we know it, was founded. James[6] is remembered as being a small man, of active body, strong, clear intellect & resolute will. Though his schooling was slight, he read much in the best literature. Many of his books, good editions of standard English and American histories, biographies & Biblical commentaries, have been preserved & bear witness to the bent of his mind.

He was a man of untiring industry & of sufficient imagination & courage to enable him to make a new start when he met with difficulties. In industry he was well matched by his wife. She had to plan & work for a family of twelve sons & daughters. It is believed that both were short of stature & that Sarah was of the livelier wit. James[6] was of light complexion, with blue eyes & sandy,—not to say reddish—hair, a coloring which in some sections is accounted as characteristic of the Joys.

Soon a little John Pickering[7] was playing about the village smithy, watching his father shape the iron on the anvil & nail the shoes on the hoofs of the horses & oxen.

In eighteen years nine Joy babies were born in Durham—too many for one man to feed & clothe by hammering iron. So James[6] branched out. He started a shipyard on the Great Bay & prospered for a time, until the Napoleonic Wars, Jefferson's Embargo & the Second War with England wrecked the American shipping trade.

So in 1818, being then past forty, the Joys moved inland to Pittsfield in the Merrimac Valley. The "Capt. John Cram Farm" was bought with its mill privilege & a scythe factory was begun, in which "J. Joy & Sons" made all sorts of edge-tools from imported iron & steel. The "Sons" were John Pickering[7] & Charles[7]. (James Frederick[7] was already in school getting ready for Dartmouth, where he graduated at the head of his class in 1833. He was destined for the law, which he practiced in Detroit, becoming one of the leaders in the construction & operation of the Western railroads.)

In addition to the tool shop, the Joys were instrumental in locating a cotton mill in Pittsfield in 1827, which is still in operation (1938), James Joy becoming the first "Agent" of the corporation. The leading man in the village, he was instrumental in founding the local Academy, for the day of the high school had not yet dawned.

But, once more, economic trouble crossed his path. The panic of 1836-38 slowed business & turned the thoughts of many in the older states to the new opportunities which were opening for farmers in the Mississippi Valley, now being made accessible by canals, improved highways & steamboat navigation on the Great Lakes & Western rivers. In that Land of Promise lands were cheap & level fields were free from the stones the very sight of which gave Yankee farmer boys the backache. "Go West, Young Man" was an irresistible slogan.

Therefore in the Spring of 1838 James[6] Joy, just turned 60, with his son Charles[7], half his age, set out for Illinois to spy out the land & learn for themselves whether the "boom" stories had substantial foundation.

What led them to Morgan County we do not know. But Jacksonville, Ill., was already a center of some importance, eclipsing Chicago. The New England newspapers, especially the Congregational Press, which the Joys doubtless eagerly read, had carried stories of the "Yale Band" of missionaries & of Illinois College, a little Yale, which a Beecher—brother of Henry Ward & Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe— & others had founded. Churches & schools made that town seem like home to these church-going Yankees. All we know for certain is that they did come to Jacksonville, viewed the prairie with amazement & delight & by the end of May, 1938, were buying land.

They were not the first on the scene, but they bought of the pioneers. From John G. Millen they acquired the first 118 acres—the soil on which we are now assembled—for $2,000.00; Joseph Duncan sold them a neighboring "forty" for $110.00; from Austin Brockenbro' for $3,168.00 they obtained 551 acres. To these they soon added other parcels, aggregating some 1,200 acres, two square miles.

As soon as the slow-moving mails reached Pittsfield, N.H., the migration began. Household goods were shipped to St. Louis by way of New Orleans & the Mississippi River steamboats. John Pickering[7], his wife Judith Pilsbury Batchelder & son Lyman Frederick[8], together with his brother Richard Pickering[7], aged 26 & unmarried, set out by light two-horse wagon, with three trunks on the rack.

They were a month on the road, going from Buffalo to Detroit by Lake Erie steamer & in the dearth of inns, usually putting up at private houses.

Soon after their arrival on the Prairie, James[6] & his son Charles[7] returned to New Hampshire, where Charles[7] had a date with Georgiana E. A. Batchelder, Judith's sister.

For a few weeks the (Prairie) Joys boarded at Mr. Millen's crowded cabin, but by November 1838 moved into their own log house, the one whose site we mark today.

They also began to build the frame house of two stories, which was to be the home of John Pickering[7], his son & grandson.

The sisters Judith & Georgiana kept house in the first cabin, doing all the work for a household, which—with carpenters & farm help—sometimes numbered a score of hungry men. They had a vegetable garden & the New Hampshire flower seeds soon brightened the dooryard with familiar flowers. The transplanting of New England was well begun & the women were doing their full share.

In November 1838, soon after moving into this cabin, & before the arrival of the second contingent, Richard Pickering[7]—my own father—wrote two letters which have come down to us.

Miss Mary Joy, Pittsfield, N.H. Nov. 12, 1838
My Dear Sister Mary:

I was surprised & very agreeably in receiving a letter from you. I suppose you want to have my first letter & you shall, although I promised it to Sarah. It is very rainy today, but we are comfortable, sheltered from the storm in a better house than you have any idea. I will not describe it. We did not get possession of it until last Monday. We have been boarding with old Mr Melin four weeks in a log house with but two rooms—sixteen of us when all were there, besides half a score of cousins from Kentucky. But enough of that. We have got home & are all well, contented & happy. I am well pleased with the country thus far, but I may not like it so well when that tall mud you talk so much about at the East makes its appearance. It has been very dry here this fall; the roads have been very good. I have been to St. Louis after our things. Had a very pleasant time. It is 100 miles. Went in five days & brought one ton with our little horses. They are better than any of the "Sucker" horses. Saw Jonathan Curtis; he has left his school & is now clerk on board the steamboat Ark. He is well & was coming home in the spring. John Carroll & Roland are in St. Louis, but did not see them. St. Louis is a very handsome city. It is half as large as Boston, with many handsome churches & public buildings. The streets are straight & wide; they are crowded with carts & wagons & the wharves lined with steamboats.

I have traveled through many towns in Illinois, but find none so well laid off, so healthy, so well supplied with churches & Christian people as Jacksonville (Ill.). It is surrounded by the most beautiful country I ever saw. Neighbor Strawn is one of the largest farmers in this country He has this season 150 acres of corn, besides his wheat & oats, has 300 hogs, 150 head of cattle & 20 horses. The way he does up farming is a caution to a Yankee, as the "Suckers" say.

I suppose it looks a great ways to you—from Pittsfield to Illinois; but if you were here it would not be so far to Pittsfield. It seems as though we were but a little way apart. I can almost see you & hear you talk & laugh, about our log house. But could you see us & hear us talk you would think we were as happy as you.

I suppose all remains about the same as when we left, Calvin in his store with plenty of customers, Charles has done his day's work & come up to talk about the West; I hope Sylvester's health is better; hope you are all well, Father, Mother, Maria & all.

Frederick has told you strange things about the sickness in Illinois; but you may just tell him to come down into Morgan County, & he can get corn meal to make his gruel. It has been an uncommonly sickly season in this country; but the sickness has been confined to the river towns. There has been very little sickness on the prairies except the chills & they are not much feared here. They have medicine here that will kill it in three days. Judith has had the fever & ague. It lasted about one week; had two chills. She said she never had such a shaking in her life. She is well now. I believe she took the ague in Michigan or Indiana. We found some sick there in almost every house. Some nights we had to sleep in the room with the sick & almost in the same bed. But after we left the little sunken ponds of Michigan & Indiana, crossed the Illinois River & traveled twenty miles we found it more healthy. If I could see you, I should tell you more. Write me all the news, everything that has happened & how you all get along at home.—write soon. Burn this as soon as read.

Your brother Richard.

My dear Sister Sarah: Mary has got the start of you. She wrote & I had to answer her first. Now I will write a few lines to you. We are situated 6 miles from Jacksonville (Ill.) on a prairie ten miles long, top soil 3 feet deep. It looks like a large field covered with grass as high as my head, with here & there a grove of timber with a neat log-cabin in it & a large field of corn by the side. I like it very well here. Our greatest disadvantage is being so far from town & from meeting. But it is only an hour's ride with a Yankee horse—two with a "Sucker" horse. I will give you the history of our journey in my next. I will only say I called on Mr J B Niles; found him sick with the bilious fever. He was getting better; inquired about his trees, sends his best wishes to all the Pittsfield folks for their prosperity.

Your affectionate brother Richard.

Tell father corn is higher than we expected; it is 25 cents pr bushel; pork $5 pr hundred; potatoes $1 pr bu., wheat .87, flour $8 pr barrel; oats 25 cents pr bushel; butter 20 cents. It can truly be said that this land flows with milk & honey for we have had it every meal; plenty of hogs here. Mr. Melin shot one the other day & dressed it. Sent us one ham. Said he asked nothing for that much.

Mr. Millen has spent two months looking for a farm & has not bought one. He has hired one of Clay, two miles this side of town. He was loath to leave the farm—said he had sold too cheap. He says if he had it back again, no money would buy it. John has entered 160 acres of land, 80 for father & 80 for himself. We took a ride Saturday to see the wood lot on Indian Creek. Crossed the "barrens," the poor land so-called. But the grass was as high as my head when sitting on the horse. No such grass in New Hampshire.

Mr. Millen says if Father had come out here 6 years ago, he would have had a right smart chance to make a heap of good buyings.

Dear Sarah: Write me all the news; what you talk about, how pleasant you all get along, what you think of us out here in this land of plenty.

(Postage was 25 cents. This was before postage stamps were in use.)

Notes by Mary Pearce Joy Cullimore on Joy Prairie; not part of speech, but included here:

"There was a log cabin of one room with loft overhead where Mother & Father (Charles & Georgianna) & Uncle John & Aunt Judith with little son, Lyman, came to live when arriving on Joy Prairie.

Grandfather Joy & his son Calvin came out the year before & bought the land & built the cabin. They returned to New Hampshire.

The two brothers & their wives lived in the cabin while building the large house where Charlie now lives. There were 14 workmen building this new house & they, with their families, slept in the loft in the log cabin. This was partitioned off with curtains for the 19. Georgiana & Judith did the cooking & serving of meals & receiving guests (though this was the only house on Joy Prairie then) in the room below. They had a fine vegetable garden & of course the men of the family attended to that. Georgiana & Judith had a flower garden.

The families immediately became charter members of the Congregational Church in Jacksonville ten miles distant & drove in in the double carriage every Sunday to church.

In later years—14 at least—I remember as a little girl sitting on the front seat of the carriage with father & going in to church & enjoying the long ride, he always stopping to pick me some red haws on the way. My pretty hat I so well remember with rosettes of lace & blue ribbon covering my ears & tied under my chin. There were my four older brothers but I do not remember them in church, but I do know they were devoted to me, their only sister.

One day, it was Monday, Georgiana & Judith had callers from Jacksonville; Mrs F O King & Mrs Bancroft came out the ten miles on horseback & as it was washday, there was no cake in the house. (Afterwards when my home was in Jacksonville & Dr Cullimore practiced there, these most estimable ladies were my friends.) They came early & when mother (Georgiana) realized that she had no cake to serve them with a cup of tea, she said to her sister Judith, "You go out & show the ladies the garden." While they were out she stirred up a cake & had it in the oven when they returned. The cake was soon done & the ladies were served tea & cake & no doubt stood the ten miles back on horseback much better.

This was the first year on the prairie. I only know this about their trips west.

Calvin when he went with Grandfather, returned (to NH) on horseback died soon after. You will find all this in the Joy book.

I have learned here (California) from a Mrs Joy I met here at the University of California that the Joys built the Erie Canal—??

When your Grandmother & Father left the log cabin they went over beyond Jacksonville to live—at the time that Uncle John & Aunt Judith moved into the house now lived in by Charley. They lived there about five years, during which no children were born. Mother found time hanging heavily on her hands, so she got some silk worms somewhere, fed them on mulberry leaves & spun the silk, several skeins, that I have, or did have, for many years, beautiful white silk. I never saw better. Then they (my parents) moved to Joy Prairie & built the home there on the farm where John & Alice lived afterward & where my four brothers & I were born. The first one, James in 1843, John in 1848, Fred in 1849, & Edwin in 1854. I am beginning to think a mistake was made in my date so wont put it down—as I have changed it—putting it ahead ten years at Rosemary's suggestion.

The first I knew of Uncle John's house was when Aunt Jane, his third wife, lived there & you remember her. That is all I know."

Continuation of speech by James Richard[8] Joy:

In March 1839 Charles[7] Joy married Judith's sister Georgiana, as I have said & came out with his father & brother, Calvin[7], who had kept a store in Pittsfield NH. Calvin could not stand the change of climate. His health broke & he went back to Pittsfield, where he died Christmas Day 1839.

Probably this had something to do with James[6] Joy's change of plan. He had expected to pull up all his stakes in New England & settle on the Prairie with his entire family around him, except James Frederick[7], who graduated from Dartmouth 1833 & was starting law practice in Detroit. Richard Pickering was recalled to NH, spending six (6) weeks in the saddle.

In 1840 James[6] sold his Pittsfield holdings & moved to Holderness NH, where he bought the fine farm of Chief Justice Arthur Livermore, across the Pemigewassett River from the thriving village of Plymouth. This farm he & Richard Pickering[7] operated until his removal to Groton, Mass., about 1856, where he died in July 1857, his devoted wife following him eighteen months later. In their later years they had been tenderly cared for by their two unmarried children, Richard Pickering[7] & Hannah[7]. A daughter, Mary Joy[7] Pearce, wife of John Pearce, lived in nearby Boston.

Meanwhile another brother, Sylvester[7], who was a boy of 16 when the trek to the West began, had become a man. In 1845 he joined his elder brothers, John[7] & Charles[7], in Morgan County, where he married Charlotte Pratt, another daughter of New England, & founded the third of the Joy Prairie families. Charles[7], who had lived on a farm "over beyond Jacksonville" at first, had now come to live on Joy Prairie. There the three families were raised, now pretty well dispersed in the course of four generations "from sea to shining sea."

Here my part of the story ends. The Joys were by no means the only New Englanders who came to this section a century ago, nor would their descendants claim that they were in any respect superior to their neighbors, or different from them. Probably their name was applied to this Prairie because there were so many of them, growing up here at the same time. Moreover there is something about the name itself which makes for contentment and happiness. So it has clung to this goodly spot for a hundred years. It is my prophecy & hope that the modest monument which we inaugurate today will help to perpetuate the name of Joy Prairie as long as its bronze & granite endure.

* * * * *

Mr. Cullimore introduced Mr. Harold Pratt[9] Joy, as follows, who accepted the Marker:

In securing this stone from its resting place in the New Hampshire Joy Homestead & bringing it to the Prairie & in the placing of the plate upon it & the arrangements for this ceremony, all the Joys have joined hands.

When we leave here, the stone & the Marker will remain in the custody of the Joys on the Prairie. We hope it may be a source of some gratification & a source of inspiration to them.

The Joy tradition is not dead on the Prairie. It has been carried on through the last generation & is still actively alive.

I am going to ask Mr. Harold Pratt[9] Joy of my own generation & a present leader on the Prairie, to say a few words concerning the monument from the point of view of those in whose care it now is.

THE ACCEPTANCE — Harold Pratt[9] Joy

I am afraid that this will be pretty much of an anticlimax for me, a farmer, to continue this program, after you have listened to two public speakers.

It seems, more from a matter of elimination than anything else, that it has fallen to my lot, on behalf of the residents of Joy Prairie, to say a few words of appreciation in accepting this Marker which has been placed at the site of the first cabin of our ancestors, who came here 100 years ago to make their homes & after whom this community was named.

We want you to know that we do greatly appreciate the interest that you all have taken & the effort many of you have made to be present & help in the dedication of this memorial. Especially do we appreciate what Mr. James Richard[8] Joy has done & his effort in making this rather arduous trip, that he might be present & the fine talk he has given us this afternoon. This occasion, indeed, would have been quite incomplete without him.

Someone has said, "My—but it must have taken a lot of courage for these brothers to make this 1,000 mile trip in a carriage with a team of horses." No doubt this did take a great deal of courage & even though most of us would not have the courage to do the same thing now, there is, without question, just as much need for courage today, but perhaps of a little different brand, in order to meet squarely the ever changing problems of the present day. Transportation has ceased to be a major problem today, but in these changing times we do have other & perhaps more complex problems & it requires just as much courage to meet them as it did those of a century ago.

I trust that this Marker may be a reminder to us of the present & future generations, that we may have the courage to meet the Challenge that it presents, to live up to all that is noble & strong in the lives of these ancestors & that this tablet may be a constant reminder to future generations to exhibit the Courage that may be necessary to meet the changing conditions that may arise in this ever changing world of ours.

It is with pleasure, Mr. Cullimore, that we accept this Marker & trust that in the years to come it may fulfill every purpose for which it was intended.

In introducing Jeanette Lorraine Joy for the unveiling, Mr. Cullimore said:

"It has seemed wise to ask one of the last generation of the Prairie Joys, to furnish the motive power for the actual unveiling.

"I therefore have the honor to present to you Miss Jeanette Lorraine[11] Joy, of the eleventh generation of Joys in America, a great-great-great grand-daughter of James[6] a great-great granddaughter of Charles[7] Joy."

The tablet was then unveiled.

Letter from James Frederick[7] Joy to his brother Sylvester[7] in Joy Prairie, Morgan County, Ill.

Oswego, Mich., Apr. 23, 1855.

My dear Brother,

I have not heard from you for some time. As I am going away again into the country to attend some courts, I write you only to remind you that I think much of you & your welfare.

I hope that your health continues good & that all things are prosperous with you. I shall probably be able to get to Jacksonville about the 12th day of May & hope to find you all very well & in good spirits.

You have doubtless been informed that Father has bought him a place at Groton (Mass) & gone there to live.

I have just heard from there—they are all well.

Father's head is about as gray as mine is, which is really turning silvery, while I doubt if the rest of you have a single white hair & yet I think I am younger than you—either of you.

I shall be absent at Dixon & Northfield all this & part of the next week, probably attending to some trials at law.

We had a murderous riot in this city (Oswego) only yesterday or rather the day before, growing out of the resistance of the German population to the Mayor's efforts to shut up the grog shops on Sunday.

A battle with fists & clubs in the forenoon & with firearms in the afternoon between the Germans & the police. Several parties were shot, some of them wounded very badly—probably mortally. The city has been under martial law ever since.

Remember me & give my love to John & Charles & their families, as yours also.

Affectionately your brother—J. F. Joy

The Hurricane---Sept. 21, 1938

—Helen Joy Lee

Our cottage on the Fort Road at Watch Hill, Rhode Island, was one of forty facing south towards the ocean. It was on a strip of sand 100 feet wide, with a concrete retaining wall, 5 feet high & 2 feet thick, towards the sea, with a concrete road along the edge of the Bay to the north.

Tues September 20th there was a good southeast wind & some surf. I had a swim, but not beyond the breakers. It seemed like the start of the usual three-day equinoctial storm.

Wed September 21st, the wind was still southwest, but stronger. About 10 a.m. Kitty Hale (Mother's secretary) & her sister said they were going to the Crompton Velvet Mill. I suggested to Marian, my daughter, 17 years old, that she go & take my car & drive back via the Dunes Club at Narragansett Pier. They left about 11 a.m.

I had been watching two lobster buoys attached to a pot which was being washed in from the lighthouse point. Just after the girls left I put on my bathing suit — waded in and pulled the whole thing onto the beach.

Eunice, age 16, had gone up town in her jalopy, but came back at noon. We had a swim. The water was quite warm. It would rain & then the sun would be out. It was very low tide & no undertow. We washed the white police dog, Tucky, under the hose; then the little yellow kitten in the sink. Eunice left about one for lunch with Genevieve Rea.

I did not see any of these people again until 9:30 the next morning in the hospital.

For my lunch I had a large dish of baked beans & stewed tomatoes—much more than I usually eat.

About two I noticed the wind was northeast & stronger. I wanted to see the surf on the East Beach. I called Eunice at the Rea house, but they had gone to Westerly to the movies, so I decided to write three letters, walk up & mail them & go on over to the East Beach. About three I started out, but the sand was blowing & cutting my legs so I returned to the house.

A man whose car was out of gas came in to telephone; when the garage man brought him the gas, I went out & gave him my letters to mail. Then I went back to call Eunice to tell her not to try to drive out the Fort Road as the wind was too strong. I got a wrong number. Then the phone went dead. The lights & radio were dead, too.

About 3:15 the wind increased to about 45 miles per hour, the rain came harder & steady. I realized it was quite a storm. I fastened the windows tight & put towels & a pan by each one.

In the bay north of the house two sail-boats, an Alden & a Herreshoff, were pulling hard at their moorings. The next time I noticed them on my round to wring towels, the Alden had capsized & the Herreshoff was dragging anchor west toward the Fort. By now I had to rush from one window to the next. The rain was even coming under the front door. I began to feel helpless to do anything against the water, so I picked up some of Marian's clothes, put them in her suitcase & fastened it, took the rag rugs off the floor onto the bed, did the same downstairs with the living room & bedroom rugs, lamps & card table.

I took a towel & went onto the back porch. With a clothespin I tied the towel out as a flag in case anyone should be coming out to look for residents. The wind was about 60 M.P.H. I could not have stood up against it. There was a five foot piece of heavy cable with an eye at each end & I thought if I did have to get out of the house I would make for the telegraph pole by the road & fasten myself to the pole with the cable & more clothesline.

I went back into the house & found that a window had broken upstairs & water was trickling down the stairs. Then a window crashed downstairs. An extra gust of wind took the big green rockers off the porch. There was an inch of water on the floor. Then there was no wind at all. Having been in two hurricanes in Florida, I realized this must be the storm center—the vacuum—& the wind would come again from another direction as suddenly as it stopped, & much stronger. I thought the storm was half over.

I went out on the front porch—the sea was flat except for the rollers, the white froth looked as if it was being stirred into a green cake mixture. The waves on the reef were breaking twice as high as the old ship's mast out there. The spray from the East Beach seemed to go as high as, & blot out, the lighthouse & coastguard station. I could see two flags there which looked the size of postage stamps; one, I suppose, was the American Flag, the other Hurricane, but I could not have recognized it even if I had known what the hurricane warning flag was.

About four o'clock the wind burst from the south, much harder than before, at about 100 M.P.H. It was all I could do to close the front door against it. Spray & sand came under the door, so that I could not do anything to keep up with it. I watched sand piles get built up on the floor. Debris that had gone to sea with the wind from the northeast began to come back & crash on the house. A piece of the roof went & water poured in just over the door. In a few minutes I was ankle deep in water. When I saw the chimney next door was flat on their roof, I put out my fire.

There was nothing to do now but wait for whatever was going to come to me & to get where I thought would be the safest place. That, I figured was the side porch. If the house collapsed I would be better able to get away. If it did not, I could go in sometime. I took my waterproof wristwatch from the mantle & put it on. I took the dog & cat into the kitchen, tied the dog to the knob inside the door, put on Eunice's reversible raincoat, & put the kitten in my pocket. Then I went out on the side porch to look things over.

I saw our 3-car garage lifted up & dropped into the bay. I had to hold on with both hands against the force of the wind. I got soaked with each wave as it went over the house. The kitchen door slammed shut behind me, the glass broke & hit my back & fell on the floor, but was quickly washed away by a wave. My coat whipped out & the kitten was blown out of my pocket & sailed away like a miniature rug. Evidently, either the glass in the front door, or the whole door, was gone.

I tried to open the rear door, but I could not, so I broke off the jagged edge of the glass & pulled the dog through onto the woodpile. There was a bottle of whiskey in the kitchen & I thought if I was going to have to sit outside for an hour or so, it would be a good idea to have a drink. Taking a log of fire wood, I used it as a battering ram, managed to get the door open, enough to drop the log in the crack. Water cascaded out a foot deep. I could not push the door open any wider, so I never got in to see the condition of the house. It was 4:20.

In my other pocket I found a bandana handkerchief & tied that on my head. I saw the porch roof on Kitty's house get folded back with the post attached & torn off the house like a piece of tablet paper. Her windows were broken & the curtains in ribbons. I watched the squares of concrete sidewalk go out with each wave, & skim into the Bay. A fifteen foot piece of porch railing came over the sea wall & hit the side of Kitty's house. My house trembled with each wave falling on it. There was a case of empty coca-cola bottles on the shelf on the porch and I thought of putting them out into the water a bottle at a time, so I would have that much less debris to contend with if I had to move. Then I decided the water would never get that bad & left them.

I turned to Tucky & said, "Well, it's just 4:30 & I wonder how much longer"—when something hit the house a terrific thud (I think it was a section of the concrete retaining wall). The wave brought the back porch down on me, dislocating my left elbow. Tucky & I, in 10 seconds, found ourselves 150 feet from where we started. I was sitting as if on a toboggan & was carried over the small wall into the road & again over the wall into the bay. I was fifty feet beyond the pole I was going to tie myself to, in water & debris to my knees. Near me were the pieces of sidewalk piled at an angle & sticking a foot out of water.

Looking back where I had come from, on the next wave I saw more of the porch & a large piece of lattice-work, coming at me. I had to think fast, so I doubled up next to the pieces of sidewalk, with my head to my knees & let the wave & lattice go over my head. When I came up for air, there was the kitten on a board ten feet away crying loudly. Where it had been for twenty minutes I don't know, unless it had come down in the bay & an eddy had brought it back.

Tucky was southwest & next to me. I undid her leash. The last I saw of her was five minutes later when she was fifty feet away & northeast of me, standing on some debris. If I had had two arms, I might have been able to help her.

The wind was 100 to 120 M.P.H. The rain & gray spray, filled with sand, came in sheets. There was much debris where I was & I decided I had better get out of the churning, shallow water. I took off the raincoat & had on only blue shorts & a short-sleeved sweater. Stumbling over rocks or concrete & hanging on with my right arm to a fallen pole, I got out into deep water. I had my back to the wind & could not see what was coming, so I tried to hang the injured arm over the pole & turn around, but I couldn't raise it that high. Somehow I managed to to get astride the pole. I saw a woman in a dark dress standing at the edge of the bay water. She was two or three houses nearer town. I do not think she was being washed in. I did not see her or anyone else again.

Up on the pole I was exposed to flying debris, so I got down into the water & hung onto the pole again. I felt something hitting me on the chest & back from under the pole. I was being wedged in between two green doors or house sides (perhaps our own garage). I could see the corner of one about an arm's length away, so took a long breath, went down, kicked hard at the bottom, luckily came up beyond the edge of the door.

All fear left me when I hit the water & had to do something to save myself. It was the half hour of total helplessness in the house that was the worst time for me.

I was hanging on to something in the water & began to talk to myself, thinking aloud, "Well, this is really a hurricane & you are out in it. You have been washed into the bay & gotten this far OK, so you might as well see how much farther you can get. As long as you can keep afloat & conscious, you'll get to somewhere & there's no use quitting now."

Gray spray & rain made low visibility. Pieces of wood, shutters, doors & chairs were flying through the air. Some were hitting me. I saw a small porch roof, perhaps my own, right-side up, so I pushed through wreckage for about ten feet & got on the leeward side & climbed up. I had to pick up the bad arm & lay it up ahead of me, hunch up & repeat the process until I could reach the shingle edges over the peak. My feet were in the water. I just was settled when a wave capsized it & I went under. I put my right arm over my head, coming up, for protection against the nails, but I came up in an open space—next to my pole.

A piece of a house (10′ x 20′) came along; there were two holes where windows had been. The edge was jagged & it buckled in the waves & I could not get on it. I was having a hard time getting my breath against the rain. I was about ready to give up, when a piece of house (6′ x 8′) came by & I crawled onto that; it was like a surf board. This was pretty exposed. As I came up the side of a wave, a board like bookcase shelf hit me across the left eye. The roof came back upside down, ceiled at the end toward the storm, so I crawled into that & lay in the water at the bottom of the V. I stayed in this a long time. I could get my breath better by holding my hand over my nose & mouth. Also, the flying debris struck the roof first & only me second. (However, my head & face were so cut & bruised that I could not stand to have my hair touched for four days in the hospital.)

There was a book lying open on the water, the pages turning back & forth, that kept circling my roof—or may be I was spinning around. My bandana had gone. It was getting darker. A mattress came along that seemed to be moving faster than I was, so I changed steeds, pushing through all manner of wreckage. The mattress was very comfortable for my bad arm. As I lay on the mattress I thought I must be a good caricature of Alfred Lunt in the Prologue of "Amphitryon 38" when he is floating on a cloud. I would have stayed on the mattress, but part of a boat came along faster, so I changed again. There was about two feet left of the port side, but most of the starboard & some of the bottom; it offered protection from flying debris, too & I lay in that.

I knew the tide was low at noon, so would be going out again about 6:30 & if I did not get to land I might get washed past Stonington & out to sea. Luck was with me—shortly after I got into the boat, I heard a different scratching & looking, I saw I was going over some bushes. (They are 10 feet above the usual water level.) Soon my boat stopped & debris began piling up against it.

Hanging my feet over the edge of the boat, lying on my stomach, I hunched myself backward. I discovered land under my feet, but the water was up to my shoulders.

It was just 6:30 & black night. The wind was still strong, debris flying & it was raining. I pushed through wreckage toward higher ground & ran into a tree. Somehow I got up on a branch which was just at the water level & winding my legs & one arm around the tree, I clung there until 8 p.m. In that hour & a half I must have dozed.

I discovered then the water had gone down so that my feet just touched it. I climbed down & found only a foot of water. The wind & rain had stopped. My eyes smarted & on opening & closing them I learned that what I thought was fog was, instead, a film on my eyes. When it cleared for a second I could see the stars & later the moon. I could not see long enough at a time to find any familiar landmarks, so I thought I had better stay where I was.

I grabbed two passing shingles, sat on one & put the other between my back & the tree & leaned on it to keep my back warm. I pulled my bad arm inside my sweater & hung my hand into my belt. I had been too busy until now to look at my arm & now it was too dark to see it.

I reached up for what I thought were leaves, but which turned out to be rough dunes grass caught in the tree. I stuffed some in the neck of my sweater, put some on my bare legs, dug a hole for my feet in the mud, added grass & then put my head on my knees. As I sat there I thought: "I'm alive & safe, & I want the children to know I'm all right." I repeated this many times & then dozed off.

At intervals I made myself get up, stretch, call out—mainly to keep warm—& slap myself. At midnight the water was gone, only mud remaining. I was awake for quite a while & had to think of something different, so I wondered what I would do if a skunk came along—& suppose it was followed by six little skunks. In fact, I could see myself sitting frozen while they walked around & smelled me. Luckily, I dozed again.

At 4 A.M. I could see again clearly. The stars were out. I recognized the two Stonington breakwater flashing lights. I could hear the surf pound on the beach two miles away. By the lights I laid out my walking course—keeping them to my right & a little behind me—aiming at the Westerly River (or so I hoped). My knees were weak & stiff at first. It had been so hard for me to get up this time that I thought I'd better get moving. I think a long piece of baseboard was my staff. (When I finally got a look at it in daylight, I saw two long nails sticking through at knee height, but apparently they never scratched me.)

I set out at 4 am, in the dark, with water & grass to my knees. I kept as near the border of scrub trees as I could, hoping to find a break through to higher ground. I found all kinds of debris. I walked across the whole light-colored side of a house. I located one large pine tree for a guide. I came to a stone wall & tried to follow it, but the brush, wild roses & poison ivy were too thick. I had to return to my pine tree. In the course of an hour & a half I walked slowly but steadily at least two miles. I stepped off into three ditches up to my shoulders, ran into many bushes. I still called for help, occasionally.

It was not light yet, but I could see large bunches of black clouds in the east against the sky, toward which I was walking. Suddenly I heard water gurgling; I had just fallen into & crawled out of my third ditch. With much effort I could see the grass line marking the crooked outline of the ditch. By following this I found a stone slab where the water was going over & under it. I was going to follow the ditch line to the bay or river, when I discovered a dim road across the "bridge." Thinking this would lead to someplace, I decided to follow it. It was 5:30 & just gray enough so I could see the trail.

I had to climb the bank five times around fallen trees, crawling among the thorns & bushes & back to the road again. A house loomed ahead against the brightening sky. Thinking I looked pretty awful & not wanting to scare the people, I stopped & called out—no answer—for the house was closed & the barn flat on the ground. I sat down on the front doorstep & tried in vain to find any familiar landmark.

I followed the road again, went around five more trees—the first of which, a huge oak, was across the stone gateway & fence to the house I had passed. To get over the fence I had to knock down about ten feet into a V low enough to get over, hoping that no stone would fall the wrong way onto my feet. A bird, probably a pheasant, whirred away. Then a rooster crowed. The sun was nearly up. I couldn't believe it possible that, at last, I was near some people. Around a bend in the road appeared a small house with smoke coming out of the chimney. Again I stopped & called out for help. I sat on a wooden platform around the water pump.

I heard a woman say, "Uncle Fred, do you hear anyone calling for help?" Then, "Uncle Fred, do you see anyone?"

"Uncle Fred" appeared about thirty-five feet away from me & just stood & looked at me.

I said, "I've been in a little trouble." He "came to" & asked where I'd come from. I said I'd been on Fort Road, thought I was in Connecticut & could he get me to the Westerly Hospital.

He said, "But how did you get way up here?"

I told him I had been walking since 4 am & asked him what time it was.

He said, "Just 6:30."

My watch stopped at 6:10. Then he asked me to come into his niece's house. The sun shone just as I got to the door. I sat in a chair by the big iron stove & shook from nerves.

The niece came from the bedroom next to me, took one look & gasped. She asked if I wanted anything. I said that hot coffee would help.

"Uncle Fred" got busy with that & she returned to the bedroom to dress two small girls, about two & four years old.

When they came out of the room behind me, they huddled into a chair in the corner & looked shyly at me. I thought they were bashful with strangers. The niece said they belonged in the closed house I had passed & that she took care of them in the daytime, while the parents worked in Stonington. She had kept them all night as the parents had not been able to return as yet.

"Uncle Fred" went back to his house a half a mile away & spread the news to his neighbors that something had been washed up in the storm & had arrived at the niece's house. Then about eight people came in, looked, gasped at my scratches & went out.

After about an hour I stopped shaking. Then "Uncle Fred" came back & said that in about fifteen minutes he could take me to the hospital if I could walk another half mile. Then in came the father of the children. My back was to the door, & as he came around me, he stopped & said, "My God, look at them shiners!"

This was news to me, so I said, "Have I a shiner?"

"Ain't nobody told you?"

I said, "No" & he gave me a mirror. My shiner was a complete black mask over both eyes, my nose was swollen, my left eye closed, my jaw on the right side was swollen & black, & I had scratches all over.

Mrs. Fred Greenwood had offered me dry clothes, but I preferred to let mine dry on me, which makes less chance of catching cold. She insisted that I borrow a heavy blanket bathrobe. Something for my feet was a problem. Finally a pair of "Uncle Fred's" wool socks went on, but no shoes were large enough.

"Fred, take off those sneakers."

He had been out since midnight helping clear the roads. He took off the sneakers, put on his leather shoes. The sneakers just went on my feet, but wouldn't tie. I had to borrow a handkerchief, as the light hurt my one eye. We started off—Uncle Fred, with an axe to trim the fallen branches so I could get under them & the young man to assist, if needed. I still had my piece of moulding, this was when I noticed the two nails & in the hospital a 4-inch gash in my leg.

I walked half a mile, got in the brother-in-law's car & was taken on a bumpy ride of about six miles (due to having to go around trees & over people's fields) & so to the hospital.

I hadn't thought to look at my legs or arms; in the car the light hurt my eye, so I could only open it to get a quick look as Uncle Fred would say "Look at that house—or tree—or the cotton" (from the American Thread Mill. It was all over the lots & bushes, looking like snow. Their big baskets hung on trees—even blocks away from the mill.)

When we drove up to the hospital, I left the robe, shoes & socks in the car. Uncle Fred escorted me up the front steps & left me at the door. I thanked him very much. It was 8:15 A.M.

Now begins the episode of why the Howard Bucks were told by the police, when they inquired for me, that I was a raving maniac. At least this is how I would put it together if I had been a spectator, or listener to the following.

Picture a person in dirty blue shorts, a gray sweater full of holes, pieces of grass & briars still hanging to it, the black eyes, hair wild, legs the same size from above the knees down, a mass of scratches, mud, blood, bruises & deep gashes; feet so swollen the toes looked like brass tacks stuck into upholstery, with one arm inside the sweater.

I went up to the office desk & said to the girl, "I would like to see Miss Blaisdell (the superintendent) & I would like a room & a doctor."

The girl just looked at me & said she'd see if Miss Blaisdell was there. The lobby had about a dozen people in it.

A nurse came up to my right side & put her arm around my shoulders. I said, "Don't touch my left arm, it's broken."

So she backed off & suggested, "Come over here & sit down."

I said, "No, if I sit down I'll never get up."

Then a second nurse, seeing the first one was having trouble, came up with a pink blanket, & heading me down the hall, said, "Lie down here."

This was a bare army cot, with which the hall was lined, where refugees had slept that night. I said, "No, if I lie down, I know I'll never get up. I want a room & a doctor & I want to see Miss Blaisdell."

Then the nurse said, gently but firmly, feeling she had quite a problem on her hands, "What you want is to go downstairs to the Emergency Room."

"No, I don't want to go downstairs. I want to go up & I want a room & a doctor."

We were getting nearer Miss Blaisdell's room. She heard the commotion & recognized my voice. "Is that Mrs. Lee?"

"Yes," I said, "what's left of her."

The order to bring me into her room changed matters with the nurses, but not with those in the lobby who only heard my demands.

They put the pink blanket on the bed, removed my two articles of clothing (shorts & sweater). I lay down & they put the rest of the blanket over me. Miss Blaisdell asked me what doctor I wanted. I said I didn't care as long as he was a good one.

Dr. Ruisi put his head in the door & went out. Later he told me (he's known me 33 years) that he didn't recognize me—I looked so terrible.

A hypodermic was given me & two young doctors, two nurses, Miss Blaisdell & Dr. Ruisi got my arm in cotton wadding, a splint & a sling.

As each person came into the room he would gingerly pick up the blanket, look at my legs & put it down quickly.

Miss Blaisdell said they had one room on the second floor. I said, "Lead me to it."

There was a whispered consultation. She came back & said they would have to carry me up. I asked why & she said, "Well, you know we have no lights, or power. The elevator isn't working."

I told her if I had walked as far as I had, I guessed I could walk up one flight of stairs. She said that might be easier, so we started.

Picture me with one arm in a sling—the other in a hospital shirt, the empty sleeve draped toga fashion, the shirt ending where the bloody legs began, the pink blanket clutched around my neck with one good hand. Just as we got to the stairway a nurse was coming up from below. She put her hand over her face to try & hide a laugh.

I said, "Go right ahead & laugh. I know I look funny." For there were two nurses holding up the corners of my blanket to keep it off the floor & trying to keep it near enough to my back to hide my nakedness. Behind them came two young doctors, then Dr. Ruisi & Miss Blaisdell. The whole group laughed & it was, no doubt, heard in the lobby.

I got to bed & they started scrubbing my legs & right arm. When they came to my feet, one of the doctors said, "Whew, look at this!"

I asked what was wrong now & he said, "I'll have to get the tweezers, your feet are full of thorns." They pulled out over 25, with pliers!

Another doctor offered to go tell Tidge I had showed up, she came back with him.

After I had been in the hospital four days, the doctor ordered gasoline to be used to try & clean my feet. Each morning for a week the room smelled like a garage, but we finally got the layer of tough, dirty skin off & more thorns.

Barnes Newberry came to see me. He opened the door & stood there. I said, "Hello, Barnes." All he could do was say, "My God, Bournie"— & collapse in a chair.

Saturday, my left eye began to open. I said to the nurse, "What is the matter with my left eyebrow—it is hanging down in my eye!"

She said, "That's not eyebrow," that is an inch long stick of wood in the bridge of your nose. When they set your arm, they will take it out."

MARIAN LEE'S STORY

Kitty Hale, her sister Marion, at the ocean for the first time on a week's vacation & I went in the Packard to the Crompton Velvet Mills. Then we wanted to show the sights to Marion, so we headed for Narragansett & the Dunes Club, arriving there about one o'clock. The waves were not especially high, but quite choppy. White spray flew high over the rocks down the beach at the point. It was a beautiful sight, with the bay solid white caps, clouds low & heavy.

We went to the town for lunch of hot dogs and coffee. Signs were swinging, awnings flapping, stands blown over, articles scattered over the streets, shopkeepers chasing papers & vegetables. We wrote and mailed post cards. I doubt if they were ever received.

We drove on along the shore road, under the famous great ivy covered stone arch. The wind grew stronger. Ocean spray soaked the streets & summer houses along the way. It was hard to keep my eyes on the road, the waves were such an attraction. One place where the road was near the sea, the sand blowing on the car sounded like hail on a tin roof.

At Point Judith Lighthouse the waves broke over the breakwater & the spray flew high. It was so lovely we stopped to watch. By then it was two o'clock. On the road back to the main road we were going with the wind, then we turned & had it right across our path. We stopped to call on Miss Maclaren at her gift shop, as she was a friend of Kitty's. She was glad to have someone with her while the wind was so strong. It seemed unimportant to us as it was so much quieter inside than it had been on the road. I parked between two trees on the main highway on the side away from the ocean. The wind became stronger & the anemometer was whizzing so fast you could not see the cups. The lights went out. We lit our first candles.

We gradually became conscious of the noise the wind was making whistling through the window frames, flapping the shutters, whipping the trees which were scratching the house as they bent or fell. A bus driver came in from a halted bus loaded with school children on their way home. He wanted to use the telephone, which was out of order.

One of the huge pine trees had fallen in front of the house, another just behind my car & another just missed Miss Maclaren's car. We could see the headlights of cars stopped on the far side of the trees. With surprising rapidity there were state workers already clearing a single path through the trees. The lawn furniture was blown about, a big blue vase off the table, the wheelbarrow upset; an apple tree had fallen on the roof which was being blown apart. Many trees were at an angle & we expected them to fall, but they did not.

About four I was ready to start home & went out to the car. They called me back to have tea & wait for the wind to die down. We smoked, bought Christmas presents & finally left about five thirty.

The car was almost completely plastered with leaves. The wind was still strong, but not as bad as an hour earlier. It was hard to keep the car on the road. I had to head to the left to stay on at all.

The remains of Quonochontaug & then Misquamicut came into view. We saw people being blown across the ponds, hanging onto debris, with no houses left on the shore line. Then it hit all of us, "What about the Fort Road?" We began to worry about Mom & Eunice. We stopped a car to ask the best way back to Watch Hill. It was the Seeds' chauffeur. He knew I was a member of the Joy family from the red, white and blue Lincoln Highway insignia on the door. We went straight to the Westerly Road, not trying to get down by the shore road & golf course there, as it was blocked with houses & flooded. Just beyond the golf course on the Westerly Road, there was water, so we turned back & drove up the gravel road into the golf grounds. Two trucks, stuck, blocked the road. We had to drive over the course, knock down a stone wall to get back onto the road that leads past the Bitting & John Newberry homes. I was busy watching for broken wires among other things. A rowboat, belonging to King White was at the corner of Aloha Road & the Ocean Drive, just opposite the Ferguson's. Mrs. Ferguson came towards us, frantically waving her arms, asking if we had seen her son Gordon, to which we had to say no. Then Patsy Watz drove up. He was hunting for all of us. We had to walk up the road to Treasure Hill. The Thatcher's chauffeur was trying to clear the road in the rain. We looked hurriedly at the damage done my grandmother's house. The large plate glass window in the dining room had blown in, other windows on the opposite side but up stairs had blown out, frames, too. Salt water & sand had soaked & stained the walls, pictures were down or gone entirely, the drapes in ribbons. The house had swayed so that the walls were cracked in long diagonal streaks. The back steps & porch were gone, also the clothes yard. The garage doors, four inches thick, were buckled in. The lower garden & pond had been flooded & the brown water line showed two feet up on the stone wall. Dead fish were lying on the grass, as well as debris from the King White house, including a toilet up against the wall.

We headed for Bay Street & could only get to Lamphere's Garage. Water had washed debris up that far. The post office was turned a quarter around. It was misty & almost dark. We went back to Mrs. Rea's house & found Eunice had been in Westerly & had not returned yet. We learned Mom had called Eunice there about three to tell her not to try to drive down the Fort Road in the jalopy.

We followed Patsy back to Westerly as he knew the best way. We stopped at the hospital to ask if Mom had showed up & left our names & address in care of Patsy Watz. Then we went to the Police & the Red Cross & did the same, & got no more news of Mom. In Westerly we saw Mr. Larkin & Dan, who had just been brought back to town after having been washed up into a field by Stonington harbor in their sailboat. An emergency tank truck was selling gasoline & thanks to Patsy we were able to get some, which was lucky as my tank was nearly empty.

We left Marion with Ida Watz, then Patsy, Kitty & I set out again, about nine-thirty. We inquired again in vain for Mom at the Red Cross, Police & Hospital, went to Watch Hill, picked up Eunice & proceeded to call at every house where we saw a light. We had to leave the car near the Ocean House, as the road was blocked with a large section of the roof from said hotel. First we went to the Shinkle's, where we were generously offered dry clothes, food & shelter. Then we went back & down the Plimpton Hill. Every place we stopped we received the same generous offers until we came to the Narragansett Inn. There I knocked at the back door & Miss Ford opened it enough to let me push in & ask for Mrs. Lee. The rest of our group had to stay outside. The woman pushed me back to the door, turned & called out to some fifteen people in the big living room "Is Mrs. Lee here?" Happy Fenelon heard that & asked "Who's there?" I recognized his voice & barged into the room. He told me only that he knew Mom had been home at three o'clock, which was not very cheerful.

We walked on down the street. All the stores were water soaked, cars were on their sides, a boat was up on the dock, refrigerators & stoves were scattered around, the Yacht Club gone & as we found out later the forty houses on the Fort Road.

We took Eunice back to Rea's & returned to the Westerly Police station. We saw the red sky towards New London, which was their big fire.

The stars were out & it was calm, showing no trace of the earlier terror. At the Police station we found Gordon & I drove him back to Mrs. Ferguson at Watch Hill. It was midnight. Kitty & Patsy stayed at headquarters to get any news of Mom. On my way back to Westerly a lone truck stopped me & asked if I was going to Police headquarters to please report that part of the Cyril Moore family, Mrs. Moore and daughter, Mary, had come across the Bay on a roof & were being brought safely back to town as soon as possible. (This was how many of the cases were reported.)

Picking up Patsy & Kitty we went home & had a snack before turning in, at two A.M.

The next morning I had just finished a nice breakfast when about eight thirty Dr. Kenyon came to tell me Mom had turned up at the hospital. I left the message for the others when they came in again & went on with the doctor.

When I walked in Mom's room, the doctor was holding up a badly bruised & scratched right arm & painting it with an orange solution. She had two black eyes & a left arm in a sling. If she had not spoken to me I would hardly have recognized her.

Back in the large room at the town hall the Red Cross had set up tables & lists of "Known Dead" & "Missing" were being made up. Kitty checked all our names off the missing list. A girl came in to ask about her mother & was told her body had been found & was in the temporary morgue across the street in the old high school building.

CCC & volunteers were clearing the streets. Everyone was giving in every way to help those who were unfortunate. Anyone not in the vicinity at the time could never get even a vague picture of what happened.

EUNICE LEE'S STORY

The morning of the Hurricane, Mom & I went swimming, but stayed very near shore. We washed the dog & cat, and then I dressed to go to lunch with Genevieve Rea. I took the Jalopy and as Tidge had Mom's car, Mom was left on Fort Road without means of transportation.

After lunch at Genny's we asked permission to go to the movies, but Mrs. Rea suggested that we stay outdoors & go in the evening; so Genny & I went clamming at the beginning of Fort Road, near the Yacht Club. At that time the wind was rather strong & I wanted to get my coat from our cottage, but decided it would be too much trouble. The wind grew quite strong & the sand cut our faces, but we were determined to have some clams. Then Genny's brother, Sam, came down & said that they had decided to go to the movies & would we like to go. We said that we would & would follow in my Jalopy. About two minutes after we started for Westerly it began to rain & had we still been clamming, we would probably have gone to our cottage or the Yacht Club & been caught in the storm. As we drove along the wind was strong enough to often push the car sideways. It was approximately 2:30 pm.

We were in the theatre for about an hour, when the lights went out. The manager said they would be fixed in half an hour. One member of our party decided not to wait & having his own car, drove back to Watch Hill. No one realized how bad the storm was until we went to the door of the theatre. Signs, roofs & boards were blowing down the street, making it very dangerous to venture outside. I tried to call Mom on the telephone, but the lines were down. We stayed in the theatre for about two hours then left in Mrs. Rea's car with Sam & Jay Atwood, concluding that my car was too light & that we should all stay together.

We tried to get through, by way of many detours, to Watch Hill but failed. The Pawcatuck River had overflowed at Westerly, the nearby streets were under water; trees & wires were down, making the roads impassible. Being unable to get anywhere near Watch Hill, we spent about an hour & a half in the Granite Street garage, on top of a hill, deciding that was the safest place. Thinking we might have to spend the night there, we bought what little food we could get, consisting of a box of Ritz crackers & a bottle of pop for each. I think we had some chocolates, too. A man offered us the use of his living room for the night if we were forced to stay & was very kind & let us use some blankets he had in his car, because it was cold & we were wearing light clothes.

About 7:15 PM we tried again to get to Watch Hill & by going out of the way quite a bit & driving very carefully, we managed to reach the outskirts. We stopped to inquire of a man & he said "Why go there, the whole place has been washed out ?"

I was getting more & more upset because Mom had such a small chance of being saved where she was & I begged to go on, although Genny was all for going back to Westerly. By this time the wind was not as strong as it had been, but was still sharp & cold. When we arrived at Rea's house finally, the maid said that Mom had called about 3 PM to tell me not to come to the cottage. That worried me all the more because I knew then that she had not left the cottage & also that Fort Road was completely wiped out. Tidge had stopped at Rea's after the storm, so I knew she was all right.

Mrs. Rea was afraid to stay there for the night, so we prepared to go back to Westerly, although I wanted to stay in Watch Hill & search for Mom. We did stay, however, & when Mrs. Rea left the house to inquire about the safety of some of her friends, Tidge came back with Kitty, & Patsy Watz. We started out together in Mom's car to search, but finding passage by automobile impossible, we abandoned the car & started on foot. We climbed over trees, wires, telegraph poles & debris & asked at every house, because we had heard that some refugees were in people's houses. Each inquiry met disappointment; no one knew anything about Mom. Finally we headed for the village, or rather what was left of it! Someone said that a captain of a boat had rescued seven people from the Fort Road. I gave a description of Mom & he said that no one fitting that description had been among those rescued.

After searching for three hours & making no headway whatsoever, they took me back to Rea's home at midnight, because Mrs. Rea had been kind enough to ask me to stay with her. I felt terrible & to top it off, we went to bed with the report that New London was on fire.

The next morning Genny & I were up early & went down to the village to look at the destruction. We heard that two women had been found on Osbrook Point & that others might be nearby. We then had to wait until 10:30 AM to obtain a car to start for the Point. On the way to Westerly we met Mr. Watz who said that Mom had been found & was in Westerly Hospital & all right. We dashed over to see her & I was almost in tears over her condition.

Thursday afternoon Genny & I helped the Marstons salvage their things from their house & cottage. While I was working in the cottage alone, with the water up to my knees, I heard a weird sound & got a little excited. I went about my work & the sound was repeated a few more times. Then I remembered they had searched for their large sheep dog that morning. I climbed out a window & walked in filthy water, that came over my waist, to the room from which the sound came. I broke through a screen & discovered the dog, frightened & hungry, surrounded by the furniture piled every which way. The room was filled with water, the air in the room was so sickening that I could not keep my head inside for any length of time. Afraid that the dog would be a little mad with hunger and fright, I had to be careful to make friends with him first. I pushed the furniture around to make a bridge for him to walk on. He was so weak that I had to pick up his huge paws & place them one after the other, as if walking. That proved unsuccessful, for each time he pulled back in fear. Finally the chauffeur came in a rowboat & coaxed the dog out, much to my relief.

I stayed with the Reas for four days, until they left. During this time Genny & I helped the Red Cross by running errands in Mom's car. By this time the National Guardsmen were stationed along the main highways & we had to obtain special passes to travel between Watch Hill & Westerly.

Monday we packed my car in readiness for the trip back to New York. When Genny & I wanted to go to Westerly to see Mom, we found that we needed a personal salvage pass to get through the lines. Mrs. Spencer, the head of the Watch Hill Red Cross Branch, took me to the Lieutenant & even he refused, so finally we went back to the Rea's house & Mr. Rea forged a pass & we went through the lines. When we came back we had to unpack the car in order to take the Reas to the station in New London.

That night I stayed with the Howard Bucks in Watch Hill. A soldier helped me pack the car again because it was necessary to have an authority on guard to see that I took only my belongings.

That evening, Monday, September 26, I wanted to go to the movies in Westerly & in order to get through the lines before & after the movie, I would have to find the same soldier & then wake him upon my return, so to simplify matters, I took him along, much to his delight, because life was getting monotonous for him. Of course, the Bucks & I went over the matter very carefully before I was allowed to go with him. After dinner at the Buck's cottage, I stopped for the soldier & we went to the movies. I was rather worried, though, at the thought of driving home alone with a strange man—but I might add that he turned out to be a very nice man whose profession was chemistry & that he was married. Because of so many looters & strange people in the district, the Bucks made me promise to return to their cottage first, before returning the soldier to his quarters, so I wouldn't have to drive back alone.

That night we were scared to go to bed (Mrs. Buck didn't admit it at the time, but when we met some time later she did) because in the afternoon three strange men came up to the cottage & asked for a drink of water. We concluded that if the soldier had not been there they had intended to rob us, but upon seeing him they had settled for a drink of water. I was rather isolated from the Bucks because my room was across the living room & seemed miles away. Of course, the wind was still blowing & made weird sounds & I imagined the sea was rising & that it was another hurricane. I think I must have scared myself so that I sank off to sleep from exhaustion.

The next morning we said goodby to Mom, who was still in the hospital & I drove Mom's car to New York.

Incidentally, upon a return trip to Watch Hill later in the fall, we were directed to the man who had found our dog's body, he sent us to the man who had buried her & who gave us her collar.

Eunice Lee.
